City's general fund outlay below 1972

Appropriations totaling $1,121,716 were approved by Washington City Council at its regular meeting Wednesday night.

The total included $451,985 appropriated from the general fund, down $61,382 from last year.

The money ordinance passed Wednesday is for 1973 and includes the temporary appropriations passed in December to cover operations of the city for the first three months of this year.

An additional $7,100 was allocated for administrative support for security of persons and property.

The Fire Department this year is being funded with general federal revenue sharing monies totaling $99,904, plus a voted fire levy which will produce $51,475.

THE GENERAL FUND appropriation for executive and administrative expenses totals $138,087. This group classification includes salaries and office expenses of the city manager, auditor, solicitor, elections, and lands and buildings. The general governmental services appropriation from the general fund totals $176,788 and includes expenditures for City Council and Municipal court.

Major crime shows drop during 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first decrease in serious crime in 17 years has been reported by the FBI in its Uniform Crime Reports for 1972, although the agency said rapes and murders increased.

Crimes classified as serious were down by 3 per cent overall. FBI records show that the last measurable decrease in crime was 2 per cent, in 1957.

"This is the day that we have been looking forward to for many years," said Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst. "It is an important milestone in the fight to reduce crime and is directly attributable to the strong efforts of law enforcement officers throughout the nation to turn back the wave of crime that rolled up in the 1960s."

Forcible rape, however, was up 11 per cent for the year. Murders increased by 4 per cent and aggravated assault by 6 per cent. But a 4 per cent decrease was recorded for robberies, which make up the largest number of crimes in the violent category.

The report, released by FBI Acting Director L. Patrick Gray III, said that crimes of violence increased by 1 per cent, down from a 9 per cent increase the previous year.

Decreases in the number of serious crimes were reported by 94 major cities in 1972. This compared with 53 cities in 1971, 22 in 1970, and 17 in 1969.

An average decrease of 7 per cent was reported for cities with more than 100,000 population. Suburban areas, however, showed an increase of 2 per cent, but this was less than an 11 per cent increase in 1971.

In rural areas, crime rose by 4 per cent, compared to a 6 per cent increase the previous year.

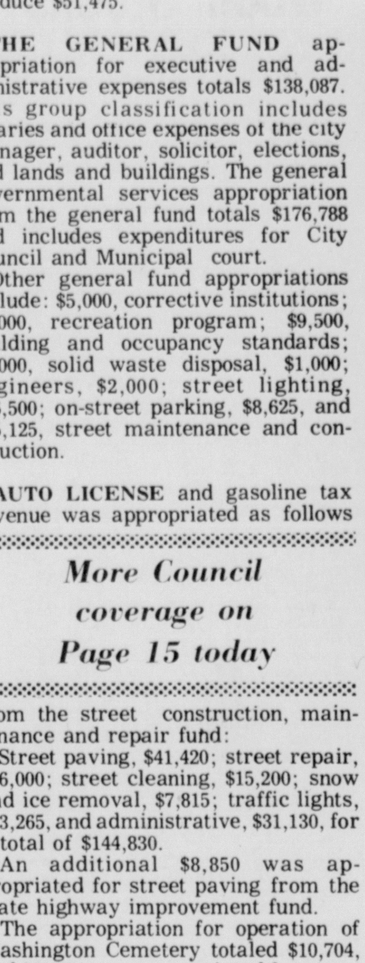

Crimes against property were down 3 per cent, compared with a 6 per cent increase in 1971. Auto theft dropped by 7 per cent, larceny of $50 and over declined 3 per cent, and burglary showed a 2 per cent drop.

The FBI's Uniform Crime Reports are a compilation of police statistics that are supplied by local, county and state law enforcement agencies.

Cambodian bombing to continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson, contending President Nixon is acting within his constitutional powers, indicates U.S. warplanes will pound Communist targets in Cambodia until a cease-fire is declared there.

Richardson accused the Communist side Wednesday of failing to carry out provisions of the Paris agreement requiring withdrawal of all foreign forces from Cambodia.

McCord implicates Dean, Magruder

Link Mitchell to Watergate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Quoting Senate sources, The Washington Post said today that James W. McCord Jr. testified he was told former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell approved plans to wiretap Democratic national headquarters.

The Post said McCord, a convicted Watergate conspirator, testified Wednesday that his information came from G. Gordon Liddy, a former White House aide who has been described as chief organizer of the wiretap operation.

McCord testified that Liddy told him Mitchell approved plans and budget for the operation in February 1972, while he was still attorney general, the sources said.

McCord testified before a special Senate committee investigating the Watergate operation. But the committee would say only that he gave "a great deal of information on a wide range of subjects."

The Post story said:

"According to the sources, McCord indicated that he knew of additional illegal wiretaps but would not discuss them with the Senate Watergate committee unless he is granted immunity from further prosecution.

"McCord also said that he had been told by Liddy and former White House consultant E. Howard Hunt Jr., another conspirator, that presidential Counsel John W. Dean III and former White House assistant Jeb Stuart Magruder had advance knowledge of the bugging operation, according to the sources."

The Post quoted the same sources as saying McCord told of receiving second-hand information that Charles W. Colson, at the time a special counsel to President Nixon, had advance knowledge of the burglary-wiretapping operation.

Spokesmen for Mitchell, Dean, Magruder and Colson have denied in the past that any of the four had any advance knowledge about the Watergate case.

While McCord was testifying before the Senate committee, Hunt, with immunity from further prosecution, was meeting with a federal grand jury. Hunt was called back today for a third day of testimony.

The grand jury and the committee are after similar information: the circumstances surrounding the bugging of Democratic headquarters and other political espionage, if any, during last year's presidential campaign.

Hunt, McCord and four Cubans who pleaded guilty in the bugging and burglary await sentencing. The seventh defendant, Liddy, was sentenced to at least six years and eight months in prison.

In his grand jury appearance Wednesday, Hunt refused to answer six questions on grounds of possible self-incrimination. He was taken before U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica and ordered to testify—gaining immunity in the process.

An indication that the government seeks to go beyond the June 17, 1972, Watergate breakin came in one of the questions propounded to Hunt in the jury room.

"Besides Thomas Gregory, was there anyone else you ever recruited for the purpose of engaging in spying on Democratic candidates for office—national or local—or in other illegal activities such as burglary or attempted electronic surveillance?" Hunt was asked.

Gregory was a Brigham Young University student who testified at the trial that he was recruited to spy on the presidential campaigns of Sens. George McGovern and Edmund S. Muskie.

Hunt's reply, as read to Judge Sirica: "I will decline to answer the question

ROAST BEEF ANYONE? — Sabina firemen attempt to douse a few remaining sparks in the cab of a semi-rig, loaded with boneless beef, which overturned and burned on I-71, just north of the Green County line, early Thursday. Sheriff's deputies said the truck driver, David P. Fryman, 28, Cincinnati, apparently fell asleep at the wheel. Loss was expected to total several thousand dollars. (Story on Page 22).

Did utilities 'get' Eckhart?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan and deposed Public Utilities Commission Chairman Henry W. Eckhart said the Ohio Senate's rejection Wednesday of Eckhart's appointment was engineered by utility companies seeking rate hikes.

Gilligan also said the Republican-controlled Senate, in ousting Eckhart from his $25,168-a-year job, violated the "basic rules of fair play."

Gilligan said the utility companies, "who during calender 1972 enjoyed, virtually without exception, the highest net income and highest earnings per share in their histories, were not satisfied and demanded Chairman Eckhart's head."

Eckhart said lobbyists for utility companies that have rate cases pending before the commission "have been plotting and scheming for weeks to block the confirmation.

"The real reason for this," he said, "is because I have tried to provide effective regulation of utilities in Ohio."

Eckhart said the Republicans in the Senate demonstrated "loudly and clearly" they do not want "consumer-oriented regulation."

Eckhart, holding a news conference after the Senate vote, blamed the action on lobbyists for Ohio Bell, Cincinnati and Suburban Telephone Co., General Telphone and the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., all of which he said have rate cases pending before the commission.

Eckhart particularly blamed Frederick Eckley of Ohio Bell in Cleveland. Eckley later denied the charge, saying the fact that the company has a rate case pending would be a reason not to lobby against Eckhart's confirmation.

Eckley said Ohio Bell had hoped for a

House OKs amendment on rights; see Senate snag

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — After a debate of a little more than three hours and 24 floor speeches, the Ohio House has approved ratification of the women's equal rights amendment (ERA) and sent it to an uncertain fate in the Senate.

The vote Wednesday was 56-40 on the proposed U.S. Constitutional amendment which prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex. The marathon hassle, carried on a 150-station national educational radio network, included impassioned speeches on both sides of the controversial issue which so far has been ratified by 30 states.

Thirty-eight are required. One of the House's four women members voted "no," and a male House member who also opposed showed up in a Scottish kilt to draw attention to his fight against it.

"I feel a little funny, being the only man in the room in a skirt, but I wanted to make a point," said Rep. Thomas N. Kindness, R-58 Hamilton.

Rep. Ethel G. Swanbeck, R-72 Huron, said she opposed the amendment in anticipation of what it might do to women in the areas of domestic relations, financial responsibilities and the draft.

Reps. Michael P. Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, and Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, led the fight for the amendment in a House chamber flooded by television lights and an estimated 150-200 spectators, mostly women, who crowded the galleries.

Stinziano, calling opposition to the ERA "short sighted," said action was needed now, or that otherwise, women may have to go on "for another 100 years" to obtain equality under the law. He said he failed to understand the division in the House "after the thousands of prestigious endorsements" the ERA received, including those of Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon.

He and Lehman said there was no ground for fears that the amendment would wipe out protections now in the law for women, and if they had to be changed, the same protections could be extended to men.

Lehman told the House that presently, women are discriminated against in many fields—including employment, "promotions, wages, salaries, and fringe benefits," along with restrictions on credit and business transactions, educational opportunities, and others.

Nixon to speak on radio, TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will make a major radio-television address at 9 p.m. EST tonight on America's post-Vietnam role in the world and on the economy at home, the White House announced.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, in reporting that Nixon had asked for and received radio and television time, refused to give details on what the President planned to discuss.

Final American POWs released

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — North Vietnam freed its last 67 U.S. prisoners of war today, and two giant C141 transports brought them to Clark Air Base for their first stop on the way home.

The release of the 67 cleared the Communist prisons in Indochina of the 587 Americans Hanoi had reported were captives at the signing of the cease-fire agreement two months ago. But the Viet Cong turned up another man who will be freed this weekend.

The first C141 from Hanoi landed 40 men early tonight in a drizzle that failed to dampen the enthusiasm of a cheering crowd of 600 Americans.

The second C141 touched down 42 minutes later with the other 27.

"This is a day of joy and pride," the senior man on the first flight, Air Force Lt. Col. James W. O'Neill, 42, of Las Vegas, Nev., told the exuberant crowd. "What could be more joyous than to be delivered from your enemies and return to your friends.

"The pride we have in our nation and our government could not be greater. And this day justifies our faith. POWs never have a nice day, but we get one great day. Each of us thanks all of you for this unforgettable day."

All the men on the first flight appeared healthy and smiled broadly, but several had been injured and saluted with their left hands. One of them, Air Force Capt. Keith H. Lewis, 33, of Goldsboro, N.C., was on crutches.

Security was more relaxed, and a number of teen-age girls were allowed to rush up to the prisoners and hand them bracelets bearing their names.

Another 82 POWs released Tuesday and Wednesday in the final phase of the prisoner repatriation were already at Clark.

Military officials said they would begin leaving for home Friday, with 27 military men and five civilians freed by the Viet Cong to depart first.

Although Hanoi said earlier that the men freed today were the last American POWs held by the Communists, the Viet Cong announced that one more American, Capt. Robert White of Newport News, Va., would be freed on Sunday or Monday.

White, whose name had not been on any earlier POW lists, was expected to be turned over in the Mekong Delta South of Saigon, where he reportedly was captured in 1969 after his airplane was shot down.

"It's one hell of a surprise," said his wife in Williamsburg, Va.

White will be the 588th American POW freed since the Vietnam cease-fire on Jan. 28. About 1,300 more Americans are listed as missing in action, and international teams are to move out across Vietnam to search for traces of them, a job that is expected to take years.

The 82 prisoners released earlier this week were reported moving quickly through their medical and administrative procedures at Clark Field's 270-bed hospital.

Income tax repeal sought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A group opposing Ohio's personal income tax hopes to take advantage of taxpayers' April woes to repeal the tax and substitute another in its place.

James Stefanopoulos, head of Repeal Ohio's Unfair Tax (ROUT), submitted an amendment to abolish the state income tax to the Secretary of state's office Wednesday.

The newest repeal proposal was submitted a year to the day a similar amendment was filed with the administrative office. The first amendment was placed before voters last November and was defeated.

"People are filling out their tax forms now and they can really see how much of a burden the tax really is," said the Cincinnati businessman. "I don't think apathy is going to be a problem at all."

ROUT's amendment would abolish the present state income tax, require that any future income tax be non-graduated and provide that any new tax must be approved by Ohio voters.

Hampshire Breeders' show, sale Saturday

The Ohio Hampshire Breeders Association will combine a junior field day program with its annual show and sale in the livestock sales arena on the Fairground here Saturday.

The junior field day program for young people, principally 4-H boys and girls and Future Farmers, will get under way at 1:15 p.m. with registration of judging teams and individuals by William Diley, vo-ag instructor at MTHS.

After Earnest Roll Jr., of Greenfield, president of the state association, welcomes the participants, a slide-illustrated discussion of the selection of market and breeding swine will be led by Denny Shoop, of Michigantown, Ind., who will judge the evening show, and Bill Powell, who will stress the importance of the Hampshire Swine Registry.

Judging of two market hog classes, two breeding swine classes and a pig project class by the young people is slated for 3 p.m. After that will come demonstrations of fitting and showing swine and of new swine buildings (seniors) by David Gerber, of the Area Extension service here. Charles Andrews, also a vo-ag instructor at MTHS, will announce the placings and Dave Runyan will present the awards.

Judges in both the junior and senior divisions who place first, second, third or fourth will receive certificates entitling them to a discount in purchasing a gilt at any sale sponsored by the state Hampshire Association during the year. Trophies will go to the top teams and ribbons to the individual's placing from fifth to tenth. The Marting Mfg. Co. here and Tip-Off Premix Co., of Upper Sandusky, have provided the trophies.

The show is scheduled at 5:30 p.m. in the arena and the sale at 7:30 p.m. Emerson Marting, CCC Highway-W, farmer, auctioneer and livestock breeder, will be the auctioneer.

In addition to registered Hampshires, two groups of commercial Hampshire gilts (often referred to as off-marks) and about 30 pigs, 8 to 10 weeks old, selected as suitable for 4-H and FFA projects, also will be offered. The project pigs probably will be sold first and only young people will be permitted to bid on them. More than 200 boys and girls are expected to come from throughout the state for the junior field day.

Lunch and snacks will be available all afternoon, and supper will be served in the evening in the Mahan Building.

Watergate trumpeted

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Don't be bugged with the commonplace!" the advertisement says. "Locate your offices at the Watergate in Washington."

"Is there a better known location?" asks the ad in The Washington Post and the StarNews. "This is the best known office building in the world."

For rent is a sixth-floor area of 16,000 square feet being vacated by the Democratic National Committee, which is moving to less expensive quarters.

The offices were bugged last summer. Lee Elsen, vice president in charge of real estate and advertising at the Watergate, decided it might pay to advertise his property had been burglarized.

Mississippi flood moves southward

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain-swollen waters of the Mississippi River covered thousands of additional acres of Missouri, Illinois and Tennessee today, forcing several hundred families from their homes and threatening hundreds of others.

The river's crest moved slowly downstream Wednesday, posing a threat to levees and lowlands. The river crested and started to fall at Hannibal, Mo., but the National Weather Service predicted a 37.5-foot crest at St. Louis today and 40.5 feet Tuesday at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Hundreds of volunteers worked through Wednesday to sandbag a secondary levee at Old Monroe, Mo. The secondary levee is the only thing left between the waters and 2,700 acres of farmland and about 600 homes near Old Monroe.

A Foley, Mo., woman, Charlotte Hadler, 53, was killed when a refrigerator on her flood porch toppled over and pinned her underwater. The Lincoln County coroner said the cause of death was not immediately determined, but Mrs. Hadler could have been drowned or electrocuted by the appliance.

A spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers said, "We are having a record flood now. We're higher than the 1947 flood which local people remember as the biggest ever."

In southeastern Missouri, about 150 families were forced from their homes and 70,000 acres of farmland was under water. Several tornadoes were cited in Missouri, but there were no reports of injuries.

In Tennessee, some 50,000 acres of land were underwater. Sandbagging continued at the Memphis dock, but the city was protected by the high Chickasaw bluff.

In one Tennessee county, 175 families had left their homes. The crest was expected to pass today.

Few places in the country escaped some precipitation. There was more snow in the central and southern Rockies and intermountain region. Flagstaff, Ariz. picked up 7 inches of snow overnight, bringing its accumulation to 35 inches.

Fair weather prevailed over the West Coast into the northern Rockies and Northern Plains, the Southern Plains and the middle and northern Atlantic states.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 11 at Williston, N.D., to 74 at Key West, Fla.

Eckhart rejection

promised finding by the commission by April 9, but "now chances of getting it are pretty slim."

Senate Republicans charged Eckhart with incompetency, claiming that the average PUCO case was not settled within 24 months, despite an increase in the budget.

Gilligan, who appointed Eckhart to two seats within the last two and a half years, called the Senate action a "violation of the basic rules of fair play," because the Ways and Means Committee had not asked Eckhart to testify before it recommended against confirmation.

Sen. Michael Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, the Ways and Means chairman, said he would take responsibility for any such oversight. He said Eckhart appeared before his committee two years ago and he didn't see anything that would have necessitated his reappearance in the new General Assembly.

On Feb. 1 Gilligan permitted Eckhart to resign two years into a six-year term and accept another six-year term. It permitted the one-time Columbus lawyer to obtain a $2,288-a-year pay increase, which by statute is forbidden for in-term commissioners.

Eckhart told newsmen he wanted the reappointment only to force the Senate to take some action. The Senate did nothing on his nomination two years ago, letting confirmation become automatic with adjournment of the 109th General Assembly.

As a result, said Eckhart, he felt he suffered a "stigma" in dealing with the public and the press. He said the automatic salary increase that came about because of the resignation and reappointment had nothing to do with the matter.

Eckhart said he was losing "$10,000 to $15,000 a year" from what he could be making as a practicing attorney. He said he had had several lucrative offers in recent months.

"Unforntunately, I must accept these," he added.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Showers and thundershowers remain in Ohio's weather picture and probably will continue to do so over the weekend, the National Weather Service reported today.

Cloudy skies and mild temperatures continued over the state Wednesday night and early Thursday. Showers were also reported with a few early morning thundershowers. Amounts appeared on the light side. Temperatures around daybreak were mainly in the 40s and 50s as compared to the 30s and 40s on Wednesday morning.

A low centered in the southwest will spread showers and a few scattered thundershowers over the state today and tonight as it moves into Illinois this afternoon and Michigan tonight. Moderate southerly winds in advance of this storm will push afternoon readings once again into the 50s and 60s.

Some cooler air will move into Ohio Friday and diminish some of the showers and lower afternoon temperatures a few degrees from today's readings.

The weather outlook for the weekend appears unsettled with periods of rain ending about Monday, with continued mild temperatures. All outdoor activity should be at a minimum on account of wet grounds.

Rain Saturday and Sunday, ending Monday. Highs in the 50s. Lows in the 30s.

Viets go on looting spree

SAIGON (AP) — Several hundred Vietnamese civilians invaded the departure camp for American GIs today on the final day of the U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam and went on a looting spree while Vietnamese guards stood by.

The civilians broke through the chain fences around Camp Alpha, at Tan Son Nhut Airbase, three hours before the last planeload of GIs was scheduled to leave and cleaned out the mess hall.

"They took anything that wasn't tied down," said one U.S. officer.

The last American MPs guarding the camp had just left when the crowd burst in. A Vietnamese MP helped the looters pass tables and chairs through the fence, and other Vietnamese guards stood by while the mob grabbed bread, sugar, other foodstuffs, chairs, tables, cooking utensils and cabinets from the kitchen and 1,000-seat dining hall.

The few American officers left in the area called out a dozen GIs waiting for planes home, and they drove the mob out.

The U. S. Military Command had turned the camp area over to the U.S. Embassy. Its future use has not been announced.

The mob in the mess hall was the second crowd of scavengers. Earlier in the day the camp's Vietnamese maids moved in to snatch up the departing soldiers' leavings—and some things they hadn't planned to leave.

Sgt. Charles Dennis of Easton, Pa., bound for Thailand, was in a sweat.

"I took two of my bags over to the terminal and came back five minutes later, and the other two were gone," he said. " I've lost all my clothes and my shaving gear."

"I've got all my stuff in a locker with two locks on it," said Pfc. Michael Bounds, an MP from Jackson, Miss. "Last time I looked it was still there. This place is so crooked it's unreal."

Believe 2nd ship survived storm

NEW YORK (AP) — The Coast Guard reported today it had received an indication that the missing Norwegian freighter Anita may have survived the fierce Atlantic storm that claimed another ship last week.

The second vessel, the Norse Variant, went down last Thursday in the ocean tumult. One of its 30 crewmen was rescued after clinging to a raft for three days.

Both ships left Virginia ports last Wednesday and were bound for Germany with cargos of coal. Both disappeared in the storm off the New Jersey Coast.

However, the Coast Guard said today that a Canadian radio station reported late Wednesday night that it had picked up brief voice signals from the Anita Sunday and Monday nights.

Telephones still out

MT. VERNON, Ohio (AP) — About 4,000 United Telephone Co. subscribers still had no phone service today as repairmen continued to splice thousands of wire to cables cut accidentally by a construction crew Tuesday.

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices opened higher on the stock market today, continuing a three-day rally, then edged toward mixed at noontime.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off .83 to 947.17. Advancing Big Board stocks edged out losers 621 to 461 in moderate trading. The Big Board volume leader was Talcott National, down 1 to 16¼.

Analysts said the upward price trend was a reaction to last week's badly declining market, and some added the rally also had been helped by a brighter economic outlook.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index was up .02 to 24.37.

Inexco Oil was the Amex volume leader.

The New York Stock Exchange's broad-based index of 1,400 common shares was up .04 to 59.59.

After the immunity was granted, Hunt spent the afternoon with the grand jury, emerging only a few times to consult with his attorney. Had he refused to answer questions, he would have been taken before Judge Sirica and cited for contempt.

McCord, who gained a delay in his own sentencing with charges that there was political pressure and perjury in the January trial—and that others were going scot free—spent hours behind the guarded doors of the Senate committee.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., speaking for the committee, said further questioning of McCord was put off for a week.

McCord, former security chief for President Nixon's reelection committee, stood briefly before television cameras outside the hearing room and through his attorney refused to answer any questions.

Baker characterized McCord's information as significant and said all leads will be followed up. He declined to say if McCord ducked any part of the committee's inquiry.

It is uncertain whether Sirica will sentence McCord Friday as planned or await the completion of questioning. McCord had offered to back up his charges in a closed court session with the judge, but Wednesday Sirica noted McCord is testifying before the Senate and has agreed to come before the grand jury.

"The court sees no need to go forward with the private conference between Mr. McCord and the court previously scheduled," Sirica said.

Final ceremony closes U.S. role in South Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The last American forces pulled out of South Vietnam today after more than a decade of military intervention that cost 46,000 U.S. lives. The departing commander said the United States had accomplished its mission of stopping a Communist takeover.

As the last 2,500 GIs flew home or to other bases in Southeast Asia, strong American air and naval forces remained on the perimeters of Indochina to keep up the war in Cambodia and to discourage a resumption of major fighting in South Vietnam and Laos.

The 7th Fleet was reported to have four carriers with a total of 200 strike planes within range of Vietnam, and the Pentagon said there are 202 B52 bombers at Guam and Thailand and more than 400 Air Force and Marine fighter-bombers in Thailand.

Today's departures left a total of 1,034 uniformed American military men in Vietnam, including 825 members of the U.S. delegation to the Joint Military Commission, 159 Marine guards at the U.S. Embassy and 50 military attaches at the Embassy.

The Joint Military Commission made up of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong was replaced today by a commission made up of South Vietnam and the Viet Cong. The 825 men of the U.S. delegation are scheduled to leave the country Friday and Saturday. The United States tried to extend the life of the four-party group, but nobody else agreed.

At a 20-minute ceremony closing down the U.S. Command after more than 11 years of operations in Vietnam, the departing commander, Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, declared:

"The rights of the people of the Republic of Vietnam to shape their own destiny and to provide for their self-defense have been upheld."

Order No. 1290 was read officially, inactivating the Military Assistance Command Vietnam, or MACV. The colors were cased at 1:20 p.m.

NFO to withhold livestock during meat boycott

By LEE GOULD
Associated Press Writer

The National Farmers Organization has told its members to withhold hogs, cattle and lambs from the market starting today because of a record drop in hog prices and a decline in cattle prices.

The influential farm group took the action Wednesday night because "the price drop on hogs has been so drastic that it requires immediate action," NFO President Oren Lee Staley said in Corning, Iowa. The NFO also called for farmers' meetings in 15 cities Friday to determine future action.

The falling prices came as plans for a nationwide meat boycott next week gained support. In San Francisco Wednesday, some 200 persons paraded at the Federal Building plaza and shouted pledges not to eat meat next week and on Tuesdays and Thursdays thereafter.

"We want to see the meat rotting in the packing house lockers and maybe we'll get action," said Ray Alper of the Consumer Federation of California.

The decline in hog prices was blamed on "panic selling and a lack of confidence in what the market will be tomorrow or next week" by a spokesman for the hog market in Des Moines, Iowa.

"This has to be the impact of what they call consumer resistance," said Ron Jarvis, president of Oppenheimer Industries of Kansas City. Oppenheimer operates one of the biggest cattle herds in the nation.

Jarvis and other cattlemen expressed doubt that they could withhold herds even from a declining market. "The cost of holding them gets too prohibitive. And I don't know anybody that isn't trying to raise as much beef as they can," said cattle producer Phil Arnold, of Ashland, Kan.

In Iowa Wednesday, hog prices closed down $3 to $4 per hundredweight from Tuesday's sliding prices. A San Diego, Calif., meat packer said area packing houses were processing 10 to 20 per cent less beef than normal.

Metropolitan New York meat packers were also feeling the effects of the threatened boycott. At the Bronx Terminal Meat Market, wholesalers reported cutting their work forces by as much as 50 per cent.

Fulbright demands answers on U.S. role in Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that U.S. troops are only two days away from leaving South Vietnam, Sen. J.W. Fulbright wants to know how the Nixon administration justifies continued American bombing missions in Cambodia.

"What are American forces doing in Cambodia? Whom are we striking? Whom are we supplying? How many Americans are in Cambodia, in or out of uniform? By what authority is the United States carrying on any military activities in Cambodia?"

Those were some of the questions posed Tuesday by Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

It is imperative, said Fulbright, that the administration explain its Cambodian policy, or "I see no course other than a full public hearing with the secretary of state to explore this subject in depth."

Fulbright made his demand in a series of questions placed in the Congressional Record. Just before Fulbright's questions were made public, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was asked to cite President Nixon's constitutional authority for continuing military operations in Cambodia.

Ziegler replied that "Communist forces have not respected the unilateral cease-fire" proclaimed by the Lon Nol government and, as a consequence, the Cambodian regime had asked for air support. Ziegler said North Vietnam is violating the Paris agreement by not withdrawing its troops from Cambodia, which was part of the old French Indochina, along with Vietnam and Laos.

Ziegler said North Vietnam is in violation of Article 20 of the Paris accord governing withdrawal of outside forces.

Pressed further to cite Nixon's constitutional authority, Ziegler said he was "not prepared to address in any more specifics" the Cambodia situation.

Secret voting in national elections became federal law in 1875.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, MARCH 30

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Be ready to cope with strangers, odd situations. Pinpoint objectives; be selective about methods and side issues. Step up momentum where possible.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Study requirements; discriminate carefully between what's necessary and what's not too important to your schedule. There may not be time for all, but be sure to tend to essentials fully.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

The odds are against you right now, so it's no time to tackle the opposition. Postpone action until Monday when you'll have a better chance of getting what you want.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Lunar influences now encourage well-organized moves, but you will need a great deal of resourcefulness to cover all the angles. Evening hours promise stimulating social activities.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Past investments of time and effort now begin to pay off, but don't rest on your laurels. Strike out for bigger and better attainment.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Look for the "loopholes" that trick needlessly; be alert to misrepresentation; sift carefully for truths. Once sure you are on the right track, go ahead confidently — and profitably.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Be tactful in family circles, all personal contacts. Recurrences of old hassles are possible if you are not on guard.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Don't force issues now. Like Gemini, the odds are against you and you'll gain more by waiting. But look ahead confidently. Avoid negative thinking.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You may be tempted to take an unexpected fling in money matter and, if your judgment is as good as it usually is, it should pay off.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Do not be impulsive, but neither hold off action because of uncertainty over your abilities. Curb doubts and fears. You DO have ability: Back it with self-confidence.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Inspiration at a peak now. A unique idea you have can be carried off with just the right touch of ingenuity to make it work.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March. 20)

Keep you head and maintain the pace that's for you. Don't let other distract you with ideas of doubtful worth — especially if they involve heavy spending.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with a fine mind, unusual versatility and almost boundless ambition. On the minus side, however, you are inclined to be selfish, overly aggressive and intensely stubborn. Also, you put too much value on material considerations in mapping out your goals. Try to curb these traits since they only stand in the way of your progress. And you have so much going for you that it would be a shame if you allowed such negative characteristics to offset the value of your many talents. So many fields are open to you that you may have difficulty in choosing but, once you have found your proper niche in life, there are no limits to the heights you can attain. You could succeed in business or in the law — which may lead to statesmanship; could also be an outstanding actor, writer, musician or entertainer. Both fashion design and interior decoration also appeal to you.

Toledo loses tax appeal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo lost an appeal Wednesday to have Lucas County local government funds distributed the way they were prior to 1972.

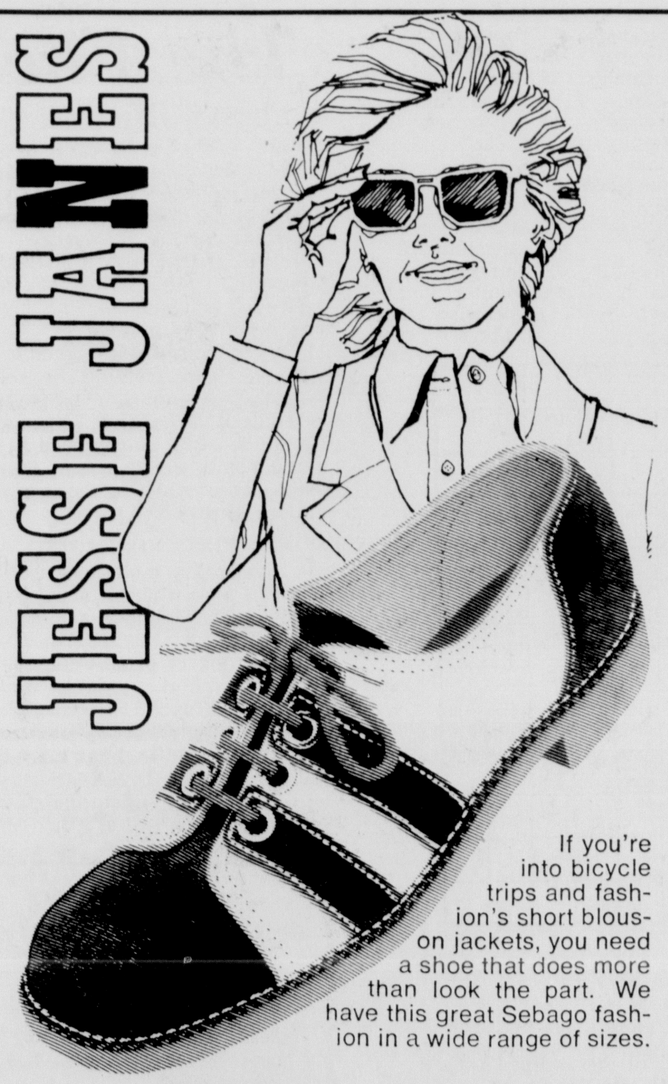

The Ohio Supreme Court ruled that a Board of Tax Appeals decision last year modifying the distribution system complied with statutory requirements and does not do Toledo out of its fair share.

Toledo had contended that the modified allocations deprived the city of its share of funds.

The decision was 5-2.

In another case, the court said Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co. could not deduct the amount of workmen's compensation benefits from its payment to any insurance customer.

Watergate trumpeted

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Don't be bugged with the commonplace!" the advertisement says. "Locate your offices at the Watergate in Washington."

"Is there a better known location?" asks the ad in The Washington Post and the StarNews. "This is the best known office building in the world."

For rent is a sixth-floor area of 16,000 square feet being vacated by the Democratic National Committee, which is moving to less expensive quarters.

The offices were bugged last summer. Lee Elsen, vice president in charge of real estate and advertising at the Watergate, decided it might pay to advertise his property had been burglarized.

Mississippi flood moves southward

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain-swollen waters of the Mississippi River covered thousands of additional acres of Missouri, Illinois and Tennessee today, forcing several hundred families from their homes and threatening hundreds of others.

The river's crest moved slowly downstream Wednesday, posing a threat to levees and lowlands. The river crested and started to fall at Hannibal, Mo., but the National Weather Service predicted a 37.5-foot crest at St. Louis today and 40.5 feet Tuesday at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Hundreds of volunteers worked through Wednesday to sandbag a secondary levee at Old Monroe, Mo. The secondary levee is the only thing left between the waters and 2,700 acres of farmland and about 600 homes near Old Monroe.

A Foley, Mo., woman, Charlotte Hadler, 53, was killed when a refrigerator on her flood porch toppled over and pinned her underwater. The Lincoln County coroner said the cause of death was not immediately determined, but Mrs. Hadler could have been drowned or electrocuted by the appliance.

A spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers said, "We are having a record flood now. We're higher than the 1947 flood which local people remember as the biggest ever."

In southeastern Missouri, about 150 families were forced from their homes and 70,000 acres of farmland was under water. Several tornadoes were cited in Missouri, but there were no reports of injuries.

In Tennessee, some 50,000 acres of land were underwater. Sandbagging continued at the Memphis dock, but the city was protected by the high Chickasaw bluff.

In one Tennessee county, 175 families had left their homes. The crest was expected to pass today.

Few places in the country escaped some precipitation. There was more snow in the central and southern Rockies and intermountain region. Flagstaff, Ariz. picked up 7 inches of snow overnight, bringing its accumulation to 35 inches.

Fair weather prevailed over the West Coast into the northern Rockies and Northern Plains, the Southern Plains and the middle and northern Atlantic states.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 11 at Williston, N.D., to 74 at Key West, Fla.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Showers and thundershowers remain in Ohio's weather picture and probably will continue to do so over the weekend, the National Weather Service reported today.

Cloudy skies and mild temperatures continued over the state Wednesday night and early Thursday. Showers were also reported with a few early morning thundershowers. Amounts appeared on the light side. Temperatures around daybreak were mainly in the 40s and 50s as compared to the 30s and 40s on Wednesday morning.

A low centered in the southwest will spread showers and a few scattered thundershowers over the state today and tonight as it moves into Illinois this afternoon and Michigan tonight. Moderate southerly winds in advance of this storm will push afternoon readings once again into the 50s and 60s.

Some cooler air will move into Ohio Friday and diminish some of the showers and lower afternoon temperatures a few degrees from today's readings.

The weather outlook for the weekend appears unsettled with periods of rain ending about Monday, with continued mild temperatures. All outdoor activity should be at a minimum on account of wet grounds.

Rain Saturday and Sunday, ending Monday. Highs in the 50s. Lows in the 30s.

Eckhart rejection

promised finding by the commission by April 9, but "now chances of getting it are pretty slim."

Senate Republicans charged Eckhart with incompetency, claiming that the average PUCO case was not settled within 24 months, despite an increase in the budget.

Gilligan, who appointed Eckhart to two seats within the last two and a half years, called the Senate action a "violation of the basic rules of fair play," because the Ways and Means Committee had not asked Eckhart to testify before it recommended against confirmation.

Sen. Michael Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, the Ways and Means chairman, said he would take responsibility for any such oversight. He said Eckhart appeared before his committee two years ago and he didn't see anything that would have necessitated his reappearance in the new General Assembly.

On Feb. 1 Gilligan permitted Eckhart to resign two years into a six-year term and accept another six-year term. It permitted the one-time Columbus lawyer to obtain a $2,288-a-year pay increase, which by statute is forbidden for in-term commissioners.

Eckhart told newsmen he wanted the reappointment only to force the Senate to take some action. The Senate did nothing on his nomination two years ago, letting confirmation become automatic with adjournment of the 109th General Assembly.

As a result, said Eckhart, he felt he suffered a "stigma" in dealing with the public and the press. He said the automatic salary increase that came about because of the resignation and reappointment had nothing to do with the matter.

Eckhart said he was losing "$10,000 to $15,000 a year" from what he could be making as a practicing attorney. He said he had had several lucrative offers in recent months.

"Unforntunately, I must accept these," he added.

NFO to withhold livestock during meat boycott

By LEE GOULD
Associated Press Writer

The National Farmers Organization has told its members to withhold hogs, cattle and lambs from the market starting today because of a record drop in hog prices and a decline in cattle prices.

The influential farm group took the action Wednesday night because "the price drop on hogs has been so drastic that it requires immediate action," NFO President Oren Lee Staley said in Corning, Iowa. The NFO also called for farmers' meetings in 15 cities Friday to determine future action.

The falling prices came as plans for a nationwide meat boycott next week gained support. In San Francisco Wednesday, some 200 persons paraded at the Federal Building plaza and shouted pledges not to eat meat next week and on Tuesdays and Thursdays thereafter.

"We want to see the meat rotting in the packing house lockers and maybe we'll get action," said Ray Alper of the Consumer Federation of California.

The decline in hog prices was blamed on "panic selling and a lack of confidence in what the market will be tomorrow or next week" by a spokesman for the hog market in Des Moines, Iowa.

"This has to be the impact of what they call consumer resistance," said Ron Jarvis, president of Oppenheimer Industries of Kansas City. Oppenheimer operates one of the biggest cattle herds in the nation.

Jarvis and other cattlemen expressed doubt that they could withhold herds even from a declining market. "The cost of holding them gets too prohibitive. And I don't know anybody that isn't trying to raise as much beef as they can," said cattle producer Phil Arnold, of Ashland, Kan.

In Iowa Wednesday, hog prices closed down $3 to $4 per hundredweight from Tuesday's sliding prices. A San Diego, Calif., meat packer said area packing houses were processing 10 to 20 per cent less beef than normal.

Metropolitan New York meat packers were also feeling the effects of the threatened boycott. At the Bronx Terminal Meat Market, wholesalers reported cutting their work forces by as much as 50 per cent.

Viets go on looting spree

SAIGON (AP) — Several hundred Vietnamese civilians invaded the departure camp for American GIs today on the final day of the U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam and went on a looting spree while Vietnamese guards stood by.

The civilians broke through the chain fences around Camp Alpha, at Tan Son Nhut Airbase, three hours before the last planeload of GIs was scheduled to leave and cleaned out the mess hall.

"They took anything that wasn't tied down," said one U.S. officer.

The last American MPs guarding the camp had just left when the crowd burst in. A Vietnamese MP helped the looters pass tables and chairs through the fence, and other Vietnamese guards stood by while the mob grabbed bread, sugar, other foodstuffs, chairs, tables, cooking utensils and cabinets from the kitchen and 1,000-seat dining hall.

The few American officers left in the area called out a dozen GIs waiting for planes home, and they drove the mob out.

The U. S. Military Command had turned the camp area over to the U.S. Embassy. Its future use has not been announced.

The mob in the mess hall was the second crowd of scavengers. Earlier in the day the camp's Vietnamese maids moved in to snatch up the departing soldiers' leavings—and some things they hadn't planned to leave.

Sgt. Charles Dennis of Easton, Pa., bound for Thailand, was in a sweat.

"I took two of my bags over to the terminal and came back five minutes later, and the other two were gone," he said. " I've lost all my clothes and my shaving gear."

"I've got all my stuff in a locker with two locks on it," said Pfc. Michael Bounds, an MP from Jackson, Miss. "Last time I looked it was still there. This place is so crooked it's unreal."

Believe 2nd ship survived storm

NEW YORK (AP) — The Coast Guard reported today it had received an indication that the missing Norwegian freighter Anita may have survived the fierce Atlantic storm that claimed another ship last week.

The second vessel, the Norse Variant, went down last Thursday in the ocean tumult. One of its 30 crewmen was rescued after clinging to a raft for three days.

Both ships left Virginia ports last Wednesday and were bound for Germany with cargos of coal. Both disappeared in the storm off the New Jersey Coast.

However, the Coast Guard said today that a Canadian radio station reported late Wednesday night that it had picked up brief voice signals from the Anita Sunday and Monday nights.

Telephones still out

MT. VERNON, Ohio (AP) — About 4,000 United Telephone Co. subscribers still had no phone service today as repairmen continued to splice thousands of wire to cables cut accidentally by a construction crew Tuesday.

Final ceremony closes U.S. role in South Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The last American forces pulled out of South Vietnam today after more than a decade of military intervention that cost 46,000 U.S. lives. The departing commander said the United States had accomplished its mission of stopping a Communist takeover.

As the last 2,500 GIs flew home or to other bases in Southeast Asia, strong American air and naval forces remained on the perimeters of Indochina to keep up the war in Cambodia and to discourage a resumption of major fighting in South Vietnam and Laos.

The 7th Fleet was reported to have four carriers with a total of 200 strike planes within range of Vietnam, and the Pentagon said there are 202 B52 bombers at Guam and Thailand and more than 400 Air Force and Marine fighter-bombers in Thailand.

Today's departures left a total of 1,034 uniformed American military men in Vietnam, including 825 members of the U.S. delegation to the Joint Military Commission, 159 Marine guards at the U.S. Embassy and 50 military attaches at the Embassy.

The Joint Military Commission made up of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong was replaced today by a commission made up of South Vietnam and the Viet Cong. The 825 men of the U.S. delegation are scheduled to leave the country Friday and Saturday. The United States tried to extend the life of the four-party group, but nobody else agreed.

At a 20-minute ceremony closing down the U.S. Command after more than 11 years of operations in Vietnam, the departing commander, Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, declared:

"The rights of the people of the Republic of Vietnam to shape their own destiny and to provide for their self-defense have been upheld."

Order No. 1290 was read officially, inactivating the Military Assistance Command Vietnam, or MACV. The colors were cased at 1:20 p.m.

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices opened higher on the stock market today, continuing a three-day rally, then edged toward mixed at noontime.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off .83 to 947.17. Advancing Big Board stocks edged out losers 621 to 461 in moderate trading. The Big Board volume leader was Talcott National, down 1 to 16¼.

Analysts said the upward price trend was a reaction to last week's badly declining market, and some added the rally also had been helped by a brighter economic outlook.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index was up .02 to 24.37.

Inexco Oil was the Amex volume leader.

The New York Stock Exchange's broad-based index of 1,400 common shares was up .04 to 59.59.

After the immunity was granted, Hunt spent the afternoon with the grand jury, emerging only a few times to consult with his attorney. Had he refused to answer questions, he would have been taken before Judge Sirica and cited for contempt.

McCord, who gained a delay in his own sentencing with charges that there was political pressure and perjury in the January trial—and that others were going scot free—spent hours behind the guarded doors of the Senate committee.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., speaking for the committee, said further questioning of McCord was put off for a week.

McCord, former security chief for President Nixon's reelection committee, stood briefly before television cameras outside the hearing room and through his attorney refused to answer any questions.

Baker characterized McCord's information as significant and said all leads will be followed up. He declined to say if McCord ducked any part of the committee's inquiry.

It is uncertain whether Sirica will sentence McCord Friday as planned or await the completion of questioning. McCord had offered to back up his charges in a closed court session with the judge, but Wednesday Sirica noted McCord is testifying before the Senate and has agreed to come before the grand jury.

"The court sees no need to go forward with the private conference between Mr. McCord and the court previously scheduled," Sirica said.

Fulbright demands answers on U.S. role in Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that U.S. troops are only two days away from leaving South Vietnam, Sen. J.W. Fulbright wants to know how the Nixon administration justifies continued American bombing missions in Cambodia.

"What are American forces doing in Cambodia? Whom are we striking? Whom are we supplying? How many Americans are in Cambodia, in or out of uniform? By what authority is the United States carrying on any military activities in Cambodia?"

Those were some of the questions posed Tuesday by Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

It is imperative, said Fulbright, that the administration explain its Cambodian policy, or "I see no course other than a full public hearing with the secretary of state to explore this subject in depth."

Fulbright made his demand in a series of questions placed in the Congressional Record. Just before Fulbright's questions were made public, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was asked to cite President Nixon's constitutional authority for continuing military operations in Cambodia.

Ziegler replied that "Communist forces have not respected the unilateral cease-fire" proclaimed by the Lon Nol government and, as a consequence, the Cambodian regime had asked for air support. Ziegler said North Vietnam is violating the Paris agreement by not withdrawing its troops from Cambodia, which was part of the old French Indochina, along with Vietnam and Laos.

Ziegler said North Vietnam is in violation of Article 20 of the Paris accord governing withdrawal of outside forces.

Pressed further to cite Nixon's constitutional authority, Ziegler said he was "not prepared to address in any more specifics" the Cambodia situation.

Secret voting in national elections became federal law in 1875.

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Be ready to cope with strangers, odd situations. Pinpoint objectives; be selective about methods and side issues. Step up momentum where possible.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Study requirements; discriminate carefully between what's necessary and what's not too important to your schedule. There may not be time for all, but be sure to tend to essentials fully.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

The odds are against you right now, so it's no time to tackle the opposition. Postpone action until Monday when you'll have a better chance of getting what you want.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Lunar influences now encourage well-organized moves, but you will need a great deal of resourcefulness to cover all the angles. Evening hours promise stimulating social activities.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Past investments of time and effort now begin to pay off, but don't rest on your laurels. Strike out for bigger and better attainment.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Look for the "loopholes" that trick needlessly; be alert to misrepresentation; sift carefully for truths. Once sure you are on the right track, go ahead confidently — and profitably.

Be tactful in family circles, all personal contacts. Recurrences of old hassles are possible if you are not on guard.

SCORPIO

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March. 20)

Keep you head and maintain the pace that's for you. Don't let other distract you with ideas of doubtful worth — especially if they involve heavy spending.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with a fine mind, unusual versatility and almost boundless ambition. On the minus side, however, you are inclined to be selfish, overly aggressive and intensely stubborn. Also, you put too much value on material considerations in mapping out your goals. Try to curb these traits since they only stand in the way of your progress. And you have so much going for you that it would be a shame if you allowed such negative characteristics to offset the value of your many talents. So many fields are open to you that you may have difficulty in choosing but, once you have found your proper niche in life, there are no limits to the heights you can attain. You could succeed in business or in the law — which may lead to statesmanship; could also be an outstanding actor, writer, musician or entertainer. Both fashion design and interior decoration also appeal to you.

Toledo loses tax appeal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo lost an appeal Wednesday to have Lucas County local government funds distributed the way they were prior to 1972.

The Ohio Supreme Court ruled that a Board of Tax Appeals decision last year modifying the distribution system complied with statutory requirements and does not do Toledo out of its fair share.

Toledo had contended that the modified allocations deprived the city of its share of funds.

The decision was 5-2.

In another case, the court said Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co. could not deduct the amount of workmen's compensation benefits from its payment to any insurance customer.

RUMMAGE SALE

Of Finer Furniture And Carpet

2 DAYS ONLY!

FRIDAY 9 A.M. TO 9 P.M. SATURDAY 9 A.M. TO 5 P.M.

Pretty soon there just aren't any more hiding places! So here's an old-fashioned RUMMAGE SALE for Friday and Saturday only . . . to clear out hundreds of items that should have gone months ago.

All sales final, budget accounts invited. At these prices we can't afford to deliver small pieces.

Okay. . . .come and get 'em!

Full or twin size solid white Head and Foot Board . . .Yup that's what we said, a handsome piece, BUT it stands alone . . . no bedroom set to go with it. Now you can match or mismatch it with some pieces in one of your bedrooms. Reg. $59 now only $33.

When we say the "striped look" we mean just that and it is really the rage in durable velvet finish. This Sofa has it all together in button tufting, tight seat and accent stripes. So its got a few rubs here and there and it's a bit dusty . . . don't you never mind; regularly $289 now you take it away for $192.

Here's a Console Bookcase with simulated marble top that is clinging to each other for dear life!!!for fear they'll be separated . . . the rest of the tables have long been gone and now it stands alone. Take it away for us. Regularly sold at $159 now $107.

This is the answer to those "mother-in-law" who descend upon you at unannounced times . . . A big Queen size Convertible Sleep-Sofa in gold matelasse cover and reversible cushions. Comfort with a SERTA foam mattress that makes up in a jiffy (if you want the people to stay over.) Actually this sleep-sofa has been pushed around a lot and has a few battle scars, not caused by visiting relatives . . . SO we marked it way down from $359 to $228 . .just for the season.

Now we know everyone in the store loved this Ohio built Sofa, Chair and Ottoman. They are covered in a real rich deep green velvet with big 8 inch cushions. Problem. . .our customers didn't like it. The quality and comfort are there, but you need a little imagination. Maybe this big reduction will help. . .from $658 to $399

Everyone likes a party, and a nice party set helps. This beauty has big 48 inch Hex Table with pillars and 4 matching cushion seated chairs PLUS a big bonus of a matching server with black simulated top and plenty of storage. It has fine style and construction, and we reduced the price so you'd have something left over for the goodies at the party. It formerly sold for $288, and for this sale, it's $195.

We have some very jealous wrought iron and velvet Bars on our floor. Many of their brothers, sisters, and cousins are making some area in someone's home pretty. We feel terrible that they feel this way. Why not make them happy as well as yourself. Take one home . . . please. Was $239 for these two days only $158.

If our manager had a real swank office that he could sit and relax in, we would put this beautiful diamond tufted green Berkline Rocking Recliner in his office. They are imported from the deep south with Vinyl upholstery. We don't want to treat him that good, but we'd love you to treat yourself to them. Top drawer quality for a top drawer person. Regularly $249, now for sale for $141

Beautiful gleaming chrome and smoke glass Occasional Tables are not only popular but they are also very attractive. So, we ask the manufacturer to send us more — he did and we still have some hanging on. We have promoted and promoted them and they are just about gone. We feel at this low price we can finally kiss them goodbye. They're less than half price. Cocktail Table was $79 now $34. Stack Table, set of three was $89 now just $40 and End Tables that were $59 you can carry out for $22.22. You can also have them in cartons at these prices.

Here is a darling French round Occasional Table with beautiful inlaid marble that has been moved all over our 24,000 sq. foot building. She is getting tired of moving and we are getting tired of moving her. Now it is time to find her a permanent home and make that one last move. She was $129 but she does want a home for a low price of $64

This Night Table once belonged to a lovely Mediterranean bedroom group in dark oak. The groups sold, but this night table was left behind. It sold at $59 but you can have it for $31.

What are Bunch Tables — well they are mini cocktails and you put two in front of a sofa — apparently our salesmen didn't understand that. We have all flavors and colors for you to choose from. They were $49 but it is time they found their place in life so they are going to your home for $19.99.

Here is a mighty fine 4 piece modern Bedroom Suite that just insists on being in this sale. Anytime something is reduced this much it has something to shout about. With chrome handles and being high off the floor (for easy cleaning) it was $299 but you can have it brought to your home in our big 30 foot van for $199.

Here are some sleepers that are hidden in a corner of the store and we have all kinds of corners. They are made by the world renown LeWittes and they are Headboards of distinction. One is a blue distress frame with oyster velvet deeply tufted and the other is a wild distressed white and lipstick red velvet tufted background. Come and get them and save from the regularly $119, now just $68.

Brass Beds are popular on TV but they didn't set the world on fire in real life. We have two different headboards in gleaming brass that are a standout in any league. It is time for them to go bye-bye and you are just the one that wants them. Was $109 but for their last trip they are going at $66.

Bedding - Bedding - Bedding — now you are the only one who really knows when it is time for a change in your sleeping habits. You sure will never know until you stop in to see us. BUT NOW IS THE TIME — especially at this great savings. Full size matched sets from the world of SERTA. Get a mattress or box spring for $41.11 or a matched set BOTH FOR $80.

There isn't one undesirable feature to talk about on this 4 piece Meditteranean Bedroom Suite. It is built solid with dovetailed deep drawers, beautiful overlays and a massive headboard with a frame to boot. It has something going for it. So, why is it in this Rummage Sale???? Well, it has a lot of friends in the sale and wanted to be included. It was $394, now going for $288.

Lamps - Lamps - Lamps — that's right — we found a whooooooole bunch hiding from us in three different styles. They have a distressed brass finish and they are sharp. They have a 3-way switch to give you the right light for the right mood. It is time for them to go bye-bye. Regular $29, but for these two days $19.

Someone goofed!!!!!!Here is a perfectly beautiful Full Size Sleeper-Sofa with a firm foam mattress in a good green cover. We don't know if the customer (never), the salesman or the buyer made the error, but it was ordered special in the wrong cover. It is now excess baggage; and it is time to get it packed on our truck and into your house. Was $219 but just for you it is $141.

Here is a lonely little old Chair that is looking for its mother— she is long gone so a step-mother will do just fine. This chair is an Early American Green, Gold and black tweed in heavy Herculon® with button tufted back and reversible T-cushion. At $139 it is a buy — but now it is a steal at $87.77.

Bookcases have always been very popular, especially in maple, They're sturdy, attractive, and functional. If we thought they were still very popular, we wouldn't sell them at this tremendous reduction. Formerly sold at $99 now just $54.

Now here is a versatile little piece of furniture that can be used as a Planter or a Magazine Rack. They are all over the 4th floor and just ready to go home with you. They have three turned legs and look like a barrel. They were $19 but now they are just $9.99.

We thought this nice low back Platform Rocker would be just ideal for that special little spot that needs something bright and pretty. It is made in the Chair Capital of the World, Gardner, Massachusetts — made of hardrock maple with steam bend parts painted in Gold and Black and accented with bright red back and seat cushions. Was $79 but now for this two days just $57.

Everyone loves a Boston Rocker especially when they are well built with a real excellent finish in a dark maple. But — when you order 24 and they send 48 we have a problem — computers are great — but apparently not that great because they do not have to sell them. Now it is time for them to gooooooo — they were $49 but now they go for $24.44.

Looking to fill a corner — here is the Corner Filler supreme in maple finish with storage in the bottom and just the right amount of room to show off those beautiful knick-knacks. Now it is up for grabs — was $119 but now just $59.

Wedding vows read in Good Hope Church

Miss Alice Faye Isble, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Dixon Isble, Good Hope, and Carl William Dustin Henderson II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl William Dustin Henderson I, Washington C. H., Rt. 6, were united in marriage in the Good Hope Baptist Church March 3, 7:30 p.m. Rev. John Swint, Miamisburg, was the officiating minister. Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. David Caperton, soloist and Mrs. Betty Hoppess, pianist, who also played the wedding marches.

The nuptial setting was enhanced with vases of red and white gladioli palms and seven-branch candelabra. White bows and a single red rose marked the pews.

The bride was given in marriage by William Hunt. Her full length A-line gown of white lace over taffeta featured an empire bodice with a scalloped V neckline and long bishop sleeves of sheer lace that pointed over the hands. Her chapel length veil of bridal illusion, bordered with lace, flowed softly from a pillbox of lace and satin. She wore a white gold necklace, a gift from the bridegroom, and carried a satin and lace covered Bible topped with a bouquet of white sweetheart roses, centered with a detachable carnation corsage.

The attendants wore identically styled floor-length gowns in A-line styling with tempire waists with long bell shaped sleeves, and matching veiled bow headpieces.

Mrs. Phillip Williams, matron of honor was gowned in American Beauty. The maid of honor, Miss Linda Horner, was in deep rose. Bridesmaid, Mrs. Richard Edwards wore deep pink. The junior bridesmaid, Miss Sherry Hunt, was dressed in light pink.

Mrs. Williams carried a cluster of three long stemmed red roses and the other attendants carried two long stemmed red roses.

Stacy Edwards and Crystal Van Gundy, flower girls wore full length frocks of pale pink embossed organdy encircled around the waist and sleeves with matching floral trim. They wore miniature nosegays of roses in their hair and carried pink and white pompons in wicker baskets.

The mother of the bride chose a floor-length gown of teal blue with black assessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a full-length gown of mint green with bishop sleeves of white lace. Their corsages were pink and white carnations.

The reception was held at Wayne Hall in Good Hope.

Assisting with hostess duties were Mrs. William Hunt, Mrs. Harry Pommert, Mrs. Mildred Snyder, and Mrs. Pauline Marine. Miss Penni Munyon presided at the guest book and Mrs. Marlan Penwell was in charge of the gift table. Their corsages were pink and white carnations.

The bride graduated from Lemon-Monroe High School, Monroe, in 1971. She was employed as a nurse aide at Greenfield Manor. The bride-groom is a corporal in the United States Marine Corps.

Following their wedding trip to an undisclosed destination they are residing at Haveloch, N.C.

The opening chapter of "This Bright Land" records some of the enthusiasm the early settlers showed for the new country — a land of abundant riches in vegetation, animals and fertile soil. Of Ohio's soil they said: "You tickle it with the hoe and it laughs a harvest."

Mr. Atkinson, in his book, told how the aggressive civilization has depleted and scarred the continent and in many cases annihilated parts of the natural heritage. His delight is the out-of-doors and his revence for the systems of nature and concern for the environment informs all about the vast continent of America.

"America is out of control," he wrote, "'nothing is out of control in the forests."

During the social hour a dessert course was served.

Kentucky held state elections by voice vote until 1891.

Even a $24,000-a-year family has to make cutbacks

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — When she recently looked over last year's family expenses, Barbara Hayes discovered to her surprise that the taxes withheld from her husband's paychecks equalled his total salary 12 years ago.

"But I don't feel I have much more money to spend now than then," she said. "Joe's salary has gone up steadily, but our standard of living hasn't. The cost of living has taken care of the extra money."

Starting this week Hayes, 37, will make approximately $26,000 a year in his new job as director of training and management development for Eastern Air Lines. His salary now is about $24,000.

Despite the raise, the Hayeses, who say they've always been careful with money, are cutting back where they can.

At the same time, they insist on keeping nonessentials in their budget which they feel are important for the development of their family: a private school for one daughter, travel and more hobbies.

Hayes, his 35-year-old wife and their two daughters, Laurie, 12, and Wendy, 9, live in a $43,000, four-bedroom home in an upper middle-class neighborhood in southwest Miami.

The ranch-style, split-level house, which looks out on a golf course, is furnished simply but stylishly, with heavy Mediterranean furniture and thick shag carpeting.

A black and white television set sits in one corner of the living room. "We've deferred buying a color TV because of the price," Hayes said.

Carrying the house costs $350 a month for the mortgage and taxes. "The rooms are small and we have no pool. We really thought we could get more for our money," Mrs. Hayes said.

Yet homes like theirs, which they bought 13 months ago, are now selling for $9,000 more than they paid, Hayes said.

An even greater shock to Mrs. Hayes has been the skyrocketing cost of food.

She said her weekly food budget of a tight $45 is a little more than she spent last year, but at the same time she's buying fewer groceries.

"Im boycotting the meat counter — roast beef, steaks and even hot dogs, which went up 20 cents a package the last time I looked at them," she said. I'm buying more chicken, fish, maracaroni and cheese, and spaghetti."

Mrs. Hayes usually makes a couple of shopping trips a week to two nearby supermarkets, buying most of her meat and produce at one and the rest of her groceries at the other.

With her grocery list and a pocket calculator in hand, she pushed her cart down the supermarket aisles on a recent shopping trip.

She watched carefully for sale items, breaking her meat boycott to buy a canned ham, normally $6, but on sale for $4.99. She picked up some packages of frozen perch — three for a dollar — and several cans of tuna fish, on special for 39 cents.

She said she also tries to save money by not bringing her daughters shopping with her. "They talk me into buying things I wouldn't buy otherwise."

She buys few desserts or snack foods because of their cost and because "Joe, I and Laurie are perpetually on a diet." Mrs. Hayes said she usually buys name brands of groceries rather than the cheaper, house brands because of "the big difference in quality."

The Hayeses hope to cut their transportation costs by keeping their cars — a 1970 Maverick and a 1972 Plymouth — for at least six years or "until they fall apart," Mrs. Hayes said.

"What we would like to do is save for the purchase of our next cars after we finish paying our present ones off," Hayes added. "But we just can't do it. The money's not there."

Clothing is a budget item where the family also skimps, probably too much, Mrs. Hayes said.

"The girls wear shorts all year round, and I wear pants and shirts," she said. "Most of the dresses and pant suits I buy are in the $20-$40 range. The most expensive thing I own is a $75 pant suit."

Hayes buys his clothes at a factory outlet or from an importer who has suits made in Hong Kong.

"I was a little upset recently," he said, "because I broke my own rule and bought a suit over $100. I only buy clothes when I run out of them.

"The four of us used to go out to eat once a week, Mrs. Hayes said. "Now we go out about twice a month."

Their entertaining consists of having several couples over for cards, snacks and drinks.

Hayes buys little liquor. "We bought five fifths of booze in the Virgin Islands last year and we still have some of it," Mrs. Hayes said.

The Hayeses said they have tried to economize on little expenses as well as large ones.

Mrs. Hayes stopped going to the beauty parlor each week "because it bothered me to look at that $5 stub in the checkbook and know that the product lasted only one day."

Hayes is also trying to keep the family's credit card and charge account spending to a minimum.

Because American Express charges $15 a year for membership, he dropped that card in favor of Master Charge, which has no fee.

His wife had accounts at three department stores, but Hayes has stopped one temporarily.

Despite the burgeoning cost of practically everything, Hayes tries to save between 15 and 20 per cent of his gross income.

His company's credit union takes out a certain amount every month for his savings account and savings bonds. He also has several life insurance policies.

"But the money is not all tucked away," Mrs. Hayes said. "The down payment for the house came from savings. When we travel, we take it from savings. When we want something for the house, we also take the money out of the account."

There are some luxuries the Hayeses refuse to relinquish, like travel.

Because of Hayes' airline job, the family gets a substantial discount on air travel, and they take advantage of it whenever they can.

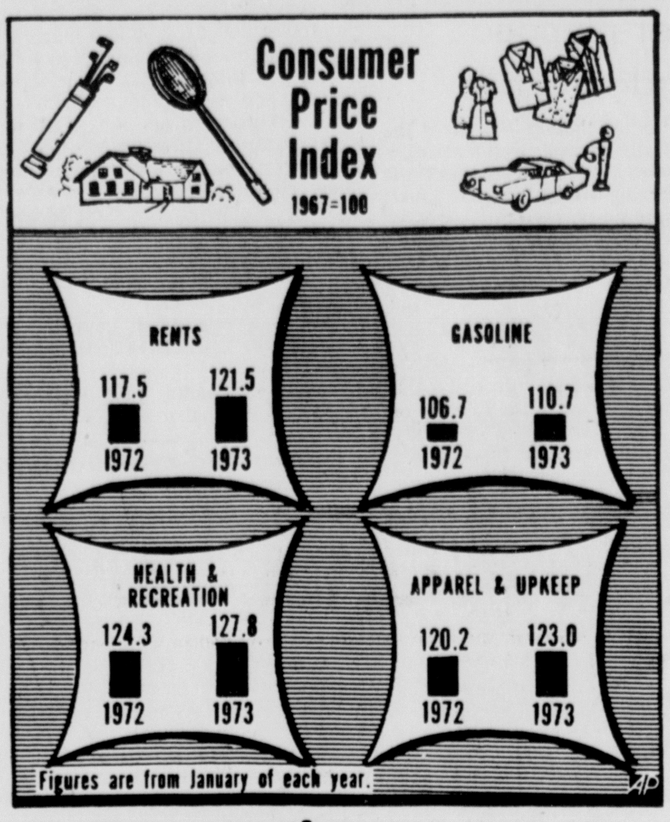

The whole family recently went to Bermuda and Joe and Barbara have spent several weekends in the Caribbean.

Every year, they spend a week with their families in the State of Washington.

"Travel is a luxury that would be difficult for us to give up," Hayes said. "I want my kids to be able to travel and see things we weren't able to see when we were their age."

The Hayeses also spend $115 a month to send Laurie to Kendall Academy, a private school.

"We'd like her to have a more developed sense of responsibility before she goes to the public junior high school next year," he said.

Republic Day is a national holiday in Guyana.

That's the day the little country celebrates the anniversary of its independence and simultaneously hails the day many years ago when the slaves brought to Guyana (formerly called Guinea) struck their first blow for freedom.

To honor this occasion, Guyana has issued four new stamps featuring famous buildings within its borders. The 8 cent and 50 cent show pyramid-shape buildings called "Uman Yana," sometimes referred to as the meeting places of the people, much as the town halls of America are used.

The 25 cent and 40-cent stamps depict the Bethel Chapel, an historical landmark preserved by the government. This religious edifice is revered by the local populace.

In announcing this new set of stamps, postal authorities there proudly claimed: "Republic Day is but a reminder to the people of Guyana how fragile all freedoms are unless continuously observed."

ALTHOUGH it may be confusing to some, the fact remains that there are two "Chinas" and both are issuing stamps for their respective countries.

Two album supplements for stamps of the People's Republic of China (Mainland) by Minkus Publications are now ready for collectors. Both consist of 72 pages. The first one is designed to fit the Master Global, Supreme Global, Comprehensive and World Wide Albums. It sells for $2.50. The second is for the Minkus Regional type album and sells for $3.50.

A third Mainland China supplement is in the works to be released late this year. This one will cover the stamps of North China and Northeast China.

The Chinese government on the island of Taiwan has just issued four new stamps hailing the traditional handcrafts of its people. One stamp illustrates a bamboo sailboat. Another stamp depicts a marble vase painted with flowers and a bird. The third adhesive pictures a landscape-decorated glass plate on a stand. The final stamp in this set has a doll dressed as a bridegroom carrying his bride on his back to their new home.

THE FAMED Robson Lowe's Encyclopedia of British Empire Stamps, Volume I (Great Britain and the Empire in Europe) which has long been out of print is being republished.

Volume I is being produced in two books totaling 468 pages within a gold cover. This edition covers in detail the philately of the British Empire in niee parts and may be purchased for $7.50 per volume directly from Robson Lowe Ltd., 50 Pall Mall, London, England.

TO HERALD the opening of INTERPEX (The International Philatelic Exhibition) in New York, nine of the participating governments issued new stamps. The countries included: Australia, Great Britain, British Virgin Islands, Canada, Guernsey, Isle of Man, Jersey, Liechtenstein, New Zealand, Papua-New Guinea, San Marino, United Nations, United States and Western Samoa.

DID YOU KNOW that . . . George Washington, said to be first in the hearts of his countrymen, is also first on the stamps of the U.S. His likeness has appeared on more of our stamps than any other American President or statesman . . . Women's Lib supporters are hailing a new stamp to be issued by Canada in October which will honor Nellie McClung, champion of feminine rights in the 1920s . . . The stamps of Eire first appeared in 1922 — but were really British stamps with overprint . . . Soviet Russia, which has fewer commercial aircraft than the U.S.A., has issued more stamps depicting airplanes than our nation.

Ohio Perspective

School 'cooperatives' eyed

By KENNETH L. DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state of Ohio hopes to try out a form of cooperative with a group of school districts to see if it can improve instruction and cut costs.

Educators call the experiment an educational resources district, but the title merely means that a number of districts — perhaps several counties — would share certain administrative and teaching services.

The general idea is that schools would save money buying books and supplies for many students over each district buying for a few, or that some sophisticated services, say a computer, could be afforded for a large group of students but not for a smaller group.

The experiment would cost the state $250,000 in the fiscal year ending July 1, 1974, and $500,000 for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1975.

"No definite decision has been made on what group will be a part of the model," said Dr. Paul Spade, assistant superintendent of public instruction.

"Basically the problem is that many districts, maybe one-half of them, have fewer than 5,000 pupils. These districts aren't big enough to provide the full range of services that is needed."

Such an educational resources district is spelled out in the administration's budget bill, House Bill No. 86. It would serve a minimum of 35,000 pupils, maybe far more.

"In a metropolitan district, perhaps only one county would be included," said Dr. Spade, "but in Appalachian counties maybe as many as a dozen would be grouped."

Such a cooperative resources district would help with curriculum in the purchase and revising of teaching materials, in the selections of textbooks and other materials.

It would get into cooperative purchasing of all manner of supplies.

It would obtain educational statistical material, information systems and financial accounting systems, virtually all operating aspects.

Additionally, it would provide, for instance, psychological services not now available to small districts, even computer services.

Computers figure to enter more and more into teaching, but the use of a computer is pegged on a minimum of 60,000 pupils.

The resources center concept is a a part of a general desire among educators to make more economic units out of Ohio school districts. They have even talked about making all districts county-wide.

"You can forget that," said a top education official, "that one will never happen."

He meant that too many local pressures will prevent any general group of districts. Each community would figure it might come out poorly in a group, worse than alone.

Garden tools are especially subjected to abuse. Home owners who meticulously care for the tools in their workshops are often careless about maintaining the equipment used in and around the garden.

Why this is so is difficult to explain. Perhaps there is a feeling that garden tools, having been made for outdoor use, are better able to withstand the vagaries of the weather. Not so in most cases. Handles split and break; spades bend; edges get dull; bolts and rivets come loose; metal rusts.

When a wooden handle has split, it usually can be repaired by winding tape around it, but not before first applying some waterproof glue to the split portion.

In pushing glue into the break, great care must be exercised to avoid splitting the handle even further. A handle repaired with both glue and tape will last indefinitely.

IF THE SPLIT extends all the way down the handle or is otherwise likely to be difficult to repair, it is best to get a new handle. The cost of one is a lot less than the cost of a new tool. In making the purchase, be sure to get a handle that fits.

If necessary, take the tool to the store with you.

Handles are attached in various ways. You can use the same method of attachment as the old one, but if you decide to use a different one — which is perfectly all right — avoid driving a nail through the wood. Most handles are made of hardwood and will split unless a pilot hole is drilled for the nail.

A wire brush is excellent for removing rust and caked dirt from the metal parts of garden tools. Following with steel wooling will restore the original smooth finish. If the rust is deep and cannot be entirely removed, get it as smooth as possible, then coat with a rust-inhibiting paint.

Preventing rust is simple. Each time the tool is used, wipe it dry, then wipe it a second time, this time with a rag dipped in oil. When the tool is to be put away for a considerable period, apply some oil or rust preventative to the metal portion and store it in a tool chest or box which will keep moist air from getting to it.

SOMETIMES the rivet that holds a handle to the metal comes loose. It can be removed by splitting one end, then pulling it out. It can be replaced with another rivet, sold at hardware stores and lumber yards, or a nut and bolt.

Shovels, spades and hoes that are out of shape can be hammered back to usefulness while placing them on a hard surface. Once this has been done, resharpen the edges, starting first with a rough metal file and finishing with a fine-toothed file.

Here's the Answer

Q. — The fireplace in our living room leaked smoke into the room for several months after we bought the house. The condition has been corrected, but we now would like to know how to get rid of the smoke stains on the fireplace brick.

A. — Most of the time, the stains will come off with scouring powder and steel wool. If they don't, you'll have to use one of the grease solvent materials and a stiff brush. In either case, be sure to clean the area afterwards with cold water.

It must be admitted, however, that there is a slight calculated risk in cleaning brick, since there is always the possibility that some of the color may come out of the brick along with the stains. A neighbor of mine whose fireplace was covered with smoke stains was able to get all of them out, but found that, unaccountably, some bricks had faded and others had not. He used a water stain to bring the faded bricks back to the color of the others.

Q. — I am installing a wooden door between two rooms in my basement. I have already put up the doorway and have purchased the door, which came without any hardware. How high should the latch be above the floor and can you tell me something about how it is inserted in the door?

A. — A door latch usually is placed about 36 inches above the floor. It wouldn't do much good to tell you anything about installing the latch because it depends on the kind you purchase. Buy a latch that comes with a template which is placed on the door and shows you exactly where the latch should be and how to install it.

Q. — I intend to use gypsum board for the walls in the attic I plan to finish. I have been shopping around and notice that it comes in various widths. Can you tell me which is best for my purpose?

A. — Use the half-inch thickness.

Q. — About two years ago I read an article by you suggesting a way of finishing a piece of unfinished furniture with a mixture of boiled linseed oil and turpentine. I followed your instructions and have been well satisfied with the results, but now I think it needs another treatment. Do I have to do anything about removing the old finish?

A. — No. Just be sure the surface is free of dirt and especially of wax. Then go ahead with the same mixture as before — two parts of boiled linseed oil to one part of turpentine. And, as before, the secret of obtaining a rich, mellow appearance is the amount of rubbing that is done — the more, the better.

Why do people kick tires?

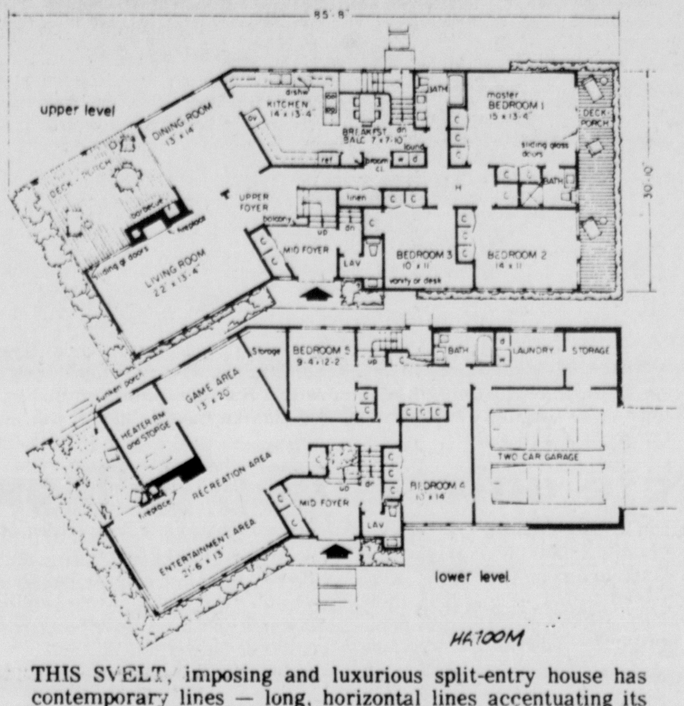

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — It's almost a tradition to kick the tires of the car you're thinking of buying. But why?

Experts at Goodyear think it all began back in the early 1900s when the "clincher" tire was used on cars. This tire was held tight against the rim by clamps, and you kicked it to see if it was properly fastened and inflated.

Tires in those good old days lasted about 50 miles on average, Goodyear notes, By contrast the company's newest tires are guaranteed for 40,000 miles, so kicking them doesn't really make much sense .

OBES layoffs planned for April 6

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Blaming a $4 million reduction in federal funds, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services is slashing its payroll by 10 per cent, effective April 6.

OBES officials confirmed Tuesday it has advised 340 employes they will be laid off that day. This time, they said, the layoffs are being made according to proper Civil Service procedures.

The bureau earlier this month fired 250 workers, but 200 of them were restored to their positions by a Franklin County judge who said proper procedures had not been followed.

"We finally developed a plan that takes into consideration seniority and effectiveness," Bureau Administrator William Garnes said Tuesday.

Garnes estimated that "about 70 per cent" of those whose jobs had been restored are being laid off again.

More employes are involved in the latest cutback, Garnes said, because of the added strain put on the bureau budget by the court order reversing the previous layoffs.

"We had to make further personnel cuts to get within our budget limitation," he said. "We hope this will carry us through the fiscal year."

Garnes said he did not anticipate any further "large number" worker cutbacks, although the bureau has been advised another budget cutback is planned for fiscal 1974.

A new flower for 1973 gardens is Snowflake Dianthus, a vigorous hybrid that won a bronze medal in the All-European flower trials known as Fleuro-select. Flowers 1 ½-2 inches across with serrated petals resemble giant snowflakes. Plants are 6-8 inches tall, excellent for borders, edging, containers and mass beds. Snowflake is an early bloomer.

Plant Troubles

Today we offer a rundown on many insects and other pests that can trouble your house plants.

Mites are tiny insects often found on the undersides of leaves, sucking the plant's juices. This bronzes leaves, which fall off.

Aphids, also tiny, appear in red, pink, green or black hues with rounded bodies and long legs. They also suck juices, largely from the undersides of leaves, causing curling or yellowing of leaves and closed flowers. Aphids, according to entomologists, secrete honey-dew, a stocky liquid that promotes a growth of a sooty unattractive mold.

Whiteflies may kill a plant they infest, attacking as do aphids. A favorite victim is the poinsettia.

Lecanium Scales, difficult to detect due to their tiny size, also suck plant juices and secrete honeydew. They are brown and humpbacked.

ANTS — some feed on honeydew. They protect honeydew-producing pests, such as aphids, carrying them from plant to plant. Ants also may burrow and damage roots.

Cyclamen Mites, microscopic, amber-color, traveling from plant to plant, cause twisted, brittle leaves, deformed flowers.

Fungus Gnats, maggots of tiny flies may injure plant roots. Adults do little damage.

Mealybugs suck plant juices and make honeydew. They are soft-bodied and have waxy covering.

Snowflake Dianthus

Caterpillars, of many colors, eat leaves, buds and flowers of many house plants. Control by hand picking.

Millipedes move slowly, eat seeds, roots tubers, bulbs or fleshy stems.

Thrips, tiny, slender plant suckers, eat blossoms from inside, causing streaked, blotched flowers.

Snowflake Dianthus

Snails and Slugs hide in daytime, chew on plant foliage at night.

KEEP PESTS OUT of the house by buying only uninfested plants and by sterilizing soil before potting. Isolate new plants for 3-4 weeks before setting them with other plants.

If your plants have insects, use vacuum cleaner, then empty bag into hot water or kerosene; dispose of the bag.

To control against mites, aphids, whiteflies and lecanium scales, add ½ teaspoon of a 57 per cent emulsifiable malathion concentrate and ⅛ teaspoon of mild detergent (not soap) to 1 quart of water; dip plants into solution, spray plants, or brush on. Other controls are drenching or trimming.

New Garden Items

Vegetables from Burpee: Green Arrow Pea, yields 10 or more peas per pod; Green Ice Lettuce, crisp, dark glossy leaves, slow to go to seed; Gold Zucchini, easy to raise, medium long, cylindrical, compact bush variety.

Old students pass

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP) — Eighty-one per cent of the adult students who wrote. Grade 12 departmental examinations in December in the Edmonton public school board's evening classes achieved matriculation standing.

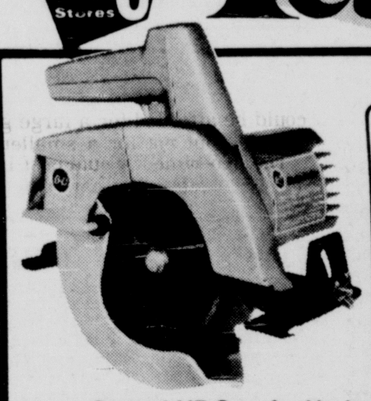

Exams were written by 394 adults, who spent 84 hours on a course compared with 132 hours for regular senior high school students.

Kissinger team shifts with responsibilities

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Incompetents," Henry Kissinger yells affectionately at the backup team that has helped propel him on more world journeys than most modern diplomats.

It's their boss' sense of humor, which staff members appreciate more than anything else in their gruelling, often-18-hour-a-day jobs.

Asian experts, China scholars, military men, Secret Service agents, secretaries, logistical advance men and linguists have supported Kissinger in his role as Nixon's national security adviser and top peace negotiator.

The team credits Kissinger with courage, stamina and brilliance as a negotiator. It, in turn, is credited with never having been caught off-guard on a substantive issue in Paris, Peking, Moscow or Hanoi.

Kissinger now is resting between missions, but, as usual, he and his staff are getting ready for the next trip, the summit conference of President Nixon and South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu at San Clemente, Calif., April 2-3.

Usually 10 to 14 days of intensive planning precede Kissinger's high-level journeys. He and Nixon hold almost daily discussions on the approach and tactics the President wants to pursue.

The staff, meanwhile, prepares position papers, opening statements, toasts and black notebooks filled with background material on everything he could need in tough negotiations.

As he starts the second term, which Nixon says will be the "Year of Europe," Kissinger is revamping his staff and some of his key people have moved on or up.

The opening of a Liaison Office in Peking that Kissinger helped negotiate will take away two of his top "China hands:" Alfred Jenkins, senior State Department Asian Communist expert, and John Holdridge, senior East Asian expert on the National Security Council staff.

Both men, fluent in Chinese, have been appointed by Nixon as top deputies in Peking to former Ambassador David Bruce.

Jenkins, 56, of Manchester, Ga., has 26 years in the Foreign Service. His first overseas post was in Peking from 1946-48. Holdridge, 48, of New York, is a West Point graduate whose foreign service experience included assignments in Thailand, Singapore and Hong Kong. He made a visit to China in 1937 and later studied the language at Cornell and Harvard.

While the Chinese provided excellent interpreters, Jenkins and Holdridge were able to make sure there were no major mistakes in translations. Jenkins joined in numerous bilateral talks with Chinese officials. Holdridge prepared papers, helped arrange meetings and sat in on talks with Chou En Lai.

Holdridge and a more youthful diplomat, Winston Lord, 35, have been Kissinger's indispensible NSC staff twosome.

Lord, described as a generalist, was Kissinger's special assistant for sensitive projects. He and Holdridge made all the trips to China and Moscow.

Until last January, Alexander M. Haig Jr., 48, a personable, tough military man, trained in international politics, was Kissinger's deputy, alter-ego and workhorse of the 100-member NSC staff.

From his cubbyhole office at the White House, Haig masterminded Kissinger's first secret trip to Peking in July 1971 and provided the cover story of Kissinger being ill in Pakistan. He also arranged to get Kissinger to 12 secret meetings with the North Vietnamese in Paris and made an advance planning journey to Peking, holding talks with Chou as well.

After Haig became Army Vice Chief of Staff in January, Kissinger tapped Nixon's new military aide, Air Force Col. Brent Skowcroft as a replacement deputy.

Skowcroft, 48, of Ogden, Utah, came aboard in time to make the advance and Nixon summit trips to Moscow. He is a pilot trained in international relations. He came to the White House from the staff of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

As development warranted, Kissinger called on new experts for his traveling staff.

When the drawn-out Paris talks appeared to have made a breakthrough, he was joined by a genial white-haired Irishman, Ambassador William Sullivan, fluent in French and at 50 the State Department's top expert on Southeast Asia.

Another new team member was David Engel, a 34-year-old foreign service officer from Jersey City, N.J., then stationed in Rome but who had served in Saigon from July 1962 to May 1965 and was described as "absolute fluent" in Vietnamese.

They both took part in the Paris talks and Sullivan worked on the difficult technical negotiations and protocols of the peace agreement. Later, Kissinger complimented Sullivan, saying he was the only one who understood the protocols.

When Kissinger went to Hanoi in February for the first talks with the North Vietnamese on their own soil, Sullivan and Engel went along.

And there was a typical supporting staff including Holdridge and Lord, logistics expert Jonathan Howe, a 37-year-old Navy Commander from San Diego, and the youngest of Kissinger's staffers, Peter Rodman, a 29-year-old Bostonian who had been one of Kissinger's students at Harvard.

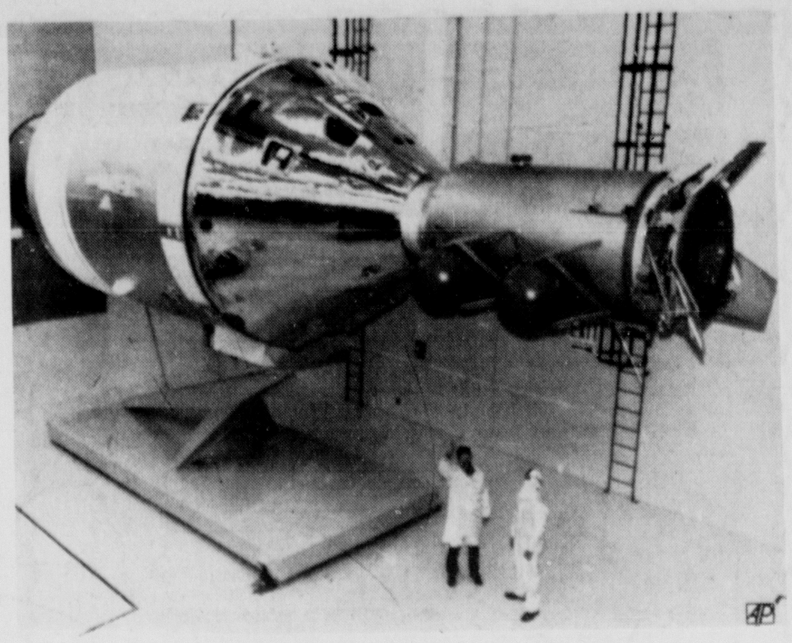

A key role in Kissinger's traveling troupe is played by what he calls his "virtuoso secretaries."

The one who made the most trips—12 in all including the Peking and Moscow summits— was 24-year-old Julienne Pineau of Bethesda, Md., Kissinger's personal secretary.

Her White House job usually involved everything from ordering groceries to balancing her boss' checkbook.

Lawyer to leave murder case because wife upset

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—The court-appointed attorney for a Sheffield Township man accused of killing a 9-year-old girl has withdrawn from the case, citing fears for his wife's welfare.

Adelbert Balunek of Avon Lake declined to say, however, that he or his wife had been threatened. Lorain Municipal Court Judge John S. Kolena granted the withdrawal request after Balunek said his wife was "upset and frightened."

Timothy Papp, 21, was charged with first-degree murder Monday in the strangulation death of Roxie Ann Keathley, whose nude body was found in a wooded area on Lorain's outskirts last weekend. She had been missing since March 12.

About 75 persons, including a handful of women demonstrating for a return to capital punishment, were on hand Wednesday at the courthouse in Lorain, awaiting Papp's arraignment on the charge.

After approving the withdrawal of the attorney, however, Kolena postponed the arraignment to Friday, pending the appointment of another lawyer.

Papp has been held in the Lorain County jail on $250,000 bond since he was charged. He had been serving a 10-day sentence in the county jail on an unrelated charge when the sheriff's department announced it had linked him to the case.

Balunek declined to talk about his withdrawal outside the courtroom, but he told the judge that "there have been circumstances and incidents involving my wife that force me to make the decision."

He said his wife is in the final month of pregnancy and that she had "become emotional and physically upset and frightened about this matter." He asked to withdraw because of his concern "for her welfare."

Roxie Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keathley, was buried earlier in the week in Martin, Ky., on land owned by the family. The Keathleys moved to Sheffield Township two years ago from Prestonburg, Ky.

State universities, colleges again seek more state cash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Representatives of Ohio colleges and universities again asked Gov. John Gilligan Wednesday to increase their state budget allotment by 6.5 per cent.

The appeal, by Ohio State University President Harold Enarson and Miami University President Phillip Shriver, followed growing complaints by state higher education officials that Gilligan's proposed 3 per cent increase would not outweigh inflation.

The two university presidents appeared as representatives of the Inter-University Council, made up of officials of the 12 state affiliated universities and the Medical College of Toledo.

They presented the governor with a resolution calling for the 6.5 per cent increase, and threatening a 3 per cent hike in student fees unless the state subsidy is increased.

Enarson denied Gilligan's claims that a 3 per cent increase would enable universities to have a "continuation" budget with spending kept at present levels.

Shriver noted the cost of living index for families is rising at a rate of 4 to 5 per cent a year and "...the cost of living index for universities is increasing by at least 6.5 per cent a year."

Ohio ranks 47th among the 50 states in its per capita support of education and is fifth highest in the fees it charges students Shriver said.

Ohio's state universities "are failing to compete in the market to attract the best faculty available—largely because of inadequate financing," he added.

The governor has steadfastly refused an increase, insisting that giving higher education additional funds would only mean cuts to other state service areas. He has appointed a special task force to look into the schools' financial problems.

Pancake Houses to go meatless

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—The 35 Perkins Pancake restaurants in Ohio will hold a "meatless Friday" this week in support of housewives's meat boycotts.

The statewide president of the chain, Richard Gear, said he ordered the meatless menus after a Sandusky franchise operator proved the idea paid off in profits.

Although the Sandusky franchise normally uses about 200 pounds of meat a day, a meatless special last week attracted increased business to the pancake house, Gear said.

Hearing on fatal derailment under way by Penn Central

CONWAY, Pa. (AP) — A hearing into the cause of an Amtrak passenger train derailment earlier this month in which one person was killed and 92 others injured has begun in this Beaver County community.

Penn Central Railroad, which operates passenger routes for Amtrak, the national railroad passenger corporation, is attempting to determine whether its employes were at fault in the wreck. Four passenger cars of the Broadway Limited tumbled over an embankment in the town of East Palestine, Ohio, during a snowstorm on March 18.

The main question apparently is whether there was negligence on the part of Penn Central employes in not inspecting the East Palestine tracks following an accident just two hours before one Amtrak train derailed.

Called to testify during the first part of the closed-door session Wednesday were the engineer of Train 41, L.P. Moffett of Pittsburgh, the flagman, H.C. McDonald of Bellefonte, Pa., and the conductor, J.R. Cook of Pittsburgh.

The hearing was being conducted by C.E. Williamson, superintendent of the Penn Central's Altoona division.

The results of the closed-door testimony will be aired later by the Ohio Public Utilities Commission and the National Transportation Safety Board.

Ohio and federal authorities were attending the hearing.

The Penn Central told the Ohio PUC its latest tally of injured was 56 paying passengers, 12 nonpaying and 24 employes.

Steelworkers given proposal

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Officials of the United Steelworkers of America have urged approval of a pioneer agreement with management that they say could end crisis bargaining in the steel industry.

Some 600 men representing the nation's 500,000 basic steelworkers are scheduled to vote today on the "Experimental Negotiating Proposal."

It would assure steelworkers a 3 per cent yearly wage increase through 1976 and provide for a $150 per-man bonus when the union's current contract expires in 1974, in "consideration of the contribution made ... to the stability of steel operations."

The experimental agreement would also prohibit strikes during negotiations, with disputes arising during negotiations to be settled by binding arbitration.

Red China leads in limb transplants

PEKING (AP) — There is a girl walking around in China with an offside foot.

It was one example, shown in a movie to American visitors, of high skill in replacing lost limbs, a specialty in which Chinese surgeons are probably the world's leaders.

The film showed her walking pretty normally, unassisted, about a year after the accident.

Surgeons at the hospital, a big general one specializing in orthopedics, said they have performed 40 operations to reimplant severed limbs in the last nine years, with 27 of them "successful."

Similar surgery is performed in a number of other hospitals, they said, including some smaller ones staffed by surgeons given special training in the delicate work of restoring connections between blood vessels, nerves and other tissues.

Reimplantation surgery is done in the United States but usually in specialized hospitals and not so frequently as reported here, said American surgeons visiting China at the invitation of the China Medical Association.

The movie showed restoration of a man's arm which had been severed between elbow and shoulder; a young man pushing a wheel barrow and harvesting wheat after losing his hand above the wrist; and another man, said to have disobeyed safety regulations, feeding raw materials into a cutting machine in a factory with a hand that had been lopped off below the wrist by the same machine.

The Chishuei Tan Hospital is responsible for emergency care for accidents among workers in a number of factories, where doctors can give first aid, with patients taken to the big hospital by ambulance if the situation requires. Rural areas have district hospitals that can also feed patients to larger institutions.

Hear OREC testimony on Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The executive secretary of the Ohio Real Estate Commission will testify Friday before Commerce Director Dennis Shaul on how former Gov. James A. Rhodes received a broker's license in 1971.

Shaul said Vernon McMillen will appear to get his testimony on record. After that, the commerce director said, "We will make a decision whether to ask the commission to take action against a specific license."

Shaul indicated the probe may lead to personal testimony by Rhodes on how he received his license in the final days of his Republican administration. Rhodes apparently received the license after taking a brief oral examination, but not a written test as required.

If a commission hearing is called, Shaul said, it "would deal specifically with the licensing of Rhodes."

At a hearing conducted by Shaul Wednesday, an attorney for former commissioner P. G. Graves of Cincinnati said his client would not appear to testify about Rhodes' license.

William Lohr said Shaul did not have the authority to conduct the hearing or issue subpoenas. Lohr told the commerce director the same thing last Friday when former commissioner John Pace of Upper Arlington did not appear.

Abercrombie doubts meat boycott to be effective

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio Agriculture Director Gene Abercrombie says he doubts the meat boycott will last long enough to have any real effect on prices.

"I can't foresee it keeping up," Abercrombie said Wednesday. "People like meat too well."

If the boycott does work, he said, it could have an adverse long-range effect on supply, which would mean a subsequent rise in prices.

"If the farmers felt like they weren't getting a fair price, they're not going to raise them (animals)," he said.

In Cleveland, a spokesman for the Cuyahoga County American Party said consumer protests over high prices are only attacking the symptoms of inflation and not the real problem.

"The correct solution," said Thomas W. Lippitt, "is to abolish all unnecessary federal programs, balance the budget and go back to the gold standard."

He said the federal government is putting too much money into circulation and paying only lip service to stopping inflation.

Although the meat boycott doesn't start officiallly until April 1, meat prices around Ohio dropped slightly this week.

Harold Rich, president of Kahn's and Sons in Cincinnati, packagers and distributors of beef and pork products to 21 states, said it was too early to determine what caused the price drop.

"Sales have slowed lately," he said. "But we can't say this is due to the consumer boycott effort.

"There's been a slowing of fresh meat sales, there's no doubt about that," he added.

Abortion set at new clinic in Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati's first abortion clinic will open Monday and an abortion is scheduled, according to Joseph M. Blaine of a pro-abortion group named Choice.

Blaine says the abortion will be performed at a downtown office building, but refused to reveal the location.

He says abortions would have been performed sooner but physicians were concerned "they might lose all their Catholic patients.

"Sooner or later," he added, "it'll breakdown, just like eating meat on Friday."

The abortion, if performed at the first of two non-profit clinics, would apparently be the first openly-admitted action in Cincinnati since the U.S. Supreme Court ruling against anti-abortion laws of most states in January.

Blaine, who operates a company called Aeromedic and says "a big part of my business" comes from flying area women to New York for legal abortions, says doctors and patients are waiting to use the two clinics.

Middletown sets hospital work

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Middletown Hospital is to undergo a $10 million improvement project and despite a $3 to $4 per day increase for each patient, costs will stay well below the medical average for the area.

That's the report from the Health Planning Association of the Central Ohio River Valley, which endorsed the plan Wednesday.

Even with the increase, says CORVA, the hospital will be approximately $10 below the averge cost per patient of hospitals covered by Blue Cross of Southwest Ohio.

What's happening to the small farmer?

By BASIL PENNY
The Anniston Star
For THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

GRANTLEY, Ala. (AP) — David Grimes and his wife, Ruby, have a 225-acre farm here, but since their children, one by one, have left to seek their fortunes, the place has gradually become overrun by the forest.

Grimes has tilled the hilly farmland more than 40 years and earned a living for his wife and eight children.

Now, only 15 acres are open to cultivation.

"The farm's growing up now. I've had to back up so much as the family left. And I can't do as much as I used to because I had a heart attack last spring," Grimes said.

"When you don't have any help, and you can't hire any, you just have to move back a little and let some of the land grow up."

The breed of small farmer epitomized by Grimes is fast vanishing.

The ten-roofed home, 54 years old, that hides weatherbeaten boards. The barn and corncrib on a knoll across a dry gully. The smokehouse and other outbuildings. These tell a mute story of age and use.

Two milk cows and a mule graze over a brown pasture. A small flock of chickens scratch around in the barnyard. Assorted collections of worn out farm implements are scattered around the area.

Grimes loves the farm life and has pride.

"I own my own place and don't owe nobody a dime."

Farming has gone through tremendous change in Grimes' time. First, he says, government controls were placed on raising cotton and "You had to have stamps to sell it."

Now, government controls and a shortage of help have given way to something else. Deer, beaver and other animals are eating crops.

"Yeah, they've got us starved out since this government turned the deer in here on us," he says.

The farm is near the U.S. Forest Service's Choccolocco Game Management Area and other choice deer-hunting territory.

"I know one thing, you can't plant peas for them," said Mrs. Grimes.

The pine forest is edging ever closer to the Grimes' place. Mrs. Grimes sums up why they continue the farm life when selling out could give them more of the luxuries of life.

"This is all I know. I was raised within four miles of here and spent the rest of the time right here. This is all I know."

Watergate creates new credibility gap

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new version of an old issue, the credibility gap, may harm the Republican White House as detailed accounts of political espionage and wiretapping unfold in court and in Congress.

Already, disclosures about campaign spying have overtaken official White House denials of any involvement.

Now the question, along with what was said and contradicted, is what will remain unsaid because of President Nixon's use of executive privilege.

Nixon invoked that shield— created by custom and precedent, not by law— to prevent congressional testimony by former and present members of his personal staff.

The President has said specifically that he will not allow John W. Dean III, counsel to the President, to testify before Congress in formal session.

Dean will furnish information to Senate Watergate investigators, Nixon said, "provided it is pertinent to the investigation."

That leaves it to the White House to decide what is or is not pertinent.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, the Democratic whip, said he suspected a White House coverup, despite Nixon's assurance that executive privilege would not be used to prevent disclosure of embarrassing information.

So far, indications are that the public doesn't think much about the whole affair anyway. Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern made no headway in his 1972 campaign effort to turn the Watergate into a cutting issue against Nixon.

Indeed, surveys indicated Nixon was gaining support as a candidate more people trusted. The credibility issue worked to his advantage in the landslide victory over McGovern.

It had been a helpful issue four years earlier, too, when Nixon ran against the record of a Democratic administration that had gradually escalated an undeclared war, had told voters that conflict could be financed without any belt-tightening at home.

Nixon addressed himself specifically to the credibility gap— a Democratic problem—in that 1968 campaign, and said:

"I think that a president must, wherever he possibly can, make the decision for more knowledge rather than less. I have great confidence in what the American people are able to assimilate, and I think, if you tell the American people the truth, they will make the hard decisions."

Early in his first term, Nixon issued instructions that were to have strictly limited the use of executive privilege. Those guidelines were amended by the new rules which, presumably, will keep Dean and such men as former White House appointments secretary Dwight L. Chapin from testifying about the Watergate and related affairs.

Before the election, there were published reports that Chapin and Herbert W. Kalmbach, Nixon's personal attorney, were involved in hiring an alleged political spy for the Republicans.

That drew angry denials from the White House and Nixon's campaign organization.

But L. Patrick Gray III, Nixon's beleaguered nominee to head the FBI, told the Senate Judiciary Committee last week that the two men had confirmed just such activities to FBI agents.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
6 ♥	Pass	Pass	Dble

Opening lead - three of spades.

When a player not on lead doubles a slam voluntarily reached by the opponents, the double practically always has a conventional meaning. In effect, it tells partner to make an unusual lead and indicates that the doubler expects to defeat the slam if partner finds the right lead.

There is, of course, ample justification for this convention. Ordinarily, when a pair undertakes a slam, they either make it or go down one, and there is little to be gained by doubling.

But if a double by the player not on lead is reserved for cases where only an unusual lead will stop the slam, the gain is simply enormous when the double is successful. Thus, in the present case, if East's double induces a spade lead and ruff, followed by a diamond return and another ruff, East-West score a net plus of 350 points (counting South's honors) instead of a minus of 1,780 points.

East's double clearly requests a spade lead. A diamond or club lead would be normal on the bidding, so the double bars either of these leads.

West did lead a spade — the three — which East ruffed, but East, faced with a difficult choice of returns, led back a club. As a result, South made the slam.

Oddly enough, the major culprit in the misdefense is West, not East. West should reason that East may have a difficult choice of returns after trumping the first trick. He can invoke the suit-direction convention by leading the nine of spades originally instead of the three.

This would suggest that, as between diamonds and clubs, he wanted the higher-ranking suit returned because he had led a high spade rather than a low one. With this somewhat delicate cue to guide him, East might have found the killing line of defense.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Secret Atheist

"I am a believing, God-fearing Christian," George assured Kathy repeatedly during their courtship. But after the wedding, he confessed that he had been lying. He had been an atheist all the time.

To Kathy, a devoutly religious woman, the situation was unbearable. As soon as possible she went to court for an annulment, and the judge granted her a decree.

The judge said the marriage lacked the "meeting of the minds" that was essential to make any contract binding.

While the law will tolerate a reasonable amount of "salesmanship" in courting, it will not tolerate deception that strikes at the heart of the marriage relation.

However, not every statement connected with religious matters is considered to be that vital.

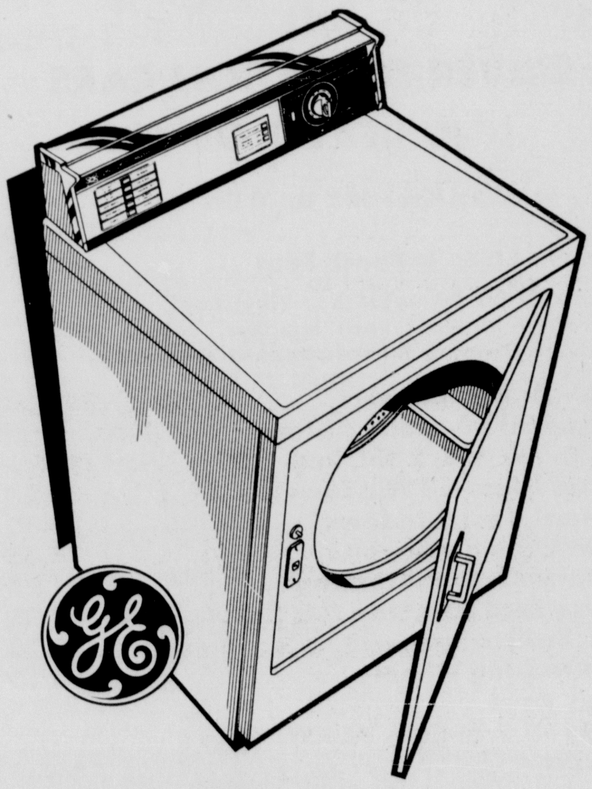

TAKE ANOTHER case in which the bridegroom, having promised to go through a church wedding after the civil ceremony, failed to carry out his promise. For five months he managed to find one excuse after another for staying away from the church.

At last his wife filed suit for an annulment. But this time, the court turned her down. The court reasoned that if she was willing to put up with her husband's excuses for five months, the religious ceremony could not have been so important to her after all.

Of course, the more firmly the marriage is established, the more reluctant the courts are to annul.

A number of cases have been based on the premarital consent by one spouse to have the children raised in the religion of the other spouse. In this situation, even if the consent turns out to be fraudulent, courts have generally refused to find enough grounds for an annulment.

Reason: with the couple having dwelt together for years as husband and wife, and with children already in existence, it is very late indeed to declare that the marriage had been invalid from the start.

Arms control agency falls from favor

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government agency established under President Kennedy to conduct U.S. arms-control policy has fallen from Nixon administration grace, a victim of Pentagon strength and the presidential concentration of power.

The surface results have been low morale in the arms Control and Disarmament Agency, fed by uncertainty and a sense of defeat coming in the wake of budget and manpower cuts.

But a more important effect may be the diminishing influence of the agency on current and future arms-control negotiations.

A major factor in establishment of ACDA 12 years ago was a belief that the Soviet Union with a well-established, permanent organization of experts, was out-negotiating the United States.

Since then the agency has been instrumental in negotiating some of the most important agreements of modern diplomacy: the Limited Test-Ban Treaty, the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty, the Washington-Moscow Hotline, and the first phase of SALT—the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks.

In addition, the agency has built up a core of research and technology that provides the United States not only with the knowledge to carry on negotiations, but with the ability to monitor underground nuclear tests and to keep track of the flow of arms from nation to nation.

And, while this is a disputed value, ACDA also is advertised by its supporters, particularly those in Congress, as a counterweight to Defense Department advocates of increased weapons development.

This was all done with a yearly budget that seldom exceeded $10 million and a manpower staff of no more than 200 persons.

But, in the last three months, the agency lost its director, its leadership at the SALT negotiations, 30 per cent of its budget, at least a dozen key employes, and nearly all its funds for outside research.

The list of woes continues: Three top officials have been told they will be dismissed; the influential General Advisory Committee has been allowed to go dormant, and the number of ACDA representatives on the SALT delegation has been cut.

The reasons differ, depending on who is talking. The administration has made no official statements, but sources indicate the cutback is part of President Nixon's over-all policy of taking direct control of all foreign affairs.

Since the agency was established by Congress and had near-independent status, some of its goals did not always fall into the administration line.

This is especially true concerning over-all strategy for use of nuclear weapons. ACDA officials generally have supported the concept of limiting nuclear power to the minimum number of weapons necessary to destroy enemy cities in a retaliatory attack.

Nixon and Henry A. Kissinger, White House national-security adviser, favor a more flexible approach that encompasses a wider range of alternatives.

In addition, Nixon is said to be anxious to avoid rankling such congressional critics as Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., who charged the ACDA-dominated American delegation gave too much away at the first-phase SALT talks.

There has been a continuing struggle with Defense ever since the arms-control agency was established, with ACDA attempting to offset the military's constant effort to build more and better weapons systems.

Both ACDA and Pentagon sources acknowledge that the military has won. Agency supporters assert the administration has given in to military pressure. Also, with its unlimited resources, the military was able to buy its way in Congress, these critics maintain.

The Pentagon sources answer that ACDA lost because it was unrealistic and tied to outmoded strategic thinking.

Ag Society gets state funds

The Fayette County Agricultural Society (Fair Board) received $14,576.12 as its share of $1,038,600.04 distributed from the Ohio Fairs fund, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

According to Ferguson, the total figure was distributed to the 87 county agricultural societies. Additionally, eight independent fairs shared in $59,228.36, while the Ohio Exposition Commission received $60,000.

Ohio Fairs Fund money is derived from a half per cent tax on the daily pari-mutuel betting "take" at each thoroughbred and harness racing track holding an Ohio Racing Commission license.

The money distributed to the agricultural societies is based on a formula in which general annual fair operations, horseracing, colt stakes racing and racetrack maintenance are involved. The money can be used only for the purposes allocated, as set forth in state law.

THE AUDITOR said each of the 87 county and eight independent agricultural societies received $2,500 for general fair operations, 75 societies received $3,000 each for conducting races during their fairs, and 68 societies received $9,076.12 each for conducting colt stakes racing at their fairs.

Receiving only $2,500 in this distribution were societies in Adams, Belmont, Brown, Cuyahoga, Erie, Gallia, Hamilton, Highland, Holmes, Lucas, Perry, Portage, Sandusky, Scioto, Summit and Vinton counties.

Receiving $5,000 each were societies in Butler, Ottawa, Pickaway and Preble counties.

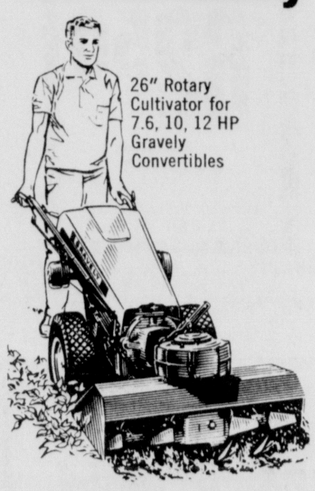

Licking County, without a county operated fair, did not receive any money from the fairs fund.

The remaining counties each received $14,576.12.

The remaining counties each received $14,576.12.

The independent fairs, and amounts received, were located at Albany, Athens County, $2,500; Attica, Seneca County, $14,576.12; Barlow, Washington County, $2,500; Bellville, Richland County, $2,500; Hartford, Licking County, $14,576.12; Loudonville, Ashland County, $14,576.12; Plain City, Madison County, $5,500 and Richwood, Union County, $14,576.12.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last December, Clay T. Whitehead, a top White House official, made a controversial speech that his critics said was aimed at lessening the power of the television networks by striking at the 592 network-affiliated stations in the United States.

Whitehead, director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy, said the average affiliate devoted about 61 per cent of its schedule to network news and entertainment shows.

And, he said, many affiliates don't worry enough about the content of these shows. He said they just run them, pass on all complaints to the networks and "sit back and enjoy the fruits of a very profitable business."

He said a bill the White House was preparing would demand greater responsibility from local stations when those stations sought to renew their broadcast licenses.

His speech was criticized in the industry. But when the bill was introduced it earned the praise of broadcasters. Vincent T. Wasilewski, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, told the annual NAB convention here this week the bill was "a good one."

One question remains: Has Whitehead's speech had the effect of intimidating affiliates and altering their relationships with the networks?

"No," say three station executives who have represented the affiliates in meetings with top network officials this year.

"I think that they (local stations) are concerned, but I don't know that they feel intimidated," said Robert L. King, who stepped down Sunday as chairman of the governing board for ABC's 170 affiliates.

"Fundamentally, there is no basic change that I can detect or perceive at this moment," says Edwin W. Pfeiffer, chairman of the CBS affiliate advisory board that represents 204 CBS affiliate stations.

"The answer is no," says Robert W. Ferguson, chairman of the NBC-TV affiliate board of delegates and executive vice president of WTRF-TV in Wheeling, W.Va.

"I don't think the Whitehead speech did anything more than alert the licensees to the responsibilities that have been ingrained in us from the start," Ferguson said.

"It's obvious that no one ignored Mr. Whitehead's comments," said Pfeiffer, a top executive at WPRI-TV in Providence, R.I. "But I don't feel the fact he made them is being construed as threatening or divisive."

The three executives were polled while attending the NAB convention.

2 Daytonians under arrest

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two Dayton, Ohio men have been arrested at Greater Pittsburgh International Airport after surveillance equipment detected a .22-caliber revolver in the handbag of one of them as they were about to board an Allegheny Airlines flight, the FBI said.

The man the FBI said was carrying the gun Wednesday was identified as Henry C. Vanlue Jr., 25, currently under indictment on drug charges and who was freed on bond on an additional charge of previously carrying a concealed weapon.

Rayford Liddell, 25, was accused of aiding and abetting Vanlue, the FBI said.

Allegheny County police said bills believed to be amphetamines were found on Vanlue.

U.S. Magistrate Robert Mitchell set bond for both at $5,000. County police said Vanlue also would be charged with violation of state drug laws.

Stiffer meter enforcement urged

A letter signed by 10 downtown businessmen and calling for stiffer enforcement of parking meter regulations was turned over to City Council's Safety Committee during Council's regular meeting Wednesday night.

The businessmen listed four points concerning parking meters including the monitoring of meters on Monday and Friday evenings. Safety Committee Chairman Donald E. Wood said the city parking meter ordinance calls for paid parking between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. He said that a provision for paid parking on Monday and Friday evenings previously was repealed at the request of businessmen.

The letter stated that two-hour parking could be more effective, and charged that the meters on Market and Hinde streets were not being checked.

The businessmen also stated that an increase in the parking rates is not necessary. The signers contend that increased revenue could be obtained by proper monitoring of the meters.

WOOD SAID Council concurs with the businessmen concerning increasing the rates. He also said that enforcement could be stepped up but added that the businessmen would have to make a formal request to Council on the Monday and Friday night enforcement.

Council passed emergency ordinances authorizing City Manager Dan Wolford to enter a contract with Photogrammetric Services, Inc. for aerial mapping and topography services, and to purchase a rotary blower and related equipment. Both items pertain to the city's sewer system and wastewater treatment plant.

Resolutions were adopted thanking Donald B. Edwards for his services as a member of the City Recreation Board, and confirming the appointment of James Ward to the board.

COUNCIL placed on first reading two ordinances pertaining to the Storybrook Addition. Negative votes to both measures were entered by Councilman Joseph O'Brien and Council President Billie Wilson. The ordinances are to vacate the public right-of-way of Paul Avenue, and accept the plat of the resubdivision of 16 lots.

Wilson objected to the emergency clause in the ordinances, and O'Brien said he was voting against them because a representative of the developers was not present. O'Brien also said that he would continue to vote against the dedication or vacation of streets unless someone representing the person making the request was present.

Wolford reported that the Planning Commission had recommended that both requests be allowed.

Dumpy slowly recovers as dog lovers protest

SALEM, Ohio (AP)—Salem Police Chief Richard M. Whinnery says he has as much admiration as anybody for Dumpy, the courageous little stray dog who survived being gassed, shot and abandoned for dead in a landfill.

But Whinnery says he has trouble convincing the callers from across the country who phone the police department to chew him out for Dumpy's plight.

"I'm a dog lover," Whinnery said. "I wouldn't hurt an animal."

An Associated Press story last week detailed the 3-year-old beagle mix mongrel's fight to stay alive and his rescue by two Salem women from the dump about four miles north of Salem.

Since then, calls have flooded into the town, offering homes for Dumpy, expressing outrage that the deputy dog warden involved received only a five-day suspension and—according to Whinnery—taking him to task.

Calls have come from "as far off as Oregon," he said. The typical phone call begins: "You bastard, you s.o.b.," he said.

Actually, Whinnery and Salem were only involved in Dumpy's rescue. Both the deputy dog warden and the landfill involved are in Mahoning County to the north. Salem sits on the northern edge of Columbiana County.

In fact, one of the women who rescued Dumpy stresses that she hopes the publicity given Dumpy will spur Mahoning County to reform its dog pound.

"We'd heard reports of this kind of thing happening before at the dump," she said.

Mahoning County commissioners since have ordered the dog pound to switch to carbon dioxide gassing, because the commissioners said it would be more efficient and more humane than the exhaust bypass system used in the dog vans.

Dumpy had been thrown from such a van into the path of a bulldozer, but he managed to stagger from its path. The deputy shot him but then left him for dead.

The two women, Joyce Guiler and Jean Fluharty, heard the story that night and took flashlights to the dump in a pouring rain to find the dog still alive.

Since then, Dumpy has been recuperating slowly. The women say he's being treated for bullet wounds, for worms and that he's still partially paralyzed from the gassing.

"He could be better," Mrs. Guiler admitted. "But I think he'll be okay. He's a determined dog."

County gets relief funds

The Fayette County Welfare Department received $15,581.75 this week in general relief subsidies from the state, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson. The state distributed $8,445,917.17 to the 88 county welfare departments.

The general relief subsidy program is totally state financed and is for the purpose of helping defray the administrative and general relief costs of the individual counties. It is in addition to federal-state financed assistance programs, such as Aid for Dependent Children, Aged, Disabled and Blind.

Size of the March distribution ranged from $210.50 for Mercer County to $2,243,926.49 for Cuyahoga County. Montgomery County received $1,425,571.96.

Distribution of the general relief subsidy to other area counties was:

Clark, $68,178.24; Clinton, $12,853.55; Greene, $81,685.27; Highland, $18,033.34; Madison, $10,690.07; Pickaway, $10,151.70, and Ross, $42,658.85.

Reds picked to win NL West

GARY NOLAN
★★★

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you're tired hearing that "Big Red Machine" cliche, you'll be sick of it after this summer of National League baseball.

The Cincinnati Reds appear to have enough wheels and power to motor through the West, and then some.

How good are the Reds? Well, they're good enough to acquire an All-Star outfielder from the American League and think about keeping him on the shelf.

Richie Scheinblum, who hit .300 for the Kansas City Royals last season, is one of the new Redlegs—and according to Manager Sparky Anderson, won't have a regular job this year.

Of course, Cincinnati's new Rich kid could have a red-hot hand and beat out Cesar Geronimo in right field. But that may be the only tenuous position in a talent-laden lineup that conquered the National League last year.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, defending East champions, may be hurt emotionally by the tragic loss of Roberto Clemente but still have enough muscles to be classified as heavyweights in their division.

Teams challenging the apparent front-runners should be the Houston Astros in the West and Chicago Cubs in the East. If the Reds and Pirates play up to potential, though, it'll be all over by early September.

Cincinnati has a two-time Most Valuable Player in catcher Johnny Bench, a base stealer supreme in second baseman Joe Morgan, a fence-breaker in first baseman Tony Perez and several other diamond sparklers like left fielder Pete Rose and center fielder Bobby Tolan.

If anyone can match this team in potential, the Astros might. Trouble is, they have never played up to potential. Perhaps Leo Durocher, in his first full season as the Houston manager, can get the team to do so in 1973.

The Atlanta Braves improved themselves tremendously with off-season trades and could make a run at the Reds, although not as strong as the Astros.

A poor fourth in the West last season, 25 games off the pace, the Braves have acquired pitching and defense and filled plenty of holes.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have their perennial strength, a strong pitching staff. But a lack of power will probably shortcircuit their pennant drive and keep them behind the Reds, Astros and Braves.

San Francisco's Giants have a young club of potential with outfielder Bobby Bonds, shortstop Chris Speier, third baseman Dave Kingman, catcher Dave Rader and first baseman Willie McCovey. But their lack of pitching depth will hurt the Giants and probably doom them to a fifth-place finish.

Holding up the West, as usual, will be the San Diego Padres, who have slugger Nate Colbert and plenty of baseball babies.

There's some doubt about the Pittsburgh machine this year because of the absence of Roberto Clemente, considered by some to be the best all-around player in baseball in his time. The Pirates may miss the leadership of their veteran, killed in a plane crash on New Year's Eve, but still have enough brute strength to bully the East race for the fourth straight year.

The Chicago Cubs appear to be locked into second place this year—as they have been perennially. Despite the presence of 20-game winner Ferguson Jenkins and no-hit pitcher Milt Pappas, the Cubs' staff is not that deep and will probably be their downfall this year.

In New York, Tom Seaver and Jon Matlack are two solid starters on an otherwise questionable pitching staff. Rusty Staub is the leading hitter, but he doesn't hit too many home runs—and that is another Met problem. They failed to finish higher than third last year because of little long-ball punch and will no doubt fail to finish higher tha fourth this year for the dame reason.

Steve Carlton, the best pitcher in baseball last season, will have some help this year—and for that reason, the Philadelphia Phillies should move up a notch to fifth in the East. The Phillies made some savvy, offseason trades, bringing pitcher Jim Lonborg and infielder-outfielder Cesar Tovar to town.

Montreal's Expos, adored at home, will need all the love they can get this year. Despite the presence of some good young pitchers like Bill Stoneman, Mike Torrez and Mike Marshall, they'll have a hard enough time keeping up with the Phillies, much less the rest of the East.

Gary Nolan placed on disabled list

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Cincinnati Reds' pitcher Gary Nolan can be forgiven if he feels his aching arm is getting to be a pain in the neck.

Wednesday, the 24-year-old Reds' ace was placed on the disabled list for a minimum of 21 days.

A year ago, at the midway mark in the season, he seemed destined for his greatest year. A 13-2 record, a 1.81 earned run average and one of game's outstanding power teams supported the belief.

Today he's a dejected athlete. Once poised on the threshold of greatness, he's wondering when the arm will heal.

And that's not the only thing on his mind. His wife Carol is expecting their fourth child in a month — at a time when Nolan was counting on getting his seventh season with the Reds off to a fast start.

"Ive got to keep pitching to keep the groceries on the table and I've got to be able to look in the mirror in the morning and tell myself I've done all I could do," he said.

"I've always felt I've given my best," added Nolan, who finished with a 15-5 record after shoulder injuries sidelined him the last half of the 1972 season.

Nolan said the doctors believe, "Given proper treatment and a reasonable amount of time, it (his shoulder) should heal."

Nolan's disabled announcement wasn't the only bad news Wednesday for the Reds.

Tom Seaver of the New York Mets made it clear he was healthy again and ready to make life miserable for National League batters.

The Reds were the first to find out as Seaver, making his first varsity appearance in Grapefruit League play, allowed only two hits in a sixinning stint.

The Mets won 8-0, rudely treating Reds' pitcher Don Gullet, who took a 0.90 earned run average into the game.

The Reds face the Chicago White Sox today.

Defending kings nip Lions in SCOL debut

Defending South Central Ohio League champion Circleville pushed across a pair of runs in the top of the fifth inning to nudge a determined Washington C. H. team 3-2 Wednesday night in the league opener for both teams at the WSHS diamond.

It was the second consecutive setback for head coach Rodger Mickle's Washington C. H. team, which will tote a 1-3 all-games worksheet into a non-league bout with always-tough East Clinton tonight at the WSHS diamond.

Mark Johnson, a spunky righthander, turned in a sparkling pitching performance, despite being tagged with the loss. Johnson, a junior who also doubles as the Blue Lions' centerfielder, scattered only six hits in seven innings of mound duty.

MORE IMPORTANTLY, Johnson whiffed a total of 13 Circleville batters. He hurled only 175 pitches in the seven-inning stint and 75 of those were strikes.

Washington C. H., which received a fine performance from first-sacker Alan Coppock at the plate, jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first inning and Johnson protected the slender advantage until the fourth inning when the Pickaway Countians tied the score. In the fifth stanza, head coach Jim Lint's Tigers bunched two runs to grab a 3-1 advantage and Washington C. H. bounced back to score a lone tally in the sixth frame.

Coppock, a junior southpaw, cracked a double and a single to spark Washington C. H.'s four-hit offensive attack and now has six hits in 12 trips to the plate this season to pace the Blue Lion players. Junior infielder David Rittenhouse and leftfielder Duke Willis accounted for Washington C. H.'s only other hits.

Senior Greg Hoskins hurled five innings to pick up the win for Circleville. He was relieved by sophomore Phil Roll. The two Circleville pitchers combined to fan nine Blue Lion batters, while issuing only three passes..

Rock Davis, Circleville's stalwart third baseman, collected two hits in three trips to the plate and scored a run.

Regulations urged on animal trapping

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Division of Parks and Recreation is seeking to limit trapping areas within state parks, Division Chief Jack Miller said Wednesday.

Miller said trapping of furbearing animals is presently allowed throughout the state parks.

Independent race, will clash with Superior Carpet, of Wilmington, in the opener, Miami Trace Faculty will meet Porter Hybrids in the second game and Herb's Tree Service battles the survivor of the Washington Savings Bank-Superior Carpet game in the nightcap.

The championship game is scheduled Saturday night. Benefits from the tourney will go toward purchasing a new scoreboard for the East Clinton football field.

Knisley tops WCH award winners

Lion cage teams feted

Members of Washington C.H.'s basketball team were honored Wednesday night at the annual awards banquet held in the Washington Senior High School cafeteria.

Five special awards presented to four members of head coach Gary Shaffer's 10-9 Washington C.H. team, which finished second in the South Central Ohio League championship race, highlighted the program.

Kenny Knisley, a 6-foot-3 junior who fit nicely into Shaffer's scheme of things late in the season, topped the award winners as he captured the team's most improved player trophy and the leading field goal percentage shooter. Knisley connected on 55.4 per cent of his field goal attempts during the season.

Senior playmaker Chris Shaper was named the team's most outstanding defensive player and 6-foot-4 junior pivotman Jeff Wallace was Washington C.H.'s leading rebounder with a total of 129 bringdowns in 19 games.

Chuck Bath, a smooth-shooting 6-foot-1 senior forward, grabbed the team's top free throw percentage award. Bath, who tied with senior playmate Dick Witherspoon as the top point-maker and landed an All-SCOL second team berth, connected on 71.6 per cent of his free throw attempts, hitting 53 of 74.

The Blue Lion players unanimously agreed not to select a most outstanding player this season.

Shaffer, the fifth-year Lion taskmaster, said, "I was disappointed with our performance, but than again, I felt we played the way we were capable of playing."

Other varsity cagers feted were seniors Dick Witherspoon, Joe Downs, Albert Donahue, Jeff Downs, Mike Domenico and Doug Rudduck and juniors Tom Allen, Alan Coppock and Billy Shaw.

Also honored were manager Jeff Cash, trainers Don Smith and Doug Wheat and statisticians David Butterfield and John Huysman.

John Skinner, who led the Washington C.H. reserve team to a 9-8 all-games record and three-way tie in the SCOL race, honored members of the jayvee squad. They were Jeff Brown, Garth Cox, Cliff Dixon, Larry Dumford, Jeff Dunlap, Mark Essman, Larry Howell, Mark Johnson, Jerry Knisley, Frank Riley, Gary Scott, Mark Taylor, Kevin Terry, Jim Vess and Duke Willis.

Mrs. Nicola Eyre, cheerleader advisor at WSHS, presented awards to the varsity and reserve cheerleading squads. Varsity cheerleaders honored were Glenna Haithcock, Diana Kimmet, Cindy Mustine, Jacci Sagar, Annetta Smith and Jill Willis. Reserve cheerleaders recognized were Diana Brown, Karen Cook, Ima Darling, Teri Mount, Barb Oswald, Mary Ann Rudduck and Johnna Upthegrove.

A special feature of this year's program was the honoring of members of Coach Don Gibbs' 12-3 freshman basketball team. Players feted were Chuck Byrd, Ric Bondurant, Ed Dewees, Mark Fisher, Dewey Foster, Randy Gardner, Brian Haines, Randy Jamison, Mark Lamberson, Greg Marti, Tim O'Flynn, Kevin Pfeifer, Doug Phillips, Scott Sefton, Randy Sparkman and Bob Wilson. Others honored were managers Andy Merritt and Richard Haithcock, statistician and manager Doug McCune and Ron Palmer and the cheerleaders.

Athletic director Bob Bane welcomed the guests and assistant coach Vic Pontious delivered the invocation and benediction. A buffet style supper was served under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Knedler and Shaffer introduced special guests. A film showing the highlights of the Lion basketball season ended the program.

MT blanks Hillsboro, 3-0

Miami Trace, receiving a fine pitching performance from two hurlers and a tight defensive job, blanked Hillsboro 3-0 Wednesday night in the South Central Ohio League baseball opener for both teams at the MT diamond.

The slick-fielding Panthers, who were guilty of only one error in the opening game, turned in a total of 12 infield assists in registering their first victory of the campaign.

Sophomore righthander Tom Riley picked up the pitching victory as he hurled five innings of one-hit ball. Riley, who threw only 46 pitches in the five-inning mound stint, fanned one batter.

SENIOR DAVE Arnold relieved Riley and together the Panther hurlers did not yield a single base on balls. Arnold worked two innings, giving up only two hits while fanning four.

All-SCOL infielder Tony Grooms sparked a five-hit offensive attack for head coach Dave Pellior's Miami Trace team with a pair of singles.

In the first inning, Jeff Spears drew a walk, and Dan Jones sacrificed him to second. Riley's ground out moved the speedy centerfielder to third base and he scored a single by Grooms. A double by junior Randy Reiber scored a pair of runs for the Panthers in the fourth inning.

Miami Trace, which played a total of 15 boys in the contest, will travel to Wilmington for a SCOL contest Friday.

Dave Cowens named MVP

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Cowens, the Boston Celtics' mobile giant, outpolled Milwaukee superstar Kareem Abdul-Jabbar today and was named most valuable player in the National Basketball Association.

Abdul-Jabbar won the MVP award in both 1970-71 and 1971-72, but the 6-foot-9 Cowens stole the thunder of the Bucks' 7-foot-2 ace by leading the Celtics to a record victory total this season.

In a poll of NBA players, Cowens received 67 first place votes to 33 for Abdul-Jabbar. The Celtic speedster got 444 points to Jabbar's 339.

Cowens is averaging 21 points and 17 rebounds a game for a Celtic team which has already won more games than any in Boston's glorious NBA history.

Nate Archibald, the incredible 6-foot-1 performer of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, was a close third with 44 votes for first and a total of 319 points.

Los Angeles' 7-foot-1 Wilt Chamberlain, a four-time MVP, was a distant fourth with 12 first-place nominations and 123 total points.

Cowens' teammate at Boston, high-scoring John Havlicek, was fifth with five firsts and 88 points and Laker veteran Jerry West sixth with two votes for first and 70 points.

Cowens, a redhaired former Florida State University star, has brought unprecedented mobility into the center position in the NBA. His quickness and intensity has erased any size advantage the Kentuckian might have.

He is the first Celtic to become MVP since five-time honoree Bill Russell last won it in the 1964-65 season.

Taylor stays, starts out on recruiting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— With a salary raise in his pocket, Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor struck out today on what he termed "a vital year" for basketball recruiting for the Buckeyes.

The 48-year-old veteran of 15 Ohio State seasons chose Wednesday to remain in his same job, spurning an attractive Northwestern offer to succeed Brad Snyder.

An Ohio State source said Taylor turned down a multi-year Northwestern pact with a $5,000 yearly raise and numerous fringe benefits.

Taylor received an undisclosed raise over his $23,000 salary from Ohio State and will continue with one-year contracts, Athletic Director Ed Weaver said.

"It's a vital year for Ohio State recruiting," Taylor said after a press conference, "especially with the round robin of 18 games coming up for Big Ten schools in 1976."

The Buckeyes will lose their top two scorers from the team that posted a 14-10 mark last season. Graduation will take three-year regulars Allan Hornyak and Luke Witte.

Taylor said it's a fertile year for high school seniors in the state and said he would concentrate on Ohio talent again.

All Ann victorious at Lebanon Raceway

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—All Ann surprised the field with her third win in 14 starts Wednesday night in the $5,000 feature race at Lebanon Raceway.

The 8-1 shot jumped into an early lead and pulled away for a three-length victory. She paid $19.20, $7.60 and $4.

Steamin Jim was second and returned $4.20 and $3. Miracle Lee showed at $3.40.

Late entry Four Oaks Judge and Miss Duffy combined for a $43.40 daily double payoff.

Tom Seaver causes Mets dispute

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New Mets' pitching staff revolves around Tom Seaver and one of the issues in their spring training camp also revolves around Tom Seaver.

The issue: Should Seaver pitch as much as possible, despite the unhappy feelings of others?

"I'm going to pitch whenever the pitching coach and the manager put my name in the lineup," says Seaver.

Seaver pitched six innings of two-hit ball Wednesday as the Mets beat the Cincinnati Reds 8-0, but his brilliance didn't overshadow the issue recently brought to the surface by Jerry Koosman.

Koosman, the No. 4 starter on the staff, had complained about Seaver receiving preferential treatment.

Bob Scheffing, the Mets' general manager, stepped into the discussion rather forcefully Wednesday.

"Tom is going to pitch whenever he's ready," exclaimed Scheffing.

In the other exhibition games, the Oakland A's ripped the Chicago Cubs 13-3; the Chicago White Sox slugged the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0; the Boston Red Sox trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0; the Los Angeles Dodgers topped the Montreal Expos 5-3; the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the Atlanta Braves 2-1; the Kansas City Royals downed the Texas Rangers 8-2; the Milwaukee Brewers beat the San Diego Padres 9-4; the Houston Astros whipped the Detroit Tigers 4-2; the San Francisco Giants tripped the California Angels 3-2 in 11 innings and the Baltimore Orioles defeated the New York Yankees 4-3.

After Seaver pitched the first six innings, Phil Hennigan wrapped up the shutout with three scoreless frames. Cleon Jones walloped a three-run homer for the Mets.

Vida Blue made his first start since signing his 1973 baseball contract last Monday, but didn't stick around long enough to get the decision as Oakland walloped Chicago.

Wilbur Wood pitched seven scoreless innings, his longest stretch of the spring, as the Chicago White Sox whipped the Pirates. Rick Reichardt knocked in two runs for the winners.

Marty Pattin scattered five singles over seven innings and Boston capitalized on Bob Gibson's wildness to beat St. Louis.

Manny Mota and Lee Lacy collected three hits apiece and knocked in a total of three runs to lead the Dodgers over the Expos. Mota had three singles while Lacy collected a triple and two singles.

Bill Robinson, spoiling an intentional walk, swung at the fourth pitch and drove in the winning run with an eighth-inning single as Philadelphia nipped Atlanta.

Kansas City downed Texas as Ed Kirkpatrick and Amos Otis hit home runs; Don Money's three-run triple keyed a fiverun third inning for Milwaukee that carried the Brewers past San Diego; Doug Rader hit a homer to help Houston beat Detroit; Ken Berry dropped a fly ball with two out in the 11th inning, allowing the winning run to score as San Francisco defeated California and Mike Cuellar and Doyle Alexander combined to pitch Baltimore over the Yankees.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Man has been making a mess of this planet we live on, a situation being documented by photographers around the world.

We pollute our waters with sewage, the earth with pesticides and the air with gaseous smoke and a poisonous fallout. Some day, some scientists gloomily predict, the earth will become unfit to live in . . . and it will be our own doing.

Photography plays a key role in educating people to prevent — or to delay — environmental disaster. Here in the United States, an Environmental Protection Agency has been established with a 10-year program to document the crisis photographically while finding solutions.

Project Documerica, as it's called, hires photographers around the country to record what is happening to our environment in six major areas: water, air, solid wastes, pesticides, noise and radiation. The photos are sorted and filed in Washington and are freely available for dissemination and study. Hopefully, when faced with specific images of peril, public reaction will find the solutions.

NOW ATTENTION is being forcused on another worldwide danger: the threat of extinction to more than 700 species of wild animals, and again photography's aid is being enlisted to cope with the problem.

An international conference, held recently in Washington, brought 300 participants from 100 nations to enact protective cooperative guidelines for endangered wildlife. To illustrate the crisis, a group of dramatic color photographs of endangered animals was presented to Secretary of Interior Rogers C. B. Morton, who opened the conference, for display during the three-week meeting.

At the conference's conclusion, many of the delegates visited New York City for a major photographic exhibit of "endangered Animals" at the Kodak Gallery. About 100 examples of animals facing extinction are displayed in life-size color photographs ranging from a two-by-three-inch Texas Blind Salamander to a nine-by-eight-foot Przewalski's Horse.

"The encroachment of civilization plus indiscriminate and illegal hunting have led to the serious plight facing these spécies," said Gerald B. Zornow, Kodak chairman of the board, in opening the exhibit. "It is our hope that by viewing these pictures and seeing how much of the animal kingdom is threatned, the public will become more informed about this critical problem and potential solutions."

THE SAN DIEGO Wild Animal Park is cited as an example of one of the solutions in the search for ways to preserve wild animal species. It provides enough acreage and protection to enable wild animals to live as they would in their own natural habitats.

The Zoological Society of San Diego gets credit for making it a successful venture and for its efforts to inform the public. It provided many of the pictures and also produced, jointly with Kodak, a movie about endangered wilflife which premiered at the gallery exhibition.

The film reports that to avert extinction, wild animal parks, zoological gardens, game reserves and national parks around the world have created the "islands of survival" to preserve and protect wild animals.

The U. S. Bureau of Wildlife, National Geographic Society and Bruce Coleman Inc., specialists in wild animal photography, also contributed pictures for the exhibition. In addition, there were seven separate movies which focused on Galapagos Island and African wildlife, and on the grizzly bear, polar bear, Mississippi alligator, brown pellican and the Hawaiian nene goose.

EACH EXHIBIT photograph has information about the species. We learn, for instance, that Przewalski's horse is the only existing species of true wild horse with only 50 to 80 remaining in the wild; it declined because civilization encroached on its grounds; there are 182 specimens in world zoos and they are descendants of six specimens imported into the U. S. in 1901, and that its breeding potential in captivity is good.

Then there is the California Condor with about 34 estimated remaining in the wild and only one in captivity; poachers and civilization caused its decline, and its breeding potential in captivity is considered poor.

Man's know-how and ingenuity is capable, with the use of photographs or blueprints, of rebuilding and restoring lost cities, buildings, bridges, machines or almost any object. But if and when a species of animal is lost through extinction, man is powerless to rebuild or restore that species. It is gone forever.

THAT IS the message as you look at the Siberian tiger, African cheetah, great Indian rhinoceros, Galapagos penguin, Nile crocodile, Spanish imperial eagle, Aleutian Canada goose, Florida sand hill crane and the American peregrine falcon. They and 700 others around the world are losing the numbers game.

Some photographic exhibitions are visually exciting or colorful or inspiring. Kodak's "Endangered Animals" is thought-provoking and grim. Hopefully the public can be made aware of the problem, as with our environmental crisis, and solutions can be found.

Ohio jail escapee shot in Milwaukee

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Milwaukee, Wis., police report that a man believed to be a Franklin County, Ohio, jail escapee was critically wounded in a shootout with a Milwaukee patrolman Wednesday night.

The wounded man was tentatively identified as Orville Leland Davis Jr., 30, of Milford, Ohio, who escaped from custody at Mt. Carmel Hospital here March 24. He had been taken to the hospital from the Franklin County Jail for treatment.

The Franklin County Sheriff's office said the identification was based on a description of the man and a sheriff's revolver found on him that was taken by Davis during his escape.

Milwaukee police said the man shot identified himself as Joseph Peters of Milwaukee.

The man was stopped by a Milwaukee Patrolman Gary Patulski after he allegedly tried unsuccessfully to abduct a motorist. Patulski, 33, received two gunshot wounds in the hands during the shootout and is in good condition in a Milwaukee hospital.

Davis is wanted in Ohio on several armed robbery charges and a charge of fleeing confinement.

Peanuts Dangerous for Kids

My 7-year-old daughter became terriby sick and it was found that she had a partial collapse of the lung. An emergency operation showed that she had inhaled a peanut into her lung. It was only after she got well that I was told by a neighbor that you had warned against this. I really believe that you should write about this again and spare others the terrible experience that we had.

Mrs. F. J., Ky.

Dear Mrs. J.:

I am indeed sorry that your child had aspirated or breathed a peanut into her lungs. You are fortunate that your doctors so readily made the diagnosis and extracted this foreign body. Too often, X-ray pictures of the lungs show a type of pneumonia whic overshadows the presence of the foreign body.

Many child, eating peanuts while laughing, running, and playing can inhale a nut. Unless they cough it up, the nut may lodge somewhere in the bronchial tubes.

Nuts are admittedly very nutritious. I do believe that they should be reserved, however, for children who are older and are sitting quietly while eating them.

What is the danger of sniffing cocaine? Is it any less dangerous than heroin? We were discussing this in my high school class and one of the boys said that sniffy cocaine is not an addiction.

T. Y., La.

Dear T.:

Is it any more dangerous to play Russian roulette with a .38 caliber gun than it is with a .22? Both can be deadly.

Similarly, cocaine and heroin are extremely dangerous drugs. Differences between them cannot be measured in percentages. The boy in your high school class who said that sniffing cocaine is not an addiction knows nothing about its dangers. Such "authorities" whose knowledge is based on total ignorance unwittingly expose themselves to the temptation of drugs.

Cocaine is a highly dangerous drug. In addition to the psychological changes which it can produce, it is also extremely destructive to the entire lining membrane of the nose.

I have seen patients whose septal wall that divides one side of the nose from the other is completely destroyed because of cocaine sniffing.

The greatest danger, of course, is the rapidity with which cocaine sniffers progress to the use of more destructive drugs. Useful, fruitful lives are sacrificed when one falls into the trap of trying any drug "for kicks." It is the ultimate hope that young people like you will learn the joys and rewards of living; joys that are infinitely more exciting and exhilarating than the drugs which leave catastrophe in their wake.

I perspire a great deal and get terrible redness and chafing under my arms and in my groin. What can be done about it?

Mr. V. M., Ga.

Dear Mr. M:

This chafing is known as intertrigo. Opposing skin surfaces become irritated, especially in warm weather and by moisture. Sometimes infection of the broken skin occurs. Special dusting powders and ointments are available. Some drugs too can control excessive perspiration.

Trucker unhurt in fiery crash

A Cincinnati truck driver escaped injury when his tractor-trailer rig, loaded with several hundred pounds of boneless beef, overturned and burned on northbound I-71, just north of the Greene County line, early Thursday.

Sheriff's deputies said Sabina firemen fought the stubborn blaze, fed by the ruptured fuel tanks on the cab, for more than an hour before it was finally extinguished.

Loss of the 1973 model tractor and load of beef is expected to amount to several thousand dollars.

According to sheriff's deputies, the driver of the truck, David P. Fryman, 28, apparently fell asleep at the wheel. Officers said the Fryman truck ran off the right side of the highway and sideswiped another disabled semi-rig parked off the roadway. The out-of-control truck continued on, ripping down 117 feet of guardrail before going over a steep embankment and overturning on its left side.

Officers said Fryman apparently managed to scramble from the cab before it burst into flames.

The other flatbed semi-rig, owned by Darwin L. Little, Millersburg, received extensive damage to the right side and undercarriage. It was not loaded at the time.

Fryman was cited for failure to drive upon the paved portion of the roadway. His rig was a total loss.

ONE DRIVER was cited and one person injured in two other traffic mishaps investigated Wednesday by city police.

Police said Ella M. Cline, 23, of 624 E. Paint St., was taken to Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries following a two-car crash in the intersection of Temple and Blackstone streets at 2:58 p.m.

She was released after treatment for head and back injuries.

Investigating officers said the Cline car was northbound on Blackstone and apparently ran the stop sign. The car pulled into the intersection and into the path of a westbound car driven by Dr. Hugh W. Payton, 50, of 416 Jupiter St. Mrs. Payton, a passenger in her husband's car was also taken to the emergency room for a checkup.

Both cars were extensively damaged. Mrs. Cline was cited for failure to yield right of way.

A car driven by Jerry A. Sears, 27, Rt. 5, and a pickup truck driven by Roy Killbarger Jr., 21, Rt. 2, Mount Sterling, were involved in a minor crash on the Hidy Foods lot. The mishap occurred at 9:06 p.m.

CPB funds being held

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has vowed to keep a tight rein on public-television money until New York and Washington productions cease to dominate national programming.

The position outlined to Congress Wednesday aroused fresh suggestions of political motives and directly contradicted public-broadcasting officials chosen by President Nixon.

The testimony by Clay T. Whitehead, director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy, also revived an argument Nixon won last year.

At issue is whether funds for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting should be appropriated for only one year or for a longer period.

In testimony before a Senate Communications subcommittee, CPB board chairman Thomas B. Curtis and president Henry Loomis argued for at least a two-year appropriation on grounds that planning, filming and editing TV programs often takes 18 months to two years.

The administration has conditioned its approval of long-term funding on legislation requiring the CPB to distribute a greater share of money to local stations.

Housewives spoiled?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation today lashed out at "spoiled housewives and consumers" for boycotting meat and demanding lower food prices.

"The very people who have had tremendous increases in wages over the last 20 years while farmers have had virtually no price increase are now trying to ruin the modest increase that has occured in the last few months," said federation President Leonard Schnell.

"If housewives think they will encourage farmers to produce more meat, milk and eggs by setting out to lower the farmer's income and at the same time demand more wages, they will be sadly surprised," Schnell said of the meat boycott.

The federation's 26 trustees also passed a resolution calling on the U.S. Department of Agriculture not to put grain acreage back into production, a move the Nixon administration says is designed to increase the food supply and lower prices.

"We are suggesting that our farmer think twice before planting the maximum of soybeans and corn," Schnell said, "with consumers threatening to boycott our products and world markets uncertain."

Water tank burns

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A lightning-caused fire caused an estimated $15,000 damage to the top of a sprinkler system water storage tank at the Early and Daniel Co. here today, fire officials said.

CONCERT SCHEDULED — The 120-piece Washington Junior High School Band and the 85-member Senior High Band will present a concert at 8 p.m. Friday in the Junior High Auditorium. The junior high students will give the first half of the concert, followed by the Senior High Band. Charles L. Shaffer, director of both bands, is shown here at a rehearsal of the senior high musicians. Classical and popular music will be played.

ITT hearing turns to firm's contact with government

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate probe of alleged efforts by International Telephone & Telegraph officials to influence the 1970 Chilean presidential election today focuses on ITT's contacts in high places in the federal government.

The Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on multinational corporations Wednesday made public CIA testimony that Harold S. Geneen, ITT board chairman, offered a "substantial" fund in an effort to block the 1970 election of Chile's Marxist president, Salvador Allende. Allende won.

Summoned to testify today were Charles Meyer, former assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, and Viron Vaky, former Latin American adviser to Henry Kissinger. Geneen is scheduled to testify Monday.

Indian talks broken up by confusion

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Two groups of leaders now claim they represent Indians occupying Wounded Knee, and federal officials must determine today which group should be involved in negotiations.

Negotiating sessions in Rapid City and near Wounded Knee failed to materialize Wednesday because Indian and federal negotiators could not agree on who was representing the group of militant Indians which has held this village since Feb. 27.

"We're in the process of trying to arrange a meeting in Pine Ridge," Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., said after a Rapid City session failed to bring progress toward resumption of peace talks.

"The meeting that was supposed to have come off Wednesday did not because the people that we had been told were representatives of people inside Wounded Knee were, in fact, not representing those people."

The scheduled meeting outside Wounded Knee was postponed, apparently because there was no agreement on who should be present.

A meeting did take place in the village late Wednesday between occupying Indians and six attorneys who were permitted to enter Wounded Knee under a federal court order.

City's general fund outlay below 1972

Appropriations totaling $1,121,716 were approved by Washington City Council at its regular meeting Wednesday night.

The total included $451,985 appropriated from the general fund, down $61,382 from last year.

The money ordinance passed Wednesday is for 1973 and includes the temporary appropriations passed in December to cover operations of the city for the first three months of this year.

A large portion of the appropriations from the general fund were allocated for police services. Funds for the police department total $210,472 including $165,360 for personal services, $10,000 for supplies and materials, $19,920 for capital outlay and $15,192 for other items. An additional $7,100 was allocated for administrative support for security of persons and property.

The Fire Department this year is being funded with general federal revenue sharing monies totaling $99,904, plus a voted fire levy which will produce $51,475.

THE GENERAL FUND appropriation for executive and administrative expenses totals $138,087. This group classification includes salaries and office expenses of the city manager, auditor, solicitor, elections, and lands and buildings. The general governmental services appropriation from the general fund totals $176,788 and includes expenditures for City Council and Municipal court.

Other general fund appropriations include: $5,000, corrective institutions; $5,000, recreation program; $9,500, building and occupancy standards; $1,000, solid waste disposal, $1,000; engineers, $2,000; street lighting, $26,500; on-street parking, $8,625, and $35,125, street maintenance and construction.

AUTO LICENSE and gasoline tax revenue was appropriated as follows from the street construction, maintenance and repair fund:

Street paving, $41,420; street repair, $36,000; street cleaning, $15,200; snow and ice removal, $7,815; traffic lights, $13,265, and administrative, $31,130, for a total of $144,830.

An additional $8,850 was appropriated for street paving from the state highway improvement fund.

The appropriation for operation of Washington Cemetery totaled $10,704, and $40,000 was appropriated for street construction, maintenance and repair as the city's share of the county permissive license tax.

Appropriations for voted levies include $22,600 for sewage disposal, and $34,500 to pay for construction of the North Street bridge.

Appropriated from the sewer revenue fund were $159,035 for sewage disposal and $29,555 for sewer maintenance.

Other appropriations were: $12,071, off street parking; $700, street replacement; $7,136 health levy; fireman's relief and pension, $14,448; policeman's relief and pension, $15,396; Eyman Park, $1,555; softball, $2,100, and special assessment bond retirement, $14,872.

Major crime shows drop during 1972

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first decrease in serious crime in 17 years has been reported by the FBI in its Uniform Crime Reports for 1972, although the agency said rapes and murders increased.

Crimes classified as serious were down by 3 per cent overall. FBI records show that the last measurable decrease in crime was 2 per cent, in 1957.

"This is the day that we have been looking forward to for many years," said Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst. "It is an important milestone in the fight to reduce crime and is directly attributable to the strong efforts of law enforcement officers throughout the nation to turn back the wave of crime that rolled up in the 1960s."

Forcible rape, however, was up 11 per cent for the year. Murders increased by 4 per cent and aggravated assault by 6 per cent. But a 4 per cent decrease was recorded for robberies, which make up the largest number of crimes in the violent category.

The report, released by FBI Acting Director L. Patrick Gray III, said that crimes of violence increased by 1 per cent, down from a 9 per cent increase the previous year.

Decreases in the number of serious crimes were reported by 94 major cities in 1972. This compared with 53 cities in 1971, 22 in 1970, and 17 in 1969.

An average decrease of 7 per cent was reported for cities with more than 100,000 population. Suburban areas, however, showed an increase of 2 per cent, but this was less than an 11 per cent increase in 1971.

In rural areas, crime rose by 4 per cent, compared to a 6 per cent increase the previous year.

Crimes against property were down 3 per cent, compared with a 6 per cent increase in 1971. Auto theft dropped by 7 per cent, larceny of $50 and over declined 3 per cent, and burglary showed a 2 per cent drop.

The FBI's Uniform Crime Reports are a compilation of police statistics that are supplied by local, county and state law enforcement agencies.

Cambodian bombing to continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson, contending President Nixon is acting within his constitutional powers, indicates U.S. warplanes will pound Communist targets in Cambodia until a cease-fire is declared there.

Richardson accused the Communist side Wednesday of failing to carry out provisions of the Paris agreement requiring withdrawal of all foreign forces from Cambodia.

McCord implicates Dean, Magruder

Link Mitchell to Watergate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Quoting Senate sources, The Washington Post said today that James W. McCord Jr. testified he was told former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell approved plans to wiretap Democratic national headquarters.

The Post said McCord, a convicted Watergate conspirator, testified Wednesday that his information came from G. Gordon Liddy, a former White House aide who has been described as chief organizer of the wiretap operation.

McCord testified that Liddy told him Mitchell approved plans and budget for the operation in February 1972, while he was still attorney general, the sources said.

McCord testified before a special Senate committee investigating the Watergate operation. But the committee would say only that he gave "a great deal of information on a wide range of subjects."

The Post story said:

"According to the sources, McCord indicated that he knew of additional illegal wiretaps but would not discuss them with the Senate Watergate committee unless he is granted immunity from further prosecution.

"McCord also said that he had been told by Liddy and former White House consultant E. Howard Hunt Jr., another conspirator, that presidential Counsel John W. Dean III and former White House assistant Jeb Stuart Magruder had advance knowledge of the bugging operation, according to the sources."

The Post quoted the same sources as saying McCord told of receiving second-hand information that Charles W. Colson, at the time a special counsel to President Nixon, had advance knowledge of the burglary-wiretapping operation.

Spokesmen for Mitchell, Dean, Magruder and Colson have denied in the past that any of the four had any advance knowledge about the Watergate case.

While McCord was testifying before the Senate committee, Hunt, with immunity from further prosecution, was meeting with a federal grand jury. Hunt was called back today for a third day of testimony.

The grand jury and the committee are after similar information: the circumstances surrounding the bugging of Democratic headquarters and other political espionage, if any, during last year's presidential campaign.

Hunt, McCord and four Cubans who pleaded guilty in the bugging and burglary await sentencing. The seventh defendant, Liddy, was sentenced to at least six years and eight months in prison.

In his grand jury appearance Wednesday, Hunt refused to answer six questions on grounds of possible self-incrimination. He was taken before U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica and ordered to testify—gaining immunity in the process.

An indication that the government seeks to go beyond the June 17, 1972, Watergate breakin came in one of the questions propounded to Hunt in the jury room.

"Besides Thomas Gregory, was there anyone else you ever recruited for the purpose of engaging in spying on Democratic candidates for office—national or local—or in other illegal activities such as burglary or attempted electronic surveillance?" Hunt was asked.

Gregory was a Brigham Young University student who testified at the trial that he was recruited to spy on the presidential campaigns of Sens. George McGovern and Edmund S. Muskie.

Hunt's reply, as read to Judge Sirica: "I will decline to answer the question

ROAST BEEF ANYONE? — Sabina firemen attempt to douse a few remaining sparks in the cab of a semi-rig, loaded with boneless beef, which overturned and burned on I-71, just north of the Green County line, early Thursday. Sheriff's deputies said the truck driver, David P. Fryman, 28, Cincinnati, apparently fell asleep at the wheel. Loss was expected to total several thousand dollars. (Story on Page 22).

Did utilities 'get' Eckhart?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan and deposed Public Utilities Commission Chairman Henry W. Eckhart said the Ohio Senate's rejection Wednesday of Eckhart's appointment was engineered by utility companies seeking rate hikes.

Gilligan also said the Republican-controlled Senate, in ousting Eckhart from his $25,168-a-year job, violated the "basic rules of fair play."

Gilligan said the utility companies, "who during calender 1972 enjoyed, virtually without exception, the highest net income and highest earnings per share in their histories, were not satisfied and demanded Chairman Eckhart's head."

Eckhart said lobbyists for utility companies that have rate cases pending before the commission "have been plotting and scheming for weeks to block the confirmation.

"The real reason for this," he said, "is because I have tried to provide effective regulation of utilities in Ohio."

Eckhart said the Republicans in the Senate demonstrated "loudly and clearly" they do not want "consumer-oriented regulation."

Eckhart, holding a news conference after the Senate vote, blamed the action on lobbyists for Ohio Bell, Cincinnati and Suburban Telephone Co., General Telphone and the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., all of which he said have rate cases pending before the commission.

Eckhart particularly blamed Frederick Eckley of Ohio Bell in Cleveland. Eckley later denied the charge, saying the fact that the company has a rate case pending would be a reason not to lobby against Eckhart's confirmation.

Eckley said Ohio Bell had hoped for a

House OKs amendment on rights; see Senate snag

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — After a debate of a little more than three hours and 24 floor speeches, the Ohio House has approved ratification of the women's equal rights amendment (ERA) and sent it to an uncertain fate in the Senate.

The vote Wednesday was 56-40 on the proposed U.S. Constitutional amendment which prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex. The marathon hassle, carried on a 150-station national educational radio network, included impassioned speeches on both sides of the controversial issue which so far has been ratified by 30 states.

Thirty-eight are required. One of the House's four women members voted "no," and a male House member who also opposed showed up in a Scottish kilt to draw attention to his fight against it.

"I feel a little funny, being the only man in the room in a skirt, but I wanted to make a point," said Rep. Thomas N. Kindness, R-58 Hamilton.

Rep. Ethel G. Swanbeck, R-72 Huron, said she opposed the amendment in anticipation of what it might do to women in the areas of domestic relations, financial responsibilities and the draft.

Reps. Michael P. Stinziano, D-30 Columbus, and Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, led the fight for the amendment in a House chamber flooded by television lights and an estimated 150-200 spectators, mostly women, who crowded the galleries.

Stinziano, calling opposition to the ERA "short sighted," said action was needed now, or that otherwise, women may have to go on "for another 100 years" to obtain equality under the law. He said he failed to understand the division in the House "after the thousands of prestigious endorsements" the ERA received, including those of Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon.

He and Lehman said there was no ground for fears that the amendment would wipe out protections now in the law for women, and if they had to be changed, the same protections could be extended to men.

Lehman told the House that presently, women are discriminated against in many fields—including employment, "promotions, wages, salaries, and fringe benefits," along with restrictions on credit and business transactions, educational opportunities, and others.

Final American POWs released

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (AP) — North Vietnam freed its last 67 U.S. prisoners of war today, and two giant C141 transports brought them to Clark Air Base for their first stop on the way home.

The release of the 67 cleared the Communist prisons in Indochina of the 587 Americans Hanoi had reported were captives at the signing of the cease-fire agreement two months ago. But the Viet Cong turned up another man who will be freed this weekend.

The first C141 from Hanoi landed 40 men early tonight in a drizzle that failed to dampen the enthusiasm of a cheering crowd of 600 Americans.

The second C141 touched down 42 minutes later with the other 27.

"This is a day of joy and pride," the senior man on the first flight, Air Force Lt. Col. James W. O'Neill, 42, of Las Vegas, Nev., told the exuberant crowd. "What could be more joyous than to be delivered from your enemies and return to your friends.

"The pride we have in our nation and our government could not be greater. And this day justifies our faith. POWs never have a nice day, but we get one great day. Each of us thanks all of you for this unforgettable day."

All the men on the first flight appeared healthy and smiled broadly, but several had been injured and saluted with their left hands. One of them, Air Force Capt. Keith H. Lewis, 33, of Goldsboro, N.C., was on crutches.

Security was more relaxed, and a number of teen-age girls were allowed to rush up to the prisoners and hand them bracelets bearing their names.

Another 82 POWs released Tuesday and Wednesday in the final phase of the prisoner repatriation were already at Clark.

Military officials said they would begin leaving for home Friday, with 27 military men and five civilians freed by the Viet Cong to depart first.

Although Hanoi said earlier that the men freed today were the last American POWs held by the Communists, the Viet Cong announced that one more American, Capt. Robert White of Newport News, Va., would be freed on Sunday or Monday.

White, whose name had not been on any earlier POW lists, was expected to be turned over in the Mekong Delta South of Saigon, where he reportedly was captured in 1969 after his airplane was shot down.

"It's one hell of a surprise," said his wife in Williamsburg, Va.

White will be the 588th American POW freed since the Vietnam cease-fire on Jan. 28. About 1,300 more Americans are listed as missing in action, and international teams are to move out across Vietnam to search for traces of them, a job that is expected to take years.

The 82 prisoners released earlier this week were reported moving quickly through their medical and administrative procedures at Clark Field's 270-bed hospital.

Income tax repeal sought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A group opposing Ohio's personal income tax hopes to take advantage of taxpayers' April woes to repeal the tax and substitute another in its place.

James Stefanopoulos, head of Repeal Ohio's Unfair Tax (ROUT), submitted an amendment to abolish the state income tax to the Secretary of state's office Wednesday.

The newest repeal proposal was submitted a year to the day a similar amendment was filed with the administrative office. The first amendment was placed before voters last November and was defeated.

"People are filling out their tax forms now and they can really see how much of a burden the tax really is," said the Cincinnati businessman. "I don't think apathy is going to be a problem at all."

ROUT's amendment would abolish the present state income tax, require that any future income tax be nongraduated and provide that any new tax must be approved by Ohio voters.

Nixon to speak on radio, TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will make a major radio-television address at 9 p.m. EST tonight on America's post-Vietnam role in the world and on the economy at home, the White House announced.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, in reporting that Nixon had asked for and received radio and television time, refused to give details on what the President planned to discuss.

Hampshire Breeders' show, sale Saturday

The Ohio Hampshire Breeders Association will combine a junior field day program with its annual show and sale in the livestock sales arena on the Fairground here Saturday.

The junior field day program for young people, principally 4-H boys and girls and Future Farmers, will get under way at 1:15 p.m. with registration of judging teams and individuals by William Diley, vo-ag instructor at MTHS.

After Earnest Roll Jr., of Greenfield, president of the state association, welcomes the participants, a slide-illustrated discussion of the selection of market and breeding swine will be led by Denny Shoop, of Michigantown, Ind., who will judge the evening show, and Bill Powell, who will stress the importance of the Hampshire Swine Registry.

Judging of two market hog classes, two breeding swine classes and a pig project class by the young people is slated for 3 p.m. After that will come demonstrations of fitting and showing swine and of new swine buildings (seniors) by David Gerber, of the Area Extension service here. Charles Andrews, also a vo-ag instructor at MTHS, will announce the placings and Dave Runyan will present the awards.

Judges in both the junior and senior divisions who place first, second, third or fourth will receive certificates entitling them to a discount in purchasing a gilt at any sale sponsored by the state Hampshire Association during the year. Trophies will go to the top teams and ribbons to the individual's placing from fifth to tenth. The Marting Mfg. Co. here and Tip-Off Premix Co., of Upper Sandusky, have provided the trophies.

The show is scheduled at 5:30 p.m. in the arena and the sale at 7:30 p.m. Emerson Marting, CCC Highway-W, farmer, auctioneer and livestock breeder, will be the auctioneer.

In addition to registered Hampshires, two groups of commercial Hampshire gilts (often referred to as off-marks) and about 30 pigs, 8 to 10 weeks old, selected as suitable for 4-H and FFA projects, also will be offered. The project pigs probably will be sold first and only young people will be permitted to bid on them. More than 200 boys and girls are expected to come from throughout the state for the junior field day.

Lunch and snacks will be available all afternoon, and supper will be served in the evening in the Mahan Building.

Watergate trumpeted

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Don't be bugged with the commonplace!" the advertisement says. "Locate your offices at the Watergate in Washington."

"Is there a better known location?" asks the ad in The Washington Post and the StarNews. "This is the best known office building in the world."

For rent is a sixth-floor area of 16,000 square feet being vacated by the Democratic National Committee, which is moving to less expensive quarters.

The offices were bugged last summer. Lee Elsen, vice president in charge of real estate and advertising at the Watergate, decided it might pay to advertise his property had been burglarized.

Mississippi flood moves southward

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain-swollen waters of the Mississippi River covered thousands of additional acres of Missouri, Illinois and Tennessee today, forcing several hundred families from their homes and threatening hundreds of others.

The river's crest moved slowly downstream Wednesday, posing a threat to levees and lowlands. The river crested and started to fall at Hannibal, Mo., but the National Weather Service predicted a 37.5-foot crest at St. Louis today and 40.5 feet Tuesday at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Hundreds of volunteers worked through Wednesday to sandbag a secondary levee at Old Monroe, Mo. The secondary levee is the only thing left between the waters and 2,700 acres of farmland and about 600 homes near Old Monroe.

A Foley, Mo., woman, Charlotte Hadler, 53, was killed when a refrigerator on her flood porch toppled over and pinned her underwater. The Lincoln County coroner said the cause of death was not immediately determined, but Mrs. Hadler could have been drowned or electrocuted by the appliance.

A spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers said, "We are having a record flood now. We're higher than the 1947 flood which local people remember as the biggest ever."

In southeastern Missouri, about 150 families were forced from their homes and 70,000 acres of farmland was under water. Several tornadoes were cited in Missouri, but there were no reports of injuries.

In Tennessee, some 50,000 acres of land were underwater. Sandbagging continued at the Memphis dock, but the city was protected by the high Chickasaw bluff.

In one Tennessee county, 175 families had left their homes. The crest was expected to pass today.

Few places in the country escaped some precipitation. There was more snow in the central and southern Rockies and intermountain region. Flagstaff, Ariz. picked up 7 inches of snow overnight, bringing its accumulation to 35 inches.

Fair weather prevailed over the West Coast into the northern Rockies and Northern Plains, the Southern Plains and the middle and northern Atlantic states.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 11 at Williston, N.D., to 74 at Key West, Fla.

Eckhart rejection

promised finding by the commission by April 9, but "now chances of getting it are pretty slim."

Senate Republicans charged Eckhart with incompetency, claiming that the average PUCO case was not settled within 24 months, despite an increase in the budget.

Gilligan, who appointed Eckhart to two seats within the last two and a half years, called the Senate action a "violation of the basic rules of fair play," because the Ways and Means Committee had not asked Eckhart to testify before it recommended against confirmation.

Sen. Michael Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, the Ways and Means chairman, said he would take responsibility for any such oversight. He said Eckhart appeared before his committee two years ago and he didn't see anything that would have necessitated his reappearance in the new General Assembly.

On Feb. 1 Gilligan permitted Eckhart to resign two years into a six-year term and accept another six-year term. It permitted the one-time Columbus lawyer to obtain a $2,288-a-year pay increase, which by statute is forbidden for in-term commissioners.

Eckhart told newsmen he wanted the reappointment only to force the Senate to take some action. The Senate did nothing on his nomination two years ago, letting confirmation become automatic with adjournment of the 109th General Assembly.

As a result, said Eckhart, he felt he suffered a "stigma" in dealing with the public and the press. He said the automatic salary increase that came about because of the resignation and reappointment had nothing to do with the matter.

Eckhart said he was losing "$10,000 to $15,000 a year" from what he could be making as a practicing attorney. He said he had had several lucrative offers in recent months.

"Unforntunately, I must accept these," he added.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Showers and thundershowers remain in Ohio's weather picture and probably will continue to do so over the weekend, the National Weather Service reported today.

Cloudy skies and mild temperatures continued over the state Wednesday night and early Thursday. Showers were also reported with a few early morning thundershowers. Amounts appeared on the light side. Temperatures around daybreak were mainly in the 40s and 50s as compared to the 30s and 40s on Wednesday morning.

A low centered in the southwest will spread showers and a few scattered thundershowers over the state today and tonight as it moves into Illinois this afternoon and Michigan tonight. Moderate southerly winds in advance of this storm will push afternoon readings once again into the 50s and 60s.

Some cooler air will move into Ohio Friday and diminish some of the showers and lower afternoon temperatures a few degrees from today's readings.

The weather outlook for the weekend appears unsettled with periods of rain ending about Monday, with continued mild temperatures. All outdoor activity should be at a minimum on account of wet grounds.

Rain Saturday and Sunday, ending Monday. Highs in the 50s. Lows in the 30s.

Viets go on looting spree

SAIGON (AP) — Several hundred Vietnamese civilians invaded the departure camp for American GIs today on the final day of the U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam and went on a looting spree while Vietnamese guards stood by.

The civilians broke through the chain fences around Camp Alpha, at Tan Son Nhut Airbase, three hours before the last planeload of GIs was scheduled to leave and cleaned out the mess hall.

"They took anything that wasn't tied down," said one U.S. officer.

The last American MPs guarding the camp had just left when the crowd burst in. A Vietnamese MP helped the looters pass tables and chairs through the fence, and other Vietnamese guards stood by while the mob grabbed bread, sugar, other foodstuffs, chairs, tables, cooking utensils and cabinets from the kitchen and 1,000-seat dining hall.

The few American officers left in the area called out a dozen GIs waiting for planes home, and they drove the mob out.

The U. S. Military Command had turned the camp area over to the U.S. Embassy. Its future use has not been announced.

The mob in the mess hall was the second crowd of scavengers. Earlier in the day the camp's Vietnamese maids moved in to snatch up the departing soldiers' leavings—and some things they hadn't planned to leave.

Sgt. Charles Dennis of Easton, Pa., bound for Thailand, was in a sweat.

"I took two of my bags over to the terminal and came back five minutes later, and the other two were gone," he said. " I've lost all my clothes and my shaving gear."

"I've got all my stuff in a locker with two locks on it," said Pfc. Michael Bounds, an MP from Jackson, Miss. "Last time I looked it was still there. This place is so crooked it's unreal."

Believe 2nd ship survived storm

NEW YORK (AP) — The Coast Guard reported today it had received an indication that the missing Norwegian freighter Anita may have survived the fierce Atlantic storm that claimed another ship last week.

The second vessel, the Norse Variant, went down last Thursday in the ocean tumult. One of its 30 crewmen was rescued after clinging to a raft for three days.

Both ships left Virginia ports last Wednesday and were bound for Germany with cargos of coal. Both disappeared in the storm off the New Jersey Coast.

However, the Coast Guard said today that a Canadian radio station reported late Wednesday night that it had picked up brief voice signals from the Anita Sunday and Monday nights.

Telephones still out

MT. VERNON, Ohio (AP) — About 4,000 United Telephone Co. subscribers still had no phone service today as repairmen continued to splice thousands of wire to cables cut accidentally by a construction crew Tuesday.

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices opened higher on the stock market today, continuing a three-day rally, then edged toward mixed at noontime.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off .83 to 947.17. Advancing Big Board stocks edged out losers 621 to 461 in moderate trading. The Big Board volume leader was Talcott National, down 1 to 16¼.

Analysts said the upward price trend was a reaction to last week's badly declining market, and some added the rally also had been helped by a brighter economic outlook.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index was up .02 to 24.37.

Inexco Oil was the Amex volume leader.

The New York Stock Exchange's broad-based index of 1,400 common shares was up .04 to 59.59.

After the immunity was granted, Hunt spent the afternoon with the grand jury, emerging only a few times to consult with his attorney. Had he refused to answer questions, he would have been taken before Judge Sirica and cited for contempt.

McCord, who gained a delay in his own sentencing with charges that there was political pressure and perjury in the January trial—and that others were going scot free—spent hours behind the guarded doors of the Senate committee.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., speaking for the committee, said further questioning of McCord was put off for a week.

McCord, former security chief for President Nixon's reelection committee, stood briefly before television cameras outside the hearing room and through his attorney refused to answer any questions.

Baker characterized McCord's information as significant and said all leads will be followed up. He declined to say if McCord ducked any part of the committee's inquiry.

It is uncertain whether Sirica will sentence McCord Friday as planned or await the completion of questioning. McCord had offered to back up his charges in a closed court session with the judge, but Wednesday Sirica noted McCord is testifying before the Senate and has agreed to come before the grand jury.

"The court sees no need to go forward with the private conference between Mr. McCord and the court previously scheduled," Sirica said.

Final ceremony closes U.S. role in South Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The last American forces pulled out of South Vietnam today after more than a decade of military intervention that cost 46,000 U.S. lives. The departing commander said the United States had accomplished its mission of stopping a Communist takeover.

As the last 2,500 GIs flew home or to other bases in Southeast Asia, strong American air and naval forces remained on the perimeters of Indochina to keep up the war in Cambodia and to discourage a resumption of major fighting in South Vietnam and Laos.

The 7th Fleet was reported to have four carriers with a total of 200 strike planes within range of Vietnam, and the Pentagon said there are 202 B52 bombers at Guam and Thailand and more than 400 Air Force and Marine fighter-bombers in Thailand.

Today's departures left a total of 1,034 uniformed American military men in Vietnam, including 825 members of the U.S. delegation to the Joint Military Commission, 159 Marine guards at the U.S. Embassy and 50 military attaches at the Embassy.

The Joint Military Commission made up of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong was replaced today by a commission made up of South Vietnam and the Viet Cong. The 825 men of the U.S. delegation are scheduled to leave the country Friday and Saturday. The United States tried to extend the life of the four-party group, but nobody else agreed.

At a 20-minute ceremony closing down the U.S. Command after more than 11 years of operations in Vietnam, the departing commander, Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, declared:

"The rights of the people of the Republic of Vietnam to shape their own destiny and to provide for their self-defense have been upheld."

Order No. 1290 was read officially, inactivating the Military Assistance Command Vietnam, or MACV. The colors were cased at 1:20 p.m.

NFO to withhold livestock during meat boycott

By LEE GOULD
Associated Press Writer

The National Farmers Organization has told its members to withhold hogs, cattle and lambs from the market starting today because of a record drop in hog prices and a decline in cattle prices.

The influential farm group took the action Wednesday night because "the price drop on hogs has been so drastic that it requires immediate action," NFO President Oren Lee Staley said in Corning, Iowa. The NFO also called for farmers' meetings in 15 cities Friday to determine future action.

The falling prices came as plans for a nationwide meat boycott next week gained support. In San Francisco Wednesday, some 200 persons paraded at the Federal Building plaza and shouted pledges not to eat meat next week and on Tuesdays and Thursdays thereafter.

"We want to see the meat rotting in the packing house lockers and maybe we'll get action," said Ray Alper of the Consumer Federation of California.

The decline in hog prices was blamed on "panic selling and a lack of confidence in what the market will be tomorrow or next week" by a spokesman for the hog market in Des Moines, Iowa.

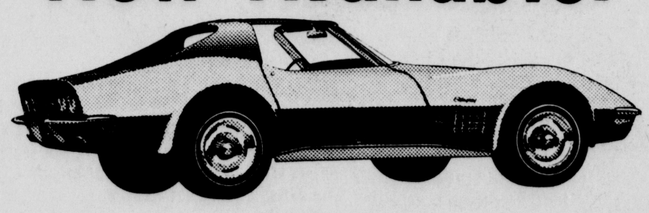

"This has to be the impact of what they call consumer resistance," said Ron Jarvis, president of Oppenheimer Industries of Kansas City. Oppenheimer operates one of the biggest cattle herds in the nation.

Jarvis and other cattlemen expressed doubt that they could withhold herds even from a declining market. "The cost of holding them gets too prohibitive. And I don't know anybody that isn't trying to raise as much beef as they can," said cattle producer Phil Arnold, of Ashland, Kan.

In Iowa Wednesday, hog prices closed down $3 to $4 per hundredweight from Tuesday's sliding prices. A San Diego, Calif., meat packer said area packing houses were processing 10 to 20 per cent less beef than normal.

Metropolitan New York meat packers were also feeling the effects of the threatened boycott. At the Bronx Terminal Meat Market, wholesalers reported cutting their work forces by as much as 50 per cent.

Fulbright demands answers on U.S. role in Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that U.S. troops are only two days away from leaving South Vietnam, Sen. J.W. Fulbright wants to know how the Nixon administration justifies continued American bombing missions in Cambodia.

"What are American forces doing in Cambodia? Whom are we striking? Whom are we supplying? How many Americans are in Cambodia, in or out of uniform? By what authority is the United States carrying on any military activities in Cambodia?"

Those were some of the questions posed Tuesday by Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

It is imperative, said Fulbright, that the administration explain its Cambodian policy, or "I see no course other than a full public hearing with the secretary of state to explore this subject in depth."

Fulbright made his demand in a series of questions placed in the Congressional Record. Just before Fulbright's questions were made public, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was asked to cite President Nixon's constitutional authority for continuing military operations in Cambodia.

Ziegler replied that "Communist forces have not respected the unilateral cease-fire" proclaimed by the Lon Nol government and, as a consequence, the Cambodian regime had asked for air support. Ziegler said North Vietnam is violating the Paris agreement by not withdrawing its troops from Cambodia, which was part of the old French Indochina, along with Vietnam and Laos.

Ziegler said North Vietnam is in violation of Article 20 of the Paris accord governing withdrawal of outside forces.

Pressed further to cite Nixon's constitutional authority, Ziegler said he was "not prepared to address in any more specifics" the Cambodia situation.

Secret voting in national elections became federal law in 1875.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Study requirements; discriminate carefully between what's necessary and what's not too important to your schedule. There may not be time for all, but be sure to tend to essentials fully.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

The odds are against you right now, so it's no time to tackle the opposition. Postpone action until Monday when you'll have a better chance of getting what you want.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Lunar influences now encourage well-organized moves, but you will need a great deal of resourcefulness to cover all the angles. Evening hours promise stimulating social activities.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Past investments of time and effort now begin to pay off, but don't rest on your laurels. Strike out for bigger and better attainment.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Look for the "loopholes" that trick needlessly; be alert to misrepresentation; sift carefully for truths. Once sure you are on the right track, go ahead confidently — and profitably.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Be tactful in family circles, all personal contacts. Recurrences of old hassles are possible if you are not on guard.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Don't force issues now. Like Gemini, the odds are against you and you'll gain more by waiting. But look ahead confidently. Avoid negative thinking.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You may be tempted to take an unexpected fling in money matter and, if your judgment is as good as it usually is, it should pay off.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Do not be impulsive, but neither hold off action because of uncertainty over your abilities. Curb doubts and fears. You DO have ability: Back it with self-confidence.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Inspiration at a peak now. A unique idea you have can be carried off with just the right touch of ingenuity to make it work.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March. 20)

Keep you head and maintain the pace that's for you. Don't let other distract you with ideas of doubtful worth — especially if they involve heavy spending.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with a fine mind, unusual versatility and almost boundless ambition. On the minus side, however, you are inclined to be selfish, overly aggressive and intensely stubborn. Also, you put too much value on material considerations in mapping out your goals. Try to curb these traits since they only stand in the way of your progress. And you have so much going for you that it would be a shame if you allowed such negative characteristics to offset the value of your many talents. So many fields are open to you that you may have difficulty in choosing but, once you have found your proper niche in life, there are no limits to the heights you can attain. You could succeed in business or in the law — which may lead to statesmanship; could also be an outstanding actor, writer, musician or entertainer. Both fashion design and interior decoration also appeal to you.

Toledo loses tax appeal

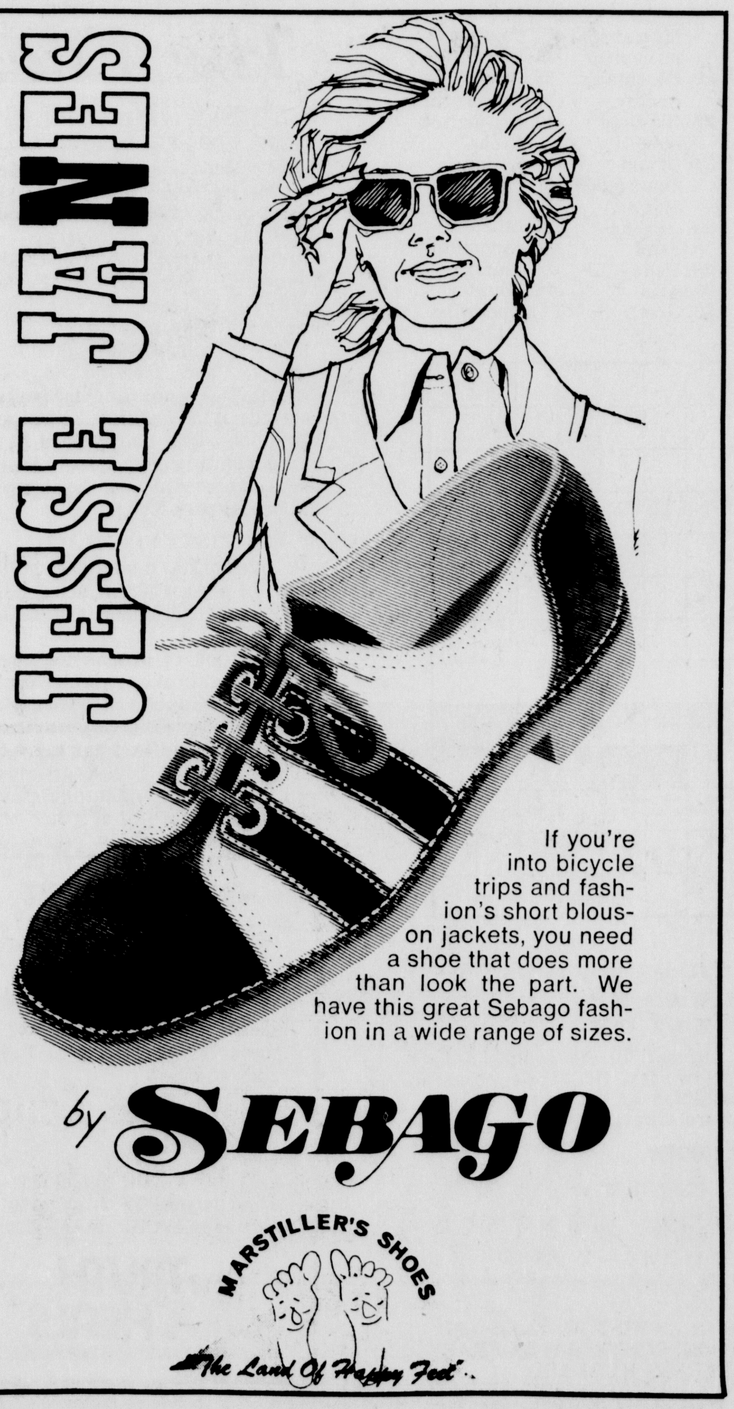

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo lost an appeal Wednesday to have Lucas County local government funds distributed the way they were prior to 1972.

The Ohio Supreme Court ruled that a Board of Tax Appeals decision last year modifying the distribution system complied with statutory requirements and does not do Toledo out of its fair share.

Toledo had contended that the modified allocations deprived the city of its share of funds.

The decision was 5-2.

In another case, the court said Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co. could not deduct the amount of workmen's compensation benefits from its payment to any insurance customer.

Watergate trumpeted

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Don't be bugged with the commonplace!" the advertisement says. "Locate your offices at the Watergate in Washington."

"Is there a better known location?" asks the ad in The Washington Post and the StarNews. "This is the best known office building in the world."

For rent is a sixth-floor area of 16,000 square feet being vacated by the Democratic National Committee, which is moving to less expensive quarters.

The offices were bugged last summer. Lee Elsen, vice president in charge of real estate and advertising at the Watergate, decided it might pay to advertise his property had been burglarized.

Eisenhower discharged

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — David Eisenhower and his wife, Julie, have headed for Washington after his discharge from the Navy.

Mrs. Eisenhower had been living in Atlantic Beach while her husband served as a lieutenant (j.g.) aboard the Guided Missile Cruiser USS Albany at Mayport Naval Station much of the past two years.

Eisenhower was discharged Wednesday after serving two years.

Many homeless

Mississippi flood moves southward

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain-swollen waters of the Mississippi River covered thousands of additional acres of Missouri, Illinois and Tennessee today, forcing several hundred families from their homes and threatening hundreds of others.

The river's crest moved slowly downstream Wednesday, posing a threat to levees and lowlands. The river crested and started to fall at Hannibal, Mo., but the National Weather Service predicted a 37.5-foot crest at St. Louis today and 40.5 feet Tuesday at Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Hundreds of volunteers worked through Wednesday to sandbag a secondary levee at Old Monroe, Mo. The secondary levee is the only thing left between the waters and 2,700 acres of farmland and about 600 homes near Old Monroe.

A Foley, Mo., woman, Charlotte Hadler, 53, was killed when a refrigerator on her flood porch toppled over and pinned her underwater. The Lincoln County coroner said the cause of death was not immediately determined, but Mrs. Hadler could have been drowned or electrocuted by the appliance.

A spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers said, "We are having a record flood now. We're higher than the 1947 flood which local people remember as the biggest ever."

In southeastern Missouri, about 150 families were forced from their homes and 70,000 acres of farmland was under water. Several tornadoes were cited in Missouri, but there were no reports of injuries.

In Tennessee, some 50,000 acres of land were underwater. Sandbagging continued at the Memphis dock, but the city was protected by the high Chickasaw bluff.

In one Tennessee county, 175 families had left their homes. The crest was expected to pass today.

Few places in the country escaped some precipitation. There was more snow in the central and southern Rockies and intermountain region. Flagstaff, Ariz. picked up 7 inches of snow overnight, bringing its accumulation to 35 inches.

Fair weather prevailed over the West Coast into the northern Rockies and Northern Plains, the Southern Plains and the middle and northern Atlantic states.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 11 at Williston, N.D., to 74 at Key West, Fla.

Eckhart rejection

promised finding by the commission by April 9, but "now chances of getting it are pretty slim."

Senate Republicans charged Eckhart with incompetency, claiming that the average PUCO case was not settled within 24 months, despite an increase in the budget.

Gilligan, who appointed Eckhart to two seats within the last two and a half years, called the Senate action a "violation of the basic rules of fair play," because the Ways and Means Committee had not asked Eckhart to testify before it recommended against confirmation.

Sen. Michael Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, the Ways and Means chairman, said he would take responsibility for any such oversight. He said Eckhart appeared before his committee two years ago and he didn't see anything that would have necessitated his reappearance in the new General Assembly.

On Feb. 1 Gilligan permitted Eckhart to resign two years into a six-year term and accept another six-year term. It permitted the one-time Columbus lawyer to obtain a $2,288-a-year pay increase, which by statute is forbidden for in-term commissioners.

Eckhart told newsmen he wanted the reappointment only to force the Senate to take some action. The Senate did nothing on his nomination two years ago, letting confirmation become automatic with adjournment of the 109th General Assembly.

As a result, said Eckhart, he felt he suffered a "stigma" in dealing with the public and the press. He said the automatic salary increase that came about because of the resignation and reappointment had nothing to do with the matter.

Eckhart said he was losing "$10,000 to $15,000 a year" from what he could be making as a practicing attorney. He said he had had several lucrative offers in recent months.

"Unforntunately, I must accept these," he added.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Showers and thundershowers remain in Ohio's weather picture and probably will continue to do so over the weekend, the National Weather Service reported today.

Cloudy skies and mild temperatures continued over the state Wednesday night and early Thursday. Showers were also reported with a few early morning thundershowers. Amounts appeared on the light side. Temperatures around daybreak were mainly in the 40s and 50s as compared to the 30s and 40s on Wednesday morning.

A low centered in the southwest will spread showers and a few scattered thundershowers over the state today and tonight as it moves into Illinois this afternoon and Michigan tonight. Moderate southerly winds in advance of this storm will push afternoon readings once again into the 50s and 60s.

Some cooler air will move into Ohio Friday and diminish some of the showers and lower afternoon temperatures a few degrees from today's readings.

The weather outlook for the weekend appears unsettled with periods of rain ending about Monday, with continued mild temperatures. All outdoor activity should be at a minimum on account of wet grounds.

Rain Saturday and Sunday, ending Monday. Highs in the 50s. Lows in the 30s.

Viets go on looting spree

SAIGON (AP) — Several hundred Vietnamese civilians invaded the departure camp for American GIs today on the final day of the U.S. troop withdrawal from Vietnam and went on a looting spree while Vietnamese guards stood by.

The civilians broke through the chain fences around Camp Alpha, at Tan Son Nhut Airbase, three hours before the last planeload of GIs was scheduled to leave and cleaned out the mess hall.

"They took anything that wasn't tied down," said one U.S. officer.

The last American MPs guarding the camp had just left when the crowd burst in. A Vietnamese MP helped the looters pass tables and chairs through the fence, and other Vietnamese guards stood by while the mob grabbed bread, sugar, other foodstuffs, chairs, tables, cooking utensils and cabinets from the kitchen and 1,000-seat dining hall.

The few American officers left in the area called out a dozen GIs waiting for planes home, and they drove the mob out.

The U. S. Military Command had turned the camp area over to the U.S. Embassy. Its future use has not been announced.

The mob in the mess hall was the second crowd of scavengers. Earlier in the day the camp's Vietnamese maids moved in to snatch up the departing soldiers' leavings—and some things they hadn't planned to leave.

Sgt. Charles Dennis of Easton, Pa., bound for Thailand, was in a sweat.

"I took two of my bags over to the terminal and came back five minutes later, and the other two were gone," he said. " I've lost all my clothes and my shaving gear."

"I've got all my stuff in a locker with two locks on it," said Pfc. Michael Bounds, an MP from Jackson, Miss. "Last time I looked it was still there. This place is so crooked it's unreal."

Believe 2nd ship survived storm

NEW YORK (AP) — The Coast Guard reported today it had received an indication that the missing Norwegian freighter Anita may have survived the fierce Atlantic storm that claimed another ship last week.

The second vessel, the Norse Variant, went down last Thursday in the ocean tumult. One of its 30 crewmen was rescued after clinging to a raft for three days.

Both ships left Virginia ports last Wednesday and were bound for Germany with cargos of coal. Both disappeared in the storm off the New Jersey Coast.

However, the Coast Guard said today that a Canadian radio station reported late Wednesday night that it had picked up brief voice signals from the Anita Sunday and Monday nights.

Telephones still out

MT. VERNON, Ohio (AP) — About 4,000 United Telephone Co. subscribers still had no phone service today as repairmen continued to splice thousands of wire to cables cut accidentally by a construction crew Tuesday.

Stock list turns mixed

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices opened higher on the stock market today, continuing a three-day rally, then edged toward mixed at noontime.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off .83 to 947.17. Advancing Big Board stocks edged out losers 621 to 461 in moderate trading. The Big Board volume leader was Talcott National, down 1 to 16¼.

Analysts said the upward price trend was a reaction to last week's badly declining market, and some added the rally also had been helped by a brighter economic outlook.

On the American Stock Exchange, the price-change index was up .02 to 24.37.

Inexco Oil was the Amex volume leader.

The New York Stock Exchange's broad-based index of 1,400 common shares was up .04 to 59.59.

on grounds that a reply might tend to incriminate me."

After the immunity was granted, Hunt spent the afternoon with the grand jury, emerging only a few times to consult with his attorney. Had he refused to answer questions, he would have been taken before Judge Sirica and cited for contempt.

McCord, who gained a delay in his own sentencing with charges that there was political pressure and perjury in the January trial—and that others were going scot free—spent hours behind the guarded doors of the Senate committee.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., speaking for the committee, said further questioning of McCord was put off for a week.

McCord, former security chief for President Nixon's reelection committee, stood briefly before television cameras outside the hearing room and through his attorney refused to answer any questions.

Baker characterized McCord's information as significant and said all leads will be followed up. He declined to say if McCord ducked any part of the committee's inquiry.

It is uncertain whether Sirica will sentence McCord Friday as planned or await the completion of questioning. McCord had offered to back up his charges in a closed court session with the judge, but Wednesday Sirica noted McCord is testifying before the Senate and has agreed to come before the grand jury.

"The court sees no need to go forward with the private conference between Mr. McCord and the court previously scheduled," Sirica said.

Final ceremony closes U.S. role in South Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The last American forces pulled out of South Vietnam today after more than a decade of military intervention that cost 46,000 U.S. lives. The departing commander said the United States had accomplished its mission of stopping a Communist takeover.

As the last 2,500 GIs flew home or to other bases in Southeast Asia, strong American air and naval forces remained on the perimeters of Indochina to keep up the war in Cambodia and to discourage a resumption of major fighting in South Vietnam and Laos.

The 7th Fleet was reported to have four carriers with a total of 200 strike planes within range of Vietnam, and the Pentagon said there are 202 B52 bombers at Guam and Thailand and more than 400 Air Force and Marine fighter-bombers in Thailand.

Today's departures left a total of 1,034 uniformed American military men in Vietnam, including 825 members of the U.S. delegation to the Joint Military Commission, 159 Marine guards at the U.S. Embassy and 50 military attaches at the Embassy.

The Joint Military Commission made up of the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong was replaced today by a commission made up of South Vietnam and the Viet Cong. The 825 men of the U.S. delegation are scheduled to leave the country Friday and Saturday. The United States tried to extend the life of the four-party group, but nobody else agreed.

At a 20-minute ceremony closing down the U.S. Command after more than 11 years of operations in Vietnam, the departing commander, Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, declared:

"The rights of the people of the Republic of Vietnam to shape their own destiny and to provide for their self-defense have been upheld."

Order No. 1290 was read officially, inactivating the Military Assistance Command Vietnam, or MACV. The colors were cased at 1:20 p.m.

NFO to withhold livestock during meat boycott

By LEE GOULD
Associated Press Writer

The National Farmers Organization has told its members to withhold hogs, cattle and lambs from the market starting today because of a record drop in hog prices and a decline in cattle prices.

The influential farm group took the action Wednesday night because "the price drop on hogs has been so drastic that it requires immediate action," NFO President Oren Lee Staley said in Corning, Iowa. The NFO also called for farmers' meetings in 15 cities Friday to determine future action.

The falling prices came as plans for a nationwide meat boycott next week gained support. In San Francisco Wednesday, some 200 persons paraded at the Federal Building plaza and shouted pledges not to eat meat next week and on Tuesdays and Thursdays thereafter.

"We want to see the meat rotting in the packing house lockers and maybe we'll get action," said Ray Alper of the Consumer Federation of California.

The decline in hog prices was blamed on "panic selling and a lack of confidence in what the market will be tomorrow or next week" by a spokesman for the hog market in Des Moines, Iowa.

"This has to be the impact of what they call consumer resistance," said Ron Jarvis, president of Oppenheimer Industries of Kansas City. Oppenheimer operates one of the biggest cattle herds in the nation.

Jarvis and other cattlemen expressed doubt that they could withhold herds even from a declining market. "The cost of holding them gets too prohibitive. And I don't know anybody that isn't trying to raise as much beef as they can," said cattle producer Phil Arnold, of Ashland, Kan.

In Iowa Wednesday, hog prices closed down $3 to $4 per hundredweight from Tuesday's sliding prices. A San Diego, Calif., meat packer said area packing houses were processing 10 to 20 per cent less beef than normal.

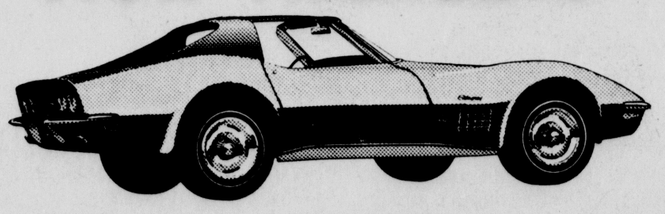

Metropolitan New York meat packers were also feeling the effects of the threatened boycott. At the Bronx Terminal Meat Market, wholesalers reported cutting their work forces by as much as 50 per cent.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, MARCH 30

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Be ready to cope with strangers, odd situations. Pinpoint objectives; be selective about methods and side issues. Step up momentum where possible.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Study requirements; discriminate carefully between what's necessary and what's not too important to your schedule. There may not be time for all, but be sure to tend to essentials fully.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

The odds are against you right now, so it's no time to tackle the opposition. Postpone action until Monday when you'll have a better chance of getting what you want.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Lunar influences now encourage well-organized moves, but you will need a great deal of resourcefulness to cover all the angles. Evening hours promise stimulating social activities.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Past investments of time and effort now begin to pay off, but don't rest on your laurels. Strike out for bigger and better attainment.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Look for the "loopholes" that trick needlessly; be alert to misrepresentation; sift carefully for truths. Once sure you are on the right track, go ahead confidently — and profitably.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Be tactful in family circles, all personal contacts. Recurrences of old hassles are possible if you are not on guard.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Don't force issues now. Like Gemini, the odds are against you and you'll gain more by waiting. But look ahead confidently. Avoid negative thinking.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You may be tempted to take an unexpected fling in money matter and, if your judgment is as good as it usually is, it should pay off.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Do not be impulsive, but neither hold off action because of uncertainty over your abilities. Curb doubts and fears. You DO have ability: Back it with self-confidence.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Inspiration at a peak now. A unique idea you have can be carried off with just the right touch of ingenuity to make it work.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March. 20)

Keep you head and maintain the pace that's for you. Don't let other distract you with ideas of doubtful worth — especially if they involve heavy spending.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with a fine mind, unusual versatility and almost boundless ambition. On the minus side, however, you are inclined to be selfish, overly aggressive and intensely stubborn. Also, you put too much value on material considerations in mapping out your goals. Try to curb these traits since they only stand in the way of your progress. And you have so much going for you that it would be a shame if you allowed such negative characteristics to offset the value of your many talents. So many fields are open to you that you may have difficulty in choosing but, once you have found your proper niche in life, there are no limits to the heights you can attain. You could succeed in business or in the law — which may lead to statesmanship; could also be an outstanding actor, writer, musician or entertainer. Both fashion design and interior decoration also appeal to you.

Toledo loses tax appeal

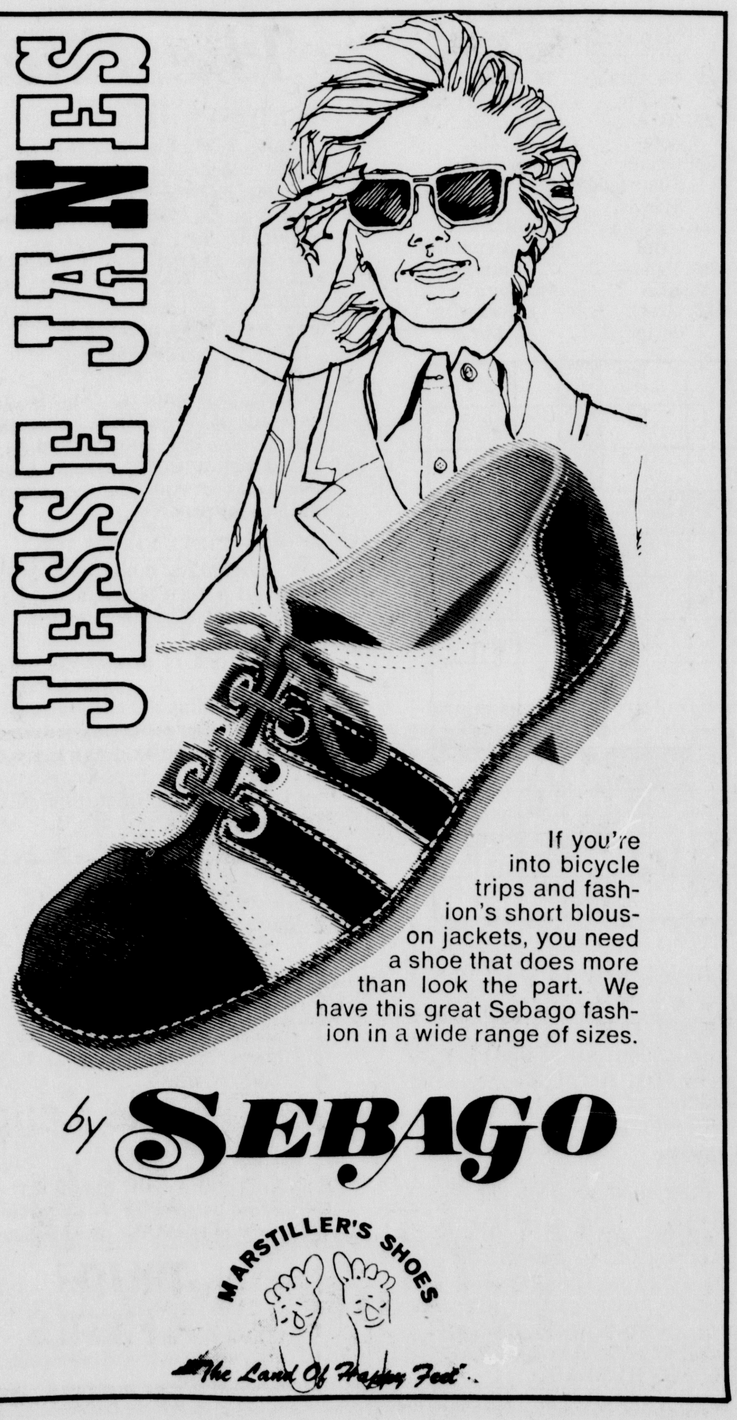

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Toledo lost an appeal Wednesday to have Lucas County local government funds distributed the way they were prior to 1972.

The Ohio Supreme Court ruled that a Board of Tax Appeals decision last year modifying the distribution system complied with statutory requirements and does not do Toledo out of its fair share.

Toledo had contended that the modified allocations deprived the city of its share of funds.

The decision was 5-2.

In another case, the court said Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co. could not deduct the amount of workmen's compensation benefits from its payment to any insurance customer.

Fulbright demands answers on U.S. role in Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that U.S. troops are only two days away from leaving South Vietnam, Sen. J.W. Fulbright wants to know how the Nixon administration justifies continued American bombing missions in Cambodia.

"What are American forces doing in Cambodia? Whom are we striking? Whom are we supplying? How many Americans are in Cambodia, in or out of uniform? By what authority is the United States carrying on any military activities in Cambodia?"

Those were some of the questions posed Tuesday by Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

It is imperative, said Fulbright, that the administration explain its Cambodian policy, or "I see no course other than a full public hearing with the secretary of state to explore this subject in depth."

Fulbright made his demand in a series of questions placed in the Congressional Record. Just before Fulbright's questions were made public, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was asked to cite President Nixon's constitutional authority for continuing military operations in Cambodia.

Ziegler replied that "Communist forces have not respected the unilateral cease-fire" proclaimed by the Lon Nol government and, as a consequence, the Cambodian regime had asked for air support. Ziegler said North Vietnam is violating the Paris agreement by not withdrawing its troops from Cambodia, which was part of the old French Indochina, along with Vietnam and Laos.

Ziegler said North Vietnam is in violation of Article 20 of the Paris accord governing withdrawal of outside forces.

Pressed further to cite Nixon's constitutional authority, Ziegler said he was "not prepared to address in any more specifics" the Cambodia situation.

Secret voting in national elections became federal law in 1875.

Opinion And Comment

Government economy . . but where?

Basically, or at least theoretically, everyone favors economy in government.

But some steps taken with the avowed purpose of conserving the taxpayer's dollar, seem to us to be false economies.

And some of President Nixon's so-called belt-tightening programs have a hollow ring in light of the vast sums which continue to feed the greedy maw of the Military-Industrial Complex against which Mr. Nixon's former mentor, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, so eloquently warned us.

Among the agencies which face major cutbacks while the gun and plane makers roll up their profits, are educational institutions which have contributed more to the quality of American life than the Pentagon ever will.

Libraries, for instance, are confronted with cutbacks in federal assistance of such an extent that they are unable to meet the increasing demand for their services.

A bookmobile is a puny thing beside a multi-million-dollar bomber yet its potential for good is boundless. Bookmobile service to rural people across the country may be halted if the White House recommendation for terminating federal assistance under the Library Services and Construction Act is allowed to become fact.

State-operated bookmobile service in Fayette County has been a part of our educational life for more than 10 years. Federal funds have paid 73 per cent of the operating costs of a program that circulated more than 4,000 books in our community last year and is steadily growing in popularity.

Perhaps a letter to Congressman William H. Harsha in Washington, pointing out that books are more essential to our civilization that an over-kill stockpile of bombs and napalm would help guide national spending priorities in a more sensible direction.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

Problems pile up for Nixon

WASHINGTON — Two months ago Richard Nixon was inaugurated for the second time as the 37th President of the United States.

After a near-record landslide this was the crown of perhaps the most remarkable comeback in American political history. Everything looked rosy, with the President himself predicting for 1973 one of the best years of our lives.

The transformation occurring in these two months is the difference between day and night. With the second evaluation of the dollar and the swift drop in the stock market the economic picture looks far from bright. Inflation is pushing prices to levels not only for food but for almost every item in the household budget so high that consumers are in open revolt.

Most deadly of all is the Watergate scandal. The latest revelation by James W. McCord Jr., one of the convicted defendants in the bugging case, indicates that far more individuals were involved and that every effort was made from close to the top to put the lid on this ordorous mess.

Everything the Washington Post reported, as coming from anonymous sources, seems about to be proved out. Repeated denials by the White House and denunciation of the newspaper have been shown to be futile in the attempt to hush up the whole matter. The trial of the seven, as forthright Judge John J. Strica said at the close, was a farce.

THE SCANDALS of the Harding Administration were crude money scandals. Warren Harding himself was a bumbling incompetent who had insisted before his nomination that he was unsuited for the Presidency. Proved tragically correct. he died before the men he had chosen for his Cabinet were unmasked as bribe-takers and betrayers of his trust.

In the Truman Administration the gift of several food freezers to one of the President's aides was blown up into a national issue. Under President Eisenhower poor Sherman Adams was driven out of office because he was found to have accepted a vicuna coat and a rug from an acquaintance with a petition for help from the government.

Thus, even the Harding scandals were minor compared to what is coming to light today. They were examples of simple greed. The Watergate scandal and the reported scheme to sabotage Democratic candidates in their primaries were aimed at subverting the political process itself.

Directly related are the shenanigans in gathering in the $47 million for the campaign to re-elect the President. Merely on newspaper reports the law appears to have been repeatedly violated. If prosecutions do not follow, the Department of Justice may be considered part of the conspiracy of silence.

OF THE Republican Presidents of this century no two could be more unlike than Warren Harding and Richard Nixon. Harding's private weaknesses — women, whiskey and poker — contributed to his public downfall, as in his amiable way he surrounded himself with dubious friends whose standards were lower than his own.

Mr. Nixon is the soul of probity. In his own private life and that of the members of his family he sought to set an example to the country of propriety — a counter to the lowering of standards in so many departments. This surely contributed to the landslide.

BUT FOR ALL his personal righteousness, the time has long passed when it is enough merely to deny that the White House is in any way involved in the Watergate scandal. Stretching the cloak of executive privilege to cover not only present but past members of the President's staff serves merely to feed the suspicion that something really rotten is at the heart of the whole wretched business.

Nothing short of a complete and documented disclosure, with the President's imprimatur, will suffice.

It was all so needless. As the President said in his interview with the Washington Star-News the election was decided the day the Democrats nominated Sen. George McGovern.

Why, then, the amassing of such vast sums of money by sly and highly questionable means? Why the folly of the Watergate and the vicious effort to undermine the Democratic primaries?

Until responsible answers are forthcoming, public suspicion is certain to grow.

Boy's beef over 4 cents costs company $312, 879

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last November 12-year-old John Malachowsky of West Babylon, N.Y., complained to the federal Price Commission that a four-cent increase for a bottle of model airplane paint violated President Nixon's Phase 2 controls on prices.

"This is only four cents but being only 12¾ years old, this is a big strain on my allowance," Malachowsky wrote.

The increase, from 15 cents to 19 cents for a quarter-ounce bottle of enamel paint, figured out to a jump of more than 26 per cent in the price of the paint.

Monday that four cents had mushroomed to nearly a third of a million dollars.

Testor Corp. of Rockford, Ill., the manufacturer of the model paint, agreed to a total price reduction equal to $312,879.55 which the Justice Department said it overcharged customers when it increased the price of the paint. The company also agreed to pay a $5,000 fine.

Testor denied any violation of the government's price controls, but said it agreed to the settlement to avoid the time and expense of court action.

The Justice Department said the four-cents-a-bottle increase resulted in additional revenues of $312,879.55 to Testor. Under the settlement, the company will reduce the price of a package of paint low enough and long enough to permit its customers a total price reduction equal to the overcharge.

Tax checkoff not working

A tentative judgment can now be made that the income tax checkoff system for financing presidential elections is not working. Not well enough, at any rate. If this method is to supply adequate funds, there will evidently have to be an intensive effort to sell the public on the idea.

It is a simple idea. The plan allows everyone filing a federal tax return to designate one dollar for the presidential election campaign fund. The hope was that this would bring in some 20 million dollars this year. However, in the first 12 million returns only four per cent of the taxpayers checked off a dollar for this purpose. If other taxpayers respond at about the same rate, the fund will acquire only about three million dollars instead of 20.

The Internal Revenue Service has taken some heat for not publicizing the new plan or making it simple enough for taxpayers to take part in it. The IRS may not be the ideal agency to do the selling. Its responsibility extends to making the checkoff as easy as possible, but the push to overcome public indifference or ignorance of the plan might better come from elsewhere. Congress ought to give this some thought, and perhaps set up a national commission to provide the necessary impetus.

Today is Thursday, March 29, the 88th day of 1973. There are 277 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1682, French and English claims in America were divided by the Treaty of St. Germain.

On this date: In 1673, the British crown approved an act of Parliament excluding Roman Catholics from office in England.

In 1790, the 10th American President, John Tyler, was born in Charles City County, Va.

In 1847, American forces under Gen. Winfield Scott occupied Vera Cruz, Mexico.

In 1867, the British Parliament created the Dominion of Canada.

In 1943, in World War II, meat rationing began in the United States.

In 1967, France launched its first nuclear submarine.

Today's birthday: Entertainer Pearl Bailey is 55.

"UNTIL WE CAN FIND SOMETHING TO DEMONSTRATE AGAINST, LET'S TAKE A WALK AROUND THE ZOO."

Hal Boyle . . . Hal's little-known facts

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

You had to be a masochist to submit to tattooing before the invention of the electric needle. The tattoo artist did his work with sharp pointed sticks and wooden mallets, just as sculptors use hammers and chisels. Sometimes it took several days to complete the design on the suffering victim.

Be wary of letting yourself be hypnotized by an amateur. Under the spell of an unscrupulous hypnotist, people have been known to commit crimes or withdraw their life savings from banks and hand them over to the persons who put them in a trance.

Quotable notables: "Always remember that I have taken more out of alcohol than alcohol has taken out of me." — Winston Churchill.

Forgotten heroes: Who was James Hoban? He was the Georgian architect who won a government competition to design a residence for the presidents of the United States. After completing the plans for the White House, Hoban also supervised its construction. To compensate him, Congress voted him either $500 or a gold medal. Hoban had a wife and 10 children. So he took the $500.

Headstrong: The woodpecker is the champion feathered driller. It can beat its beak against a tree 20 times a second for almost an hour at a time, and dig holes more than a foot deep. These cranial vibrations would probably kill any other bird. If you would like to know how it feels, clench a nail in your teeth and try to drive it in and out of a backyard elm. If that proves too easy, try an oak.

Worth remembering: "There was one nice thing about polygamy. If a man married two sisters, he didn't have to break in but one mother-in-law."

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Mark Mills likes toys as any 12-year-old, but he likes them old. The 6th grader has been collecting antiques for six years now.

A mixture of boys' toys dating from the late 1800s to 1930s, Mark's collection contains about 50 mechanical banks, cars, trucks, airplanes and other playthings. He sometimes shows his collection at schools and public libraries.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THE GREATEST MISTAKE YOU CAN MAKE IN THIS LIFE IS TO BE CONTINUALLY FEARING YOU WILL MAKE ONE.—ELBERT HUBBARD

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

She doesn't want raving beauty in wedding party

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and planning my wedding. I want sorority sisters and cousins about my age in my wedding party as I have no sisters. My fiance has one sister, 15, and she is my problem. I hardly know her because she lives in another state, but I have seen her and she is a raving beauty. Please don't think I am a terrible bride, but a bride wants to be the star of her own wedding, and if this 15-year-old knockout is in the wedding party, she will make me look like a dog.

I can't begin to describe this girl's beauty. She has a beautiful figure, long blonde hair, and big blue eyes. She does some professional fashion modeling. When she walks down the streets, heads turn.

I could use the excuse that she's too young, but she doesn't look young. I want to do the right thing, but I don't want to spoil my own wedding by inviting this kind of competition. Please help me decide.

JEALOUS DOWN SOUTH

DEAR JEALOUS: No matter how beautiful others in the wedding party are, the bride's glow of happiness comes shining through, giving her a radiance no professional model can match. Remember this, then make a decision you can live with.

DEAR ABBY: Between you and me, the people who write to you are either morons, or they're just plain stupid.

HARRY IN ST. LOUIS

DEAR HARRY: Which are YOU?

DEAR ABBY: My husband of four years has just announced he plans to attend his first wife's funeral. (She is nearing the end of a terminal illness.)

My husband divorced this woman to marry me. So far I have been too stunned to talk about it, but I would like to know what you think of the idea, and what I should do if he expects me to attend?

SECOND TIME AROUND

DEAR SECOND: I think the fact that he plans to attend her funeral is to his credit. Since he divorced her to marry you, he probably will not expect you to attend. But if he does, if you think your presence there will compound the sorrow for her family and friends, stay home.

DEAR ABBY: Our family likes to get together once a year for a reunion.

Since I'm the one with the largest house, I always have it in my place. This year a nephew called and asked if he could bring his wife's parents and also some of her other relatives. They live right in town. I said I was sorry but this is a family reunion and those people are strangers to me. I also considered how out of hand it could get if everybody included THEIR relatives by marriage.

Well, this nephew said, "Gee, what am I going to do? I already invited them."

I told him he could make me the heavy. To simply tell them that he invited them before clearing it with me, and I said no.

The day of the reunion this nephew and his wife called and canceled out.

Do you think this nephew was out of line? Or was I wrong?

AUNTIE

DEAR AUNTIE: He was out of line—and you were not wrong.

Wedding vows read in Good Hope Church

Miss Alice Faye Isble, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Dixon Isble, Good Hope, and Carl William Dustin Henderson II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl William Dustin Henderson I, Washington C. H., Rt. 6, were united in marriage in the Good Hope Baptist Church March 3, 7:30 p.m. Rev. John Swint, Miamisburg, was the officiating minister. Nuptial music was provided by Mrs. David Caperton, soloist and Mrs. Betty Hoppess, pianist, who also played the wedding marches.

The nuptial setting was enhanced with vases of red and white gladioli palms and seven-branch candelabra. White bows and a single red rose marked the pews.

The bride was given in marriage by William Hunt. Her full length A-line gown of white lace over taffeta featured an empire bodice with a scalloped V neckline and long bishop sleeves of sheer lace that pointed over the hands. Her chapel length veil of bridal illusion, bordered with lace, flowed softly from a pillbox of lace and satin. She wore a white gold necklace, a gift from the bridegroom, and carried a satin and lace covered Bible topped with a bouquet of white sweetheart roses, centered with a detachable carnation corsage.

The attendants wore identically styled floor-length gowns in A-line styling with tempire waists with long bell shaped sleeves, and matching veiled bow headpieces.

Mrs. Phillip Williams, matron of honor was gowned in American Beauty. The maid of honor, Miss Linda Horner, was in deep rose. Bridesmaid, Mrs. Richard Edwards wore deep pink. The junior bridesmaid, Miss Sherry Hunt, was dressed in light pink.

Mrs. Williams carried a cluster of three long stemmed red roses and the other attendants carried two long stemmed red roses.

Stacy Edwards and Crystal Van Gundy, flower girls wore full length frocks of pale pink embossed organdy encircled around the waist and sleeves with matching floral trim. They wore miniature nosegays of roses in their hair and carried pink and white pompons in wicker baskets.

The mother of the bride chose a floor-length gown of teal blue with black assessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a full-length gown of mint green with bishop sleeves of white lace. Their corsages were pink and white carnations.

The reception was held at Wayne Hall in Good Hope.

Assisting with hostess duties were Mrs. William Hunt, Mrs. Harry Pommert, Mrs. Mildred Snyder, and Mrs. Pauline Marine. Miss Penni Munyon presided at the guest book and Mrs. Marlan Penwell was in charge of the gift table. Their corsages were pink and white carnations.

The opening chapter of "This Bright Land" records some of the enthusiasm the early settlers showed for the new country — a land of abundant riches in vegetation, animals and fertile soil. Of Ohio's soil they said: "You tickle it with the hoe and it laughs a harvest."

Mr. Atkinson, in his book, told how the aggressive civilization has depleted and scarred the continent and in many cases annihilated parts of the natural heritage. His delight is the out-of-doors and his revence for the systems of nature and concern for the environment informs all about the vast continent of America.

"America is out of control," he wrote, "'nothing is out of control in the forests."

During the social hour a dessert course was served.

Kentucky held state elections by voice vote until 1891.

Even a $24,000-a-year family has to make cutbacks

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — When she recently looked over last year's family expenses, Barbara Hayes discovered to her surprise that the taxes withheld from her husband's paychecks equalled his total salary 12 years ago.

"But I don't feel I have much more money to spend now than then," she said. "Joe's salary has gone up steadily, but our standard of living hasn't. The cost of living has taken care of the extra money."

Starting this week Hayes, 37, will make approximately $26,000 a year in his new job as director of training and management development for Eastern Air Lines. His salary now is about $24,000.

Despite the raise, the Hayeses, who say they've always been careful with money, are cutting back where they can.

At the same time, they insist on keeping nonessentials in their budget which they feel are important for the development of their family: a private school for one daughter, travel and more hobbies.

Hayes, his 35-year-old wife and their two daughters, Laurie, 12, and Wendy, 9, live in a $43,000, four-bedroom home in an upper middle-class neighborhood in southwest Miami.

The ranch-style, split-level house, which looks out on a golf course, is furnished simply but stylishly, with heavy Mediterranean furniture and thick shag carpeting.

A black and white television set sits in one corner of the living room. "We've deferred buying a color TV because of the price," Hayes said.

Carrying the house costs $350 a month for the mortgage and taxes. "The rooms are small and we have no pool. We really thought we could get more for our money," Mrs. Hayes said.

Yet homes like theirs, which they bought 13 months ago, are now selling for $9,000 more than they paid, Hayes said.

An even greater shock to Mrs. Hayes has been the skyrocketing cost of food.

She said her weekly food budget of a tight $45 is a little more than she spent last year, but at the same time she's buying fewer groceries.

"Im boycotting the meat counter — roast beef, steaks and even hot dogs, which went up 20 cents a package the last time I looked at them," she said. I'm buying more chicken, fish, maracaroni and cheese, and spaghetti."

Mrs. Hayes usually makes a couple of shopping trips a week to two nearby supermarkets, buying most of her meat and produce at one and the rest of her groceries at the other.

With her grocery list and a pocket calculator in hand, she pushed her cart down the supermarket aisles on a recent shopping trip.

She watched carefully for sale items, breaking her meat boycott to buy a canned ham, normally $6, but on sale for $4.99. She picked up some packages of frozen perch — three for a dollar — and several cans of tuna fish, on special for 39 cents.

She said she also tries to save money by not bringing her daughters shopping with her. "They talk me into buying things I wouldn't buy otherwise."

She buys few desserts or snack foods because of their cost and because "Joe, I and Laurie are perpetually on a diet." Mrs. Hayes said she usually buys name brands of groceries rather than the cheaper, house brands because of "the big difference in quality."

The Hayeses hope to cut their transportation costs by keeping their cars — a 1970 Maverick and a 1972 Plymouth — for at least six years or "until they fall apart," Mrs. Hayes said.

"What we would like to do is save for the purchase of our next cars after we finish paying our present ones off," Hayes added. "But we just can't do it. The money's not there."

Clothing is a budget item where the family also skimps, probably too much, Mrs. Hayes said.

"The girls wear shorts all year round, and I wear pants and shirts," she said. "Most of the dresses and pant suits I buy are in the $20-$40 range. The most expensive thing I own is a $75 pant suit."

Hayes buys his clothes at a factory outlet or from an importer who has suits made in Hong Kong.

"I was a little upset recently," he said, "because I broke my own rule and bought a suit over $100. I only buy clothes when I run out of them.

"The four of us used to go out to eat once a week, Mrs. Hayes said. "Now we go out about twice a month."

Their entertaining consists of having several couples over for cards, snacks and drinks.

Hayes buys little liquor. "We bought five fifths of booze in the Virgin Islands last year and we still have some of it," Mrs. Hayes said.

The Hayeses said they have tried to economize on little expenses as well as large ones.

Mrs. Hayes stopped going to the beauty parlor each week "because it bothered me to look at that $5 stub in the checkbook and know that the product lasted only one day."

Hayes is also trying to keep the family's credit card and charge account spending to a minimum.

Because American Express charges $15 a year for membership, he dropped that card in favor of Master Charge, which has no fee.

His wife had accounts at three department stores, but Hayes has stopped one temporarily.

Despite the burgeoning cost of practically everything, Hayes tries to save between 15 and 20 per cent of his gross income.

His company's credit union takes out a certain amount every month for his savings account and savings bonds. He also has several life insurance policies.

"But the money is not all tucked away," Mrs. Hayes said. "The down payment for the house came from savings. When we travel, we take it from savings. When we want something for the house, we also take the money out of the account."

There are some luxuries the Hayeses refuse to relinquish, like travel.

Because of Hayes' airline job, the family gets a substantial discount on air travel, and they take advantage of it whenever they can.

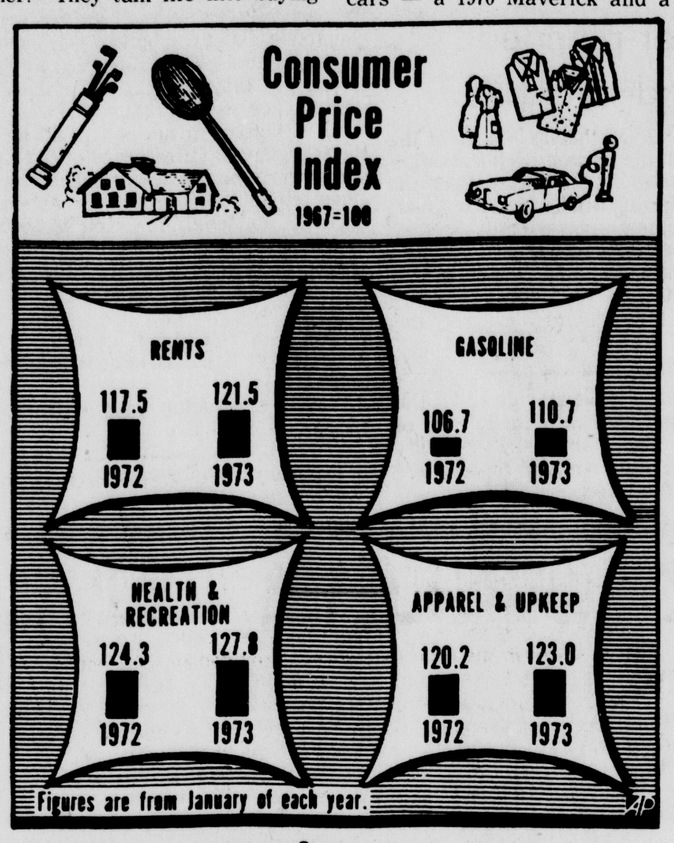

The whole family recently went to Bermuda and Joe and Barbara have spent several weekends in the Caribbean.

Every year, they spend a week with their families in the State of Washington.

"Travel is a luxury that would be difficult for us to give up," Hayes said. "I want my kids to be able to travel and see things we weren't able to see when we were their age."

The Hayeses also spend $115 a month to send Laurie to Kendall Academy, a private school.

"We'd like her to have a more developed sense of responsibility before she goes to the public junior high school next year," he said.

Republic Day is a national holiday in Guyana.

That's the day the little country celebrates the anniversary of its independence and simultaneously hails the day many years ago when the slaves brought to Guyana (formerly called Guinea) struck their first blow for freedom.

To honor this occasion, Guyana has issued four new stamps featuring famous buildings within its borders. The 8 cent and 50 cent show pyramid-shape buildings called "Uman Yana," sometimes referred to as the meeting places of the people, much as the town halls of America are used.

The 25 cent and 40-cent stamps depict the Bethel Chapel, an historical landmark preserved by the government. This religious edifice is revered by the local populace.

In announcing this new set of stamps, postal authorities there proudly claimed: "Republic Day is but a reminder to the people of Guyana how fragile all freedoms are unless continuously observed."

ALTHOUGH it may be confusing to some, the fact remains that there are two "Chinas" and both are issuing stamps for their respective countries.

Two album supplements for stamps of the People's Republic of China (Mainland) by Minkus Publications are now ready for collectors. Both consist of 72 pages. The first one is designed to fit the Master Global, Supreme Global, Comprehensive and World Wide Albums. It sells for $2.50. The second is for the Minkus Regional type album and sells for $3.50.

A third Mainland China supplement is in the works to be released late this year. This one will cover the stamps of North China and Northeast China.

The Chinese government on the island of Taiwan has just issued four new stamps hailing the traditional handcrafts of its people. One stamp illustrates a bamboo sailboat. Another stamp depicts a marble vase painted with flowers and a bird. The third adhesive pictures a landscape-decorated glass plate on a stand. The final stamp in this set has a doll dressed as a bridegroom carrying his bride on his back to their new home.

THE FAMED Robson Lowe's Encyclopedia of British Empire Stamps, Volume I (Great Britain and the Empire in Europe) which has long been out of print is being republished.

Volume I is being produced in two books totaling 468 pages within a gold cover. This edition covers in detail the philately of the British Empire in niee parts and may be purchased for $7.50 per volume directly from Robson Lowe Ltd., 50 Pall Mall, London, England.

TO HERALD the opening of INTERPEX (The International Philatelic Exhibition) in New York, nine of the participating governments issued new stamps. The countries included: Australia, Great Britain, British Virgin Islands, Canada, Guernsey, Isle of Man, Jersey, Liechtenstein, New Zealand, Papua-New Guinea, San Marino, United Nations, United States and Western Samoa.

DID YOU KNOW that . . . George Washington, said to be first in the hearts of his countrymen, is also first on the stamps of the U.S. His likeness has appeared on more of our stamps than any other American President or statesman . . . Women's Lib supporters are hailing a new stamp to be issued by Canada in October which will honor Nellie McClung, champion of feminine rights in the 1920s . . . The stamps of Eire first appeared in 1922 — but were really British stamps with overprint . . . Soviet Russia, which has fewer commercial aircraft than the U.S.A., has issued more stamps depicting airplanes than our nation.

Ohio Perspective

School 'cooperatives' eyed

By KENNETH L. DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state of Ohio hopes to try out a form of cooperative with a group of school districts to see if it can improve instruction and cut costs.

Educators call the experiment an educational resources district, but the title merely means that a number of districts — perhaps several counties — would share certain administrative and teaching services.

The general idea is that schools would save money buying books and supplies for many students over each district buying for a few, or that some sophisticated services, say a computer, could be afforded for a large group of students but not for a smaller group.

The experiment would cost the state $250,000 in the fiscal year ending July 1, 1974, and $500,000 for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1975.

"No definite decision has been made on what group will be a part of the model," said Dr. Paul Spade, assistant superintendent of public instruction.

"Basically the problem is that many districts, maybe one-half of them, have fewer than 5,000 pupils. These districts aren't big enough to provide the full range of services that is needed."

Such an educational resources district is spelled out in the administration's budget bill, House Bill No. 86. It would serve a minimum of 35,000 pupils, maybe far more.

"In a metropolitan district, perhaps only one county would be included," said Dr. Spade, "but in Appalachian counties maybe as many as a dozen would be grouped."

Such a cooperative resources district would help with curriculum in the purchase and revising of teaching materials, in the selections of textbooks and other materials.

It would get into cooperative purchasing of all manner of supplies.

It would obtain educational statistical material, information systems and financial accounting systems, virtually all operating aspects.

Additionally, it would provide, for instance, psychological services not now available to small districts, even computer services.

Computers figure to enter more and more into teaching, but the use of a computer is pegged on a minimum of 60,000 pupils.

The resources center concept is a a part of a general desire among educators to make more economic units out of Ohio school districts. They have even talked about making all districts county-wide.

"You can forget that," said a top education official, "that one will never happen."

He meant that too many local pressures will prevent any general group of districts. Each community would figure it might come out poorly in a group, worse than alone.

Garden tools are especially subjected to abuse. Home owners who meticulously care for the tools in their workshops are often careless about maintaining the equipment used in and around the garden.

Why this is so is difficult to explain. Perhaps there is a feeling that garden tools, having been made for outdoor use, are better able to withstand the vagaries of the weather. Not so in most cases. Handles split and break; spades bend; edges get dull; bolts and rivets come loose; metal rusts.

When a wooden handle has split, it usually can be repaired by winding tape around it, but not before first applying some waterproof glue to the split portion.

In pushing glue into the break, great care must be exercised to avoid splitting the handle even further. A handle repaired with both glue and tape will last indefinitely.

IF THE SPLIT extends all the way down the handle or is otherwise likely to be difficult to repair, it is best to get a new handle. The cost of one is a lot less than the cost of a new tool. In making the purchase, be sure to get a handle that fits.

If necessary, take the tool to the store with you.

Handles are attached in various ways. You can use the same method of attachment as the old one, but if you decide to use a different one — which is perfectly all right — avoid driving a nail through the wood. Most handles are made of hardwood and will split unless a pilot hole is drilled for the nail.

A wire brush is excellent for removing rust and caked dirt from the metal parts of garden tools. Following with steel wooling will restore the original smooth finish. If the rust is deep and cannot be entirely removed, get it as smooth as possible, then coat with a rust-inhibiting paint.

Preventing rust is simple. Each time the tool is used, wipe it dry, then wipe it a second time, this time with a rag dipped in oil. When the tool is to be put away for a considerable period, apply some oil or rust preventative to the metal portion and store it in a tool chest or box which will keep moist air from getting to it.

SOMETIMES the rivet that holds a handle to the metal comes loose. It can be removed by splitting one end, then pulling it out. It can be replaced with another rivet, sold at hardware stores and lumber yards, or a nut and bolt.

Shovels, spades and hoes that are out of shape can be hammered back to usefulness while placing them on a hard surface. Once this has been done, resharpen the edges, starting first with a rough metal file and finishing with a fine-toothed file.

Here's the Answer

Q. — The fireplace in our living room leaked smoke into the room for several months after we bought the house. The condition has been corrected, but we now would like to know how to get rid of the smoke stains on the fireplace brick.

A. — Most of the time, the stains will come off with scouring powder and steel wool. If they don't, you'll have to use one of the grease solvent materials and a stiff brush. In either case, be sure to clean the area afterwards with cold water.

It must be admitted, however, that there is a slight calculated risk in cleaning brick, since there is always the possibility that some of the color may come out of the brick along with the stains. A neighbor of mine whose fireplace was covered with smoke stains was able to get all of them out, but found that, unaccountably, some bricks had faded and others had not. He used a water stain to bring the faded bricks back to the color of the others.

Q. — I am installing a wooden door between two rooms in my basement. I have already put up the doorway and have purchased the door, which came without any hardware. How high should the latch be above the floor and can you tell me something about how it is inserted in the door?

A. — A door latch usually is placed about 36 inches above the floor. It wouldn't do much good to tell you anything about installing the latch because it depends on the kind you purchase. Buy a latch that comes with a template which is placed on the door and shows you exactly where the latch should be and how to install it.

Q. — I intend to use gypsum board for the walls in the attic I plan to finish. I have been shopping around and notice that it comes in various widths. Can you tell me which is best for my purpose?

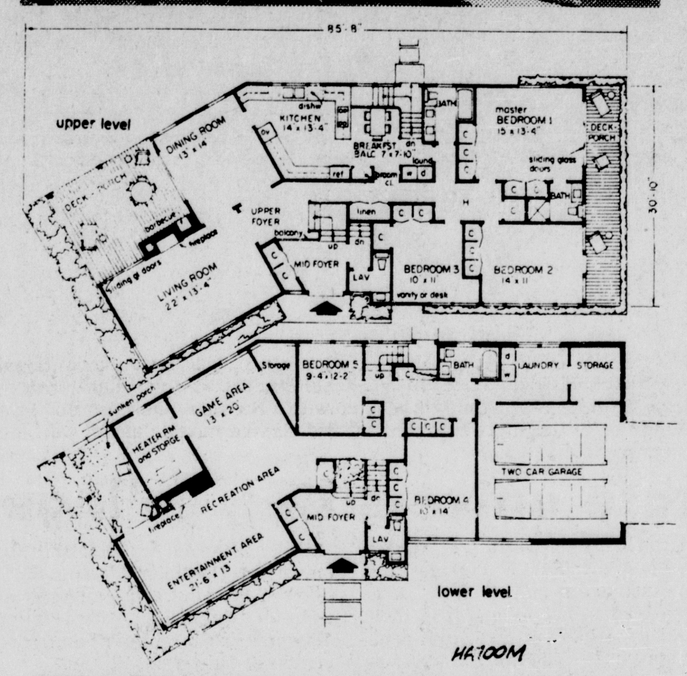

A. — Use the half-inch thickness.

Q. — About two years ago I read an article by you suggesting a way of finishing a piece of unfinished furniture with a mixture of boiled linseed oil and turpentine. I followed your instructions and have been well satisfied with the results, but now I think it needs another treatment. Do I have to do anything about removing the old finish?

A. — No. Just be sure the surface is free of dirt and especially of wax. Then go ahead with the same mixture as before — two parts of boiled linseed oil to one part of turpentine. And, as before, the secret of obtaining a rich, mellow appearance is the amount of rubbing that is done — the more, the better.

Good traffic control is realized because of the split stairs — up and down. OBES layoffs planned for April 6

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Blaming a $4 million reduction in federal funds, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services is slashing its payroll by 10 per cent, effective April 6.

OBES officials confirmed Tuesday it has advised 340 employes they will be laid off that day. This time, they said, the layoffs are being made according to proper Civil Service procedures.

The bureau earlier this month fired 250 workers, but 200 of them were restored to their positions by a Franklin County judge who said proper procedures had not been followed.

"We finally developed a plan that takes into consideration seniority and effectiveness," Bureau Administrator William Garnes said Tuesday.

Garnes estimated that "about 70 per cent" of those whose jobs had been restored are being laid off again.

More employes are involved in the latest cutback, Garnes said, because of the added strain put on the bureau budget by the court order reversing the previous layoffs.

"We had to make further personnel cuts to get within our budget limitation," he said. "We hope this will carry us through the fiscal year."

Garnes said he did not anticipate any further "large number" worker cutbacks, although the bureau has been advised another budget cutback is planned for fiscal 1974.

Why do people kick tires?

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — It's almost a tradition to kick the tires of the car you're thinking of buying. But why?

Experts at Goodyear think it all began back in the early 1900s when the "clincher" tire was used on cars. This tire was held tight against the rim by clamps, and you kicked it to see if it was properly fastened and inflated.

Tires in those good old days lasted about 50 miles on average, Goodyear notes, By contrast the company's newest tires are guaranteed for 40,000 miles, so kicking them doesn't really make much sense .

A new flower for 1973 gardens is Snowflake Dianthus, a vigorous hybrid that won a bronze medal in the All-European flower trials known as Fleuro-select. Flowers 1 ½-2 inches across with serrated petals resemble giant snowflakes. Plants are 6-8 inches tall, excellent for borders, edging, containers and mass beds. Snowflake is an early bloomer.

Plant Troubles

Today we offer a rundown on many insects and other pests that can trouble your house plants.

Mites are tiny insects often found on the undersides of leaves, sucking the plant's juices. This bronzes leaves, which fall off.

Aphids, also tiny, appear in red, pink, green or black hues with rounded bodies and long legs. They also suck juices, largely from the undersides of leaves, causing curling or yellowing of leaves and closed flowers. Aphids, according to entomologists, secrete honey-dew, a stocky liquid that promotes a growth of a sooty unattractive mold.

Whiteflies may kill a plant they infest, attacking as do aphids. A favorite victim is the poinsettia.

Lecanium Scales, difficult to detect due to their tiny size, also suck plant juices and secrete honeydew. They are brown and humpbacked.

ANTS — some feed on honeydew. They protect honeydew-producing pests, such as aphids, carrying them from plant to plant. Ants also may burrow and damage roots.

Cyclamen Mites, microscopic, amber-color, traveling from plant to plant, cause twisted, brittle leaves, deformed flowers.

Fungus Gnats, maggots of tiny flies may injure plant roots. Adults do little damage.

Mealybugs suck plant juices and make honeydew. They are soft-bodied and have waxy covering.

Snowflake Dianthus

Caterpillars, of many colors, eat leaves, buds and flowers of many house plants. Control by hand picking.

Millipedes move slowly, eat seeds, roots tubers, bulbs or fleshy stems.

Thrips, tiny, slender plant suckers, eat blossoms from inside, causing streaked, blotched flowers.

Snowflake Dianthus

Snails and Slugs hide in daytime, chew on plant foliage at night.

KEEP PESTS OUT of the house by buying only uninfested plants and by sterilizing soil before potting. Isolate new plants for 3-4 weeks before setting them with other plants.

If your plants have insects, use vacuum cleaner, then empty bag into hot water or kerosene; dispose of the bag.

To control against mites, aphids, whiteflies and lecanium scales, add ½ teaspoon of a 57 per cent emulsifiable malathion concentrate and ⅛ teaspoon of mild detergent (not soap) to 1 quart of water; dip plants into solution, spray plants, or brush on. Other controls are drenching or trimming.

New Garden Items

Vegetables from Burpee: Green Arrow Pea, yields 10 or more peas per pod; Green Ice Lettuce, crisp, dark glossy leaves, slow to go to seed; Gold Zucchini, easy to raise, medium long, cylindrical, compact bush variety.

Old students pass

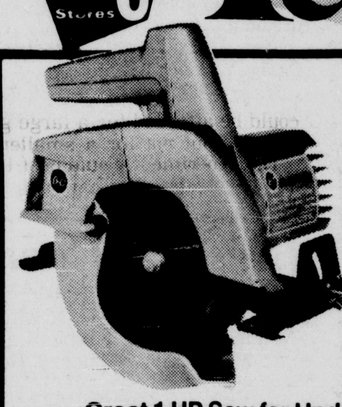

EDMONTON, Alta. (AP) — Eighty-one per cent of the adult students who wrote. Grade 12 departmental examinations in December in the Edmonton public school board's evening classes achieved matriculation standing.

Exams were written by 394 adults, who spent 84 hours on a course compared with 132 hours for regular senior high school students.

Kissinger team shifts with responsibilities

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Incompetents," Henry Kissinger yells affectionately at the backup team that has helped propel him on more world journeys than most modern diplomats.

It's their boss' sense of humor, which staff members appreciate more than anything else in their gruelling, often-18-hour-a-day jobs.

Asian experts, China scholars, military men, Secret Service agents, secretaries, logistical advance men and linguists have supported Kissinger in his role as Nixon's national security adviser and top peace negotiator.

The team credits Kissinger with courage, stamina and brilliance as a negotiator. It, in turn, is credited with never having been caught off-guard on a substantive issue in Paris, Peking, Moscow or Hanoi.

Kissinger now is resting between missions, but, as usual, he and his staff are getting ready for the next trip, the summit conference of President Nixon and South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu at San Clemente, Calif., April 2-3.

Usually 10 to 14 days of intensive planning precede Kissinger's high-level journeys. He and Nixon hold almost daily discussions on the approach and tactics the President wants to pursue.

The staff, meanwhile, prepares position papers, opening statements, toasts and black notebooks filled with background material on everything he could need in tough negotiations.

As he starts the second term, which Nixon says will be the "Year of Europe," Kissinger is revamping his staff and some of his key people have moved on or up.

The opening of a Liaison Office in Peking that Kissinger helped negotiate will take away two of his top "China hands:" Alfred Jenkins, senior State Department Asian Communist expert, and John Holdridge, senior East Asian expert on the National Security Council staff.

Both men, fluent in Chinese, have been appointed by Nixon as top deputies in Peking to former Ambassador David Bruce.

Jenkins, 56, of Manchester, Ga., has 26 years in the Foreign Service. His first overseas post was in Peking from 1946-48. Holdridge, 48, of New York, is a West Point graduate whose foreign service experience included assignments in Thailand, Singapore and Hong Kong. He made a visit to China in 1937 and later studied the language at Cornell and Harvard.

While the Chinese provided excellent interpreters, Jenkins and Holdridge were able to make sure there were no major mistakes in translations. Jenkins joined in numerous bilateral talks with Chinese officials. Holdridge prepared papers, helped arrange meetings and sat in on talks with Chou En Lai.

Holdridge and a more youthful diplomat, Winston Lord, 35, have been Kissinger's indispensible NSC staff twosome.

Lord, described as a generalist, was Kissinger's special assistant for sensitive projects. He and Holdridge made all the trips to China and Moscow.

Until last January, Alexander M. Haig Jr., 48, a personable, tough military man, trained in international politics, was Kissinger's deputy, alter-ego and workhorse of the 100-member NSC staff.

From his cubbyhole office at the White House, Haig masterminded Kissinger's first secret trip to Peking in July 1971 and provided the cover story of Kissinger being ill in Pakistan. He also arranged to get Kissinger to 12 secret meetings with the North Vietnamese in Paris and made an advance planning journey to Peking, holding talks with Chou as well.

After Haig became Army Vice Chief of Staff in January, Kissinger tapped Nixon's new military aide, Air Force Col. Brent Skowcroft as a replacement deputy.

Skowcroft, 48, of Ogden, Utah, came aboard in time to make the advance and Nixon summit trips to Moscow. He is a pilot trained in international relations. He came to the White House from the staff of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

As development warranted, Kissinger called on new experts for his traveling staff.

When the drawn-out Paris talks appeared to have made a breakthrough, he was joined by a genial white-haired Irishman, Ambassador William Sullivan, fluent in French and at 50 the State Department's top expert on Southeast Asia.

Another new team member was David Engel, a 34-year-old foreign service officer from Jersey City, N.J., then stationed in Rome but who had served in Saigon from July 1962 to May 1965 and was described as "absolute fluent" in Vietnamese.

They both took part in the Paris talks and Sullivan worked on the difficult technical negotiations and protocols of the peace agreement. Later, Kissinger complimented Sullivan, saying he was the only one who understood the protocols.

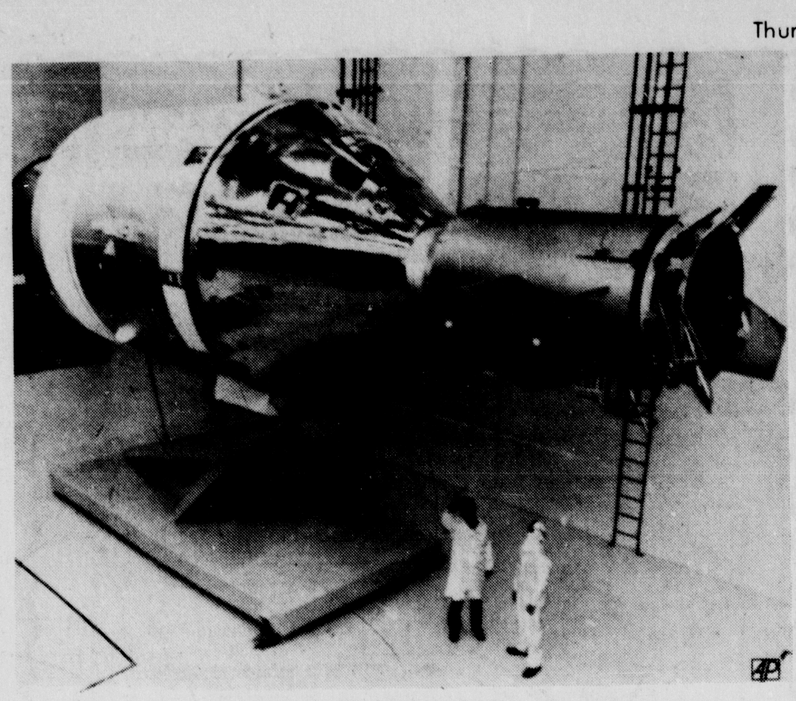

When Kissinger went to Hanoi in February for the first talks with the North Vietnamese on their own soil, Sullivan and Engel went along.

And there was a typical supporting staff including Holdridge and Lord, logistics expert Jonathan Howe, a 37-year-old Navy Commander from San Diego, and the youngest of Kissinger's staffers, Peter Rodman, a 29-year-old Bostonian who had been one of Kissinger's students at Harvard.

A key role in Kissinger's traveling troupe is played by what he calls his "virtuoso secretaries."

The one who made the most trips—12 in all including the Peking and Moscow summits— was 24-year-old Julienne Pineau of Bethesda, Md., Kissinger's personal secretary.

Her White House job usually involved everything from ordering groceries to balancing her boss' checkbook.

Lawyer to leave murder case because wife upset

LORAIN, Ohio (AP)—The court-appointed attorney for a Sheffield Township man accused of killing a 9-year-old girl has withdrawn from the case, citing fears for his wife's welfare.

Adelbert Balunek of Avon Lake declined to say, however, that he or his wife had been threatened. Lorain Municipal Court Judge John S. Kolena granted the withdrawal request after Balunek said his wife was "upset and frightened."

Timothy Papp, 21, was charged with first-degree murder Monday in the strangulation death of Roxie Ann Keathley, whose nude body was found in a wooded area on Lorain's outskirts last weekend. She had been missing since March 12.

About 75 persons, including a handful of women demonstrating for a return to capital punishment, were on hand Wednesday at the courthouse in Lorain, awaiting Papp's arraignment on the charge.

After approving the withdrawal of the attorney, however, Kolena postponed the arraignment to Friday, pending the appointment of another lawyer.

Papp has been held in the Lorain County jail on $250,000 bond since he was charged. He had been serving a 10-day sentence in the county jail on an unrelated charge when the sheriff's department announced it had linked him to the case.

Balunek declined to talk about his withdrawal outside the courtroom, but he told the judge that "there have been circumstances and incidents involving my wife that force me to make the decision."

He said his wife is in the final month of pregnancy and that she had "become emotional and physically upset and frightened about this matter." He asked to withdraw because of his concern "for her welfare."

Roxie Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Keathley, was buried earlier in the week in Martin, Ky., on land owned by the family. The Keathleys moved to Sheffield Township two years ago from Prestonburg, Ky.

State universities, colleges again seek more state cash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Representatives of Ohio colleges and universities again asked Gov. John Gilligan Wednesday to increase their state budget allotment by 6.5 per cent.

The appeal, by Ohio State University President Harold Enarson and Miami University President Phillip Shriver, followed growing complaints by state higher education officials that Gilligan's proposed 3 per cent increase would not outweigh inflation.

The two university presidents appeared as representatives of the Inter-University Council, made up of officials of the 12 state affiliated universities and the Medical College of Toledo.

They presented the governor with a resolution calling for the 6.5 per cent increase, and threatening a 3 per cent hike in student fees unless the state subsidy is increased.

Enarson denied Gilligan's claims that a 3 per cent increase would enable universities to have a "continuation" budget with spending kept at present levels.

Shriver noted the cost of living index for families is rising at a rate of 4 to 5 per cent a year and "...the cost of living index for universities is increasing by at least 6.5 per cent a year."

Ohio ranks 47th among the 50 states in its per capita support of education and is fifth highest in the fees it charges students Shriver said.

Ohio's state universities "are failing to compete in the market to attract the best faculty available—largely because of inadequate financing," he added.

The governor has steadfastly refused an increase, insisting that giving higher education additional funds would only mean cuts to other state service areas. He has appointed a special task force to look into the schools' financial problems.

Pancake Houses to go meatless

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—The 35 Perkins Pancake restaurants in Ohio will hold a "meatless Friday" this week in support of housewives's meat boycotts.

The statewide president of the chain, Richard Gear, said he ordered the meatless menus after a Sandusky franchise operator proved the idea paid off in profits.

Although the Sandusky franchise normally uses about 200 pounds of meat a day, a meatless special last week attracted increased business to the pancake house, Gear said.

Hearing on fatal derailment under way by Penn Central

CONWAY, Pa. (AP) — A hearing into the cause of an Amtrak passenger train derailment earlier this month in which one person was killed and 92 others injured has begun in this Beaver County community.

Penn Central Railroad, which operates passenger routes for Amtrak, the national railroad passenger corporation, is attempting to determine whether its employes were at fault in the wreck. Four passenger cars of the Broadway Limited tumbled over an embankment in the town of East Palestine, Ohio, during a snowstorm on March 18.

The main question apparently is whether there was negligence on the part of Penn Central employes in not inspecting the East Palestine tracks following an accident just two hours before one Amtrak train derailed.

Called to testify during the first part of the closed-door session Wednesday were the engineer of Train 41, L.P. Moffett of Pittsburgh, the flagman, H.C. McDonald of Bellefonte, Pa., and the conductor, J.R. Cook of Pittsburgh.

The hearing was being conducted by C.E. Williamson, superintendent of the Penn Central's Altoona division.

The results of the closed-door testimony will be aired later by the Ohio Public Utilities Commission and the National Transportation Safety Board.

Ohio and federal authorities were attending the hearing.

The Penn Central told the Ohio PUC its latest tally of injured was 56 paying passengers, 12 nonpaying and 24 employes.

Steelworkers given proposal

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Officials of the United Steelworkers of America have urged approval of a pioneer agreement with management that they say could end crisis bargaining in the steel industry.

Some 600 men representing the nation's 500,000 basic steelworkers are scheduled to vote today on the "Experimental Negotiating Proposal."

It would assure steelworkers a 3 per cent yearly wage increase through 1976 and provide for a $150 per-man bonus when the union's current contract expires in 1974, in "consideration of the contribution made ... to the stability of steel operations."

The experimental agreement would also prohibit strikes during negotiations, with disputes arising during negotiations to be settled by binding arbitration.

Red China leads in limb transplants

PEKING (AP) — There is a girl walking around in China with an offside foot.

It was one example, shown in a movie to American visitors, of high skill in replacing lost limbs, a specialty in which Chinese surgeons are probably the world's leaders.

The film showed her walking pretty normally, unassisted, about a year after the accident.

Surgeons at the hospital, a big general one specializing in orthopedics, said they have performed 40 operations to reimplant severed limbs in the last nine years, with 27 of them "successful."

Similar surgery is performed in a number of other hospitals, they said, including some smaller ones staffed by surgeons given special training in the delicate work of restoring connections between blood vessels, nerves and other tissues.

Reimplantation surgery is done in the United States but usually in specialized hospitals and not so frequently as reported here, said American surgeons visiting China at the invitation of the China Medical Association.

The movie showed restoration of a man's arm which had been severed between elbow and shoulder; a young man pushing a wheel barrow and harvesting wheat after losing his hand above the wrist; and another man, said to have disobeyed safety regulations, feeding raw materials into a cutting machine in a factory with a hand that had been lopped off below the wrist by the same machine.

The Chishuei Tan Hospital is responsible for emergency care for accidents among workers in a number of factories, where doctors can give first aid, with patients taken to the big hospital by ambulance if the situation requires. Rural areas have district hospitals that can also feed patients to larger institutions.

Hear OREC testimony on Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The executive secretary of the Ohio Real Estate Commission will testify Friday before Commerce Director Dennis Shaul on how former Gov. James A. Rhodes received a broker's license in 1971.

Shaul said Vernon McMillen will appear to get his testimony on record. After that, the commerce director said, "We will make a decision whether to ask the commission to take action against a specific license."

Shaul indicated the probe may lead to personal testimony by Rhodes on how he received his license in the final days of his Republican administration. Rhodes apparently received the license after taking a brief oral examination, but not a written test as required.

If a commission hearing is called, Shaul said, it "would deal specifically with the licensing of Rhodes."

At a hearing conducted by Shaul Wednesday, an attorney for former commissioner P. G. Graves of Cincinnati said his client would not appear to testify about Rhodes' license.

William Lohr said Shaul did not have the authority to conduct the hearing or issue subpoenas. Lohr told the commerce director the same thing last Friday when former commissioner John Pace of Upper Arlington did not appear.

Abercrombie doubts meat boycott to be effective

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Ohio Agriculture Director Gene Abercrombie says he doubts the meat boycott will last long enough to have any real effect on prices.

"I can't foresee it keeping up," Abercrombie said Wednesday. "People like meat too well."

If the boycott does work, he said, it could have an adverse long-range effect on supply, which would mean a subsequent rise in prices.

"If the farmers felt like they weren't getting a fair price, they're not going to raise them (animals)," he said.

In Cleveland, a spokesman for the Cuyahoga County American Party said consumer protests over high prices are only attacking the symptoms of inflation and not the real problem.

"The correct solution," said Thomas W. Lippitt, "is to abolish all unnecessary federal programs, balance the budget and go back to the gold standard."

He said the federal government is putting too much money into circulation and paying only lip service to stopping inflation.

Although the meat boycott doesn't start officiallly until April 1, meat prices around Ohio dropped slightly this week.

Harold Rich, president of Kahn's and Sons in Cincinnati, packagers and distributors of beef and pork products to 21 states, said it was too early to determine what caused the price drop.

"Sales have slowed lately," he said. "But we can't say this is due to the consumer boycott effort.

"There's been a slowing of fresh meat sales, there's no doubt about that," he added.

Abortion set at new clinic in Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cincinnati's first abortion clinic will open Monday and an abortion is scheduled, according to Joseph M. Blaine of a pro-abortion group named Choice.

Blaine says the abortion will be performed at a downtown office building, but refused to reveal the location.

He says abortions would have been performed sooner but physicians were concerned "they might lose all their Catholic patients.

"Sooner or later," he added, "it'll breakdown, just like eating meat on Friday."

The abortion, if performed at the first of two non-profit clinics, would apparently be the first openly-admitted action in Cincinnati since the U.S. Supreme Court ruling against anti-abortion laws of most states in January.

Blaine, who operates a company called Aeromedic and says "a big part of my business" comes from flying area women to New York for legal abortions, says doctors and patients are waiting to use the two clinics.

Middletown sets hospital work

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Middletown Hospital is to undergo a $10 million improvement project and despite a $3 to $4 per day increase for each patient, costs will stay well below the medical average for the area.

That's the report from the Health Planning Association of the Central Ohio River Valley, which endorsed the plan Wednesday.

Even with the increase, says CORVA, the hospital will be approximately $10 below the averge cost per patient of hospitals covered by Blue Cross of Southwest Ohio.

Rules circumscribe commodities mart

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If you are one of an estimated 500,000 people who trade or speculate in commodity futures, or one of the 2.5 million more who are forecast to join the market by 1980, you are or should be aware of the basic rules:

A good trader needs risk capital he can afford to lose, a plan of operation, and the discipline to follow the plan without emotion or vacillation.

If he has the capital, the plan, the qualities of temperment and the proper information from government reports, newspapers, brokers and observation, he might with luck and still another skill turn himself into a winner.

The other skill is the ability to translate all these elements into an informed estimate of what prices for such things as pork bellies and silver and wool and cotton will be anywhere from a month to a year in advance.

The rewards could be enormous. A well-known broker notes in an advertisement that an $800 commitment made last October in cotton for March delivery could have resulted in a profit — or loss — of $6,000 by mid-February.

This would have been impossible, of course, without the capital. All other considerations are academic in the absence of money, but an absence of money is the precise condition in which a trader finds himself by violating the other rules.

Commodities are very volatile markets. Since only 5 or 10 or 15 per cent of the total purchase price must be placed on the table, you have tremendous leverage. You can earn 1,000 per cent — or lose it, if you aren't careful.

It is very easy to lose in futures. In fact, most speculators lose far more often than they win, but they limit their losses by never bucking the trend. In contrast, when they have a winner they soar with the trend.

This is not a simple accomplishment, and potential traders often find they aren't equal to the psychological demands made. After three straight losses they may find themselves without the confidence to stick with their big winner.

Leo Melamed, chairman of the International Monetary Mart, which trades foreign currency futures — designed in part to take the guesswork out of floating currencies — warns speculators to study themselves before researching the market.

"In futures trading, more so than perhaps in any other field of endeavor," he states, "one's psychological makeup is put to its hardest test and thus it is crucial to know what kind of person you are before it can be determined if you can succeed."

He suggests that before speculating, the wise person will ask himself:

Can I admit error in the face of defeat? Can I allow for unprejudiced interpretation of facts after I have entered the market? Will I have the strength to remain in the market, although at a loss, when I am certain my calculations are correct?

"At another time," he continues, "will you have the courage to quickly liquidate your losing position to minimize the loss and yet know that in either case you are being dictated not by fear ... but by cold factual interpretation?"

Conversely, "Do you have the temperament to allow your profits to pyramid when you are right, irrespective of their impressive sums, and yet, in some other situation, have the prudence to take your profit ... ? Do you learn from mistakes or do you repeat them? Are you one who can, following a heavy loss, approach the next morning's market refreshed in mind and spirit?" Did you answer all questions affirmatively? You did? Sir, you are either unaware of your limitations or destined to make a grand fortune in speculation. Before you plunge, think about it.

The big commodity exchanges, primarily the Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, which account for the bulk of trading, provide educational materials that often are distributed free through brokers.

And brokers themselves often offer free trial subscriptions of commodity market letters for up to eight weeks at a time.

Hearing set on Marshall U. tragedy fund

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — A hearing on the legality of a plan to distribute $261,774 among surviving relatives of the 75 victims of a 1970 Marshall University plane crash will be held April 27 in Cabell County Circuit Court.

The friendly suit, filed by the Marshall Foundation, outlines the foundation's proposal of giving $1,000 to each of the 70 surviving children and dividing the remainder evenly among the families involved. Each family would receive more than $3,000.

The Nov. 14, 1970, disaster near Huntington's Tri-State Airport killed most of Marshall's football team and coaching staff.

Known surviving relatives were given 30 days from the filing of the suit, Feb. 23, in which to answer the action.

A total of over 50 billion empty cans, 30 billion glass containers, 4 million tons of plastics and 1 million TV sets, is said to be a conservative estimate of some of the trash that is disposed of in the U.S. annually.

What's happening to the small farmer?

By BASIL PENNY
The Anniston Star
For THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

GRANTLEY, Ala. (AP) — David Grimes and his wife, Ruby, have a 225-acre farm here, but since their children, one by one, have left to seek their fortunes, the place has gradually become overrun by the forest.

Grimes has tilled the hilly farmland more than 40 years and earned a living for his wife and eight children.

Now, only 15 acres are open to cultivation.

"The farm's growing up now. I've had to back up so much as the family left. And I can't do as much as I used to because I had a heart attack last spring," Grimes said.

"When you don't have any help, and you can't hire any, you just have to move back a little and let some of the land grow up."

The breed of small farmer epitomized by Grimes is fast vanishing.

The ten-roofed home, 54 years old, that hides weatherbeaten boards. The barn and corncrib on a knoll across a dry gully. The smokehouse and other outbuildings. These tell a mute story of age and use.

Two milk cows and a mule graze over a brown pasture. A small flock of chickens scratch around in the barnyard. Assorted collections of worn out farm implements are scattered around the area.

Grimes loves the farm life and has pride.

"I own my own place and don't owe nobody a dime."

Farming has gone through tremendous change in Grimes' time. First, he says, government controls were placed on raising cotton and "You had to have stamps to sell it."

Now, government controls and a shortage of help have given way to something else. Deer, beaver and other animals are eating crops.

"Yeah, they've got us starved out since this government turned the deer in here on us," he says.

The farm is near the U.S. Forest Service's Choccolocco Game Management Area and other choice deer-hunting territory.

"I know one thing, you can't plant peas for them," said Mrs. Grimes.

The pine forest is edging ever closer to the Grimes' place. Mrs. Grimes sums up why they continue the farm life when selling out could give them more of the luxuries of life.

"This is all I know. I was raised within four miles of here and spent the rest of the time right here. This is all I know."

Watergate creates new credibility gap

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new version of an old issue, the credibility gap, may harm the Republican White House as detailed accounts of political espionage and wiretapping unfold in court and in Congress.

Already, disclosures about campaign spying have overtaken official White House denials of any involvement.

Now the question, along with what was said and contradicted, is what will remain unsaid because of President Nixon's use of executive privilege.

Nixon invoked that shield— created by custom and precedent, not by law— to prevent congressional testimony by former and present members of his personal staff.

The President has said specifically that he will not allow John W. Dean III, counsel to the President, to testify before Congress in formal session.

Dean will furnish information to Senate Watergate investigators, Nixon said, "provided it is pertinent to the investigation."

That leaves it to the White House to decide what is or is not pertinent.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, the Democratic whip, said he suspected a White House coverup, despite Nixon's assurance that executive privilege would not be used to prevent disclosure of embarrassing information.

So far, indications are that the public doesn't think much about the whole affair anyway. Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern made no headway in his 1972 campaign effort to turn the Watergate into a cutting issue against Nixon.

Indeed, surveys indicated Nixon was gaining support as a candidate more people trusted. The credibility issue worked to his advantage in the landslide victory over McGovern.

It had been a helpful issue four years earlier, too, when Nixon ran against the record of a Democratic administration that had gradually escalated an undeclared war, had told voters that conflict could be financed without any belt-tightening at home.

Nixon addressed himself specifically to the credibility gap— a Democratic problem—in that 1968 campaign, and said:

"I think that a president must, wherever he possibly can, make the decision for more knowledge rather than less. I have great confidence in what the American people are able to assimilate, and I think, if you tell the American people the truth, they will make the hard decisions."

Early in his first term, Nixon issued instructions that were to have strictly limited the use of executive privilege. Those guidelines were amended by the new rules which, presumably, will keep Dean and such men as former White House appointments secretary Dwight L. Chapin from testifying about the Watergate and related affairs.

Before the election, there were published reports that Chapin and Herbert W. Kalmbach, Nixon's personal attorney, were involved in hiring an alleged political spy for the Republicans.

That drew angry denials from the White House and Nixon's campaign organization.

But L. Patrick Gray III, Nixon's beleaguered nominee to head the FBI, told the Senate Judiciary Committee last week that the two men had confirmed just such activities to FBI agents.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
6 ♥	Pass	Pass	Dble

Opening lead - three of spades.

When a player not on lead doubles a slam voluntarily reached by the opponents, the double practically always has a conventional meaning. In effect, it tells partner to make an unusual lead and indicates that the doubler expects to defeat the slam if partner finds the right lead.

There is, of course, ample justification for this convention. Ordinarily, when a pair undertakes a slam, they either make it or go down one, and there is little to be gained by doubling.

But if a double by the player not on lead is reserved for cases where only an unusual lead will stop the slam, the gain is simply enormous when the double is successful. Thus, in the present case, if East's double induces a spade lead and ruff, followed by a diamond return and another ruff, East-West score a net plus of 350 points (counting South's honors) instead of a minus of 1,780 points.

East's double clearly requests a spade lead. A diamond or club lead would be normal on the bidding, so the double bars either of these leads.

West did lead a spade — the three — which East ruffed, but East, faced with a difficult choice of returns, led back a club. As a result, South made the slam.

Oddly enough, the major culprit in the misdefense is West, not East. West should reason that East may have a difficult choice of returns after trumping the first trick. He can invoke the suit-direction convention by leading the nine of spades originally instead of the three.

This would suggest that, as between diamonds and clubs, he wanted the higher-ranking suit returned because he had led a high spade rather than a low one. With this somewhat delicate cue to guide him, East might have found the killing line of defense.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Secret Atheist

"I am a believing, God-fearing Christian," George assured Kathy repeatedly during their courtship. But after the wedding, he confessed that he had been lying. He had been an atheist all the time.

To Kathy, a devoutly religious woman, the situation was unbearable. As soon as possible she went to court for an annulment, and the judge granted her a decree.

The judge said the marriage lacked the "meeting of the minds" that was essential to make any contract binding.

While the law will tolerate a reasonable amount of "salesmanship" in courting, it will not tolerate deception that strikes at the heart of the marriage relation.

However, not every statement connected with religious matters is considered to be that vital.

TAKE ANOTHER case in which the bridegroom, having promised to go through a church wedding after the civil ceremony, failed to carry out his promise. For five months he managed to find one excuse after another for staying away from the church.

At last his wife filed suit for an annulment. But this time, the court turned her down. The court reasoned that if she was willing to put up with her husband's excuses for five months, the religious ceremony could not have been so important to her after all.

Of course, the more firmly the marriage is established, the more reluctant the courts are to annul.

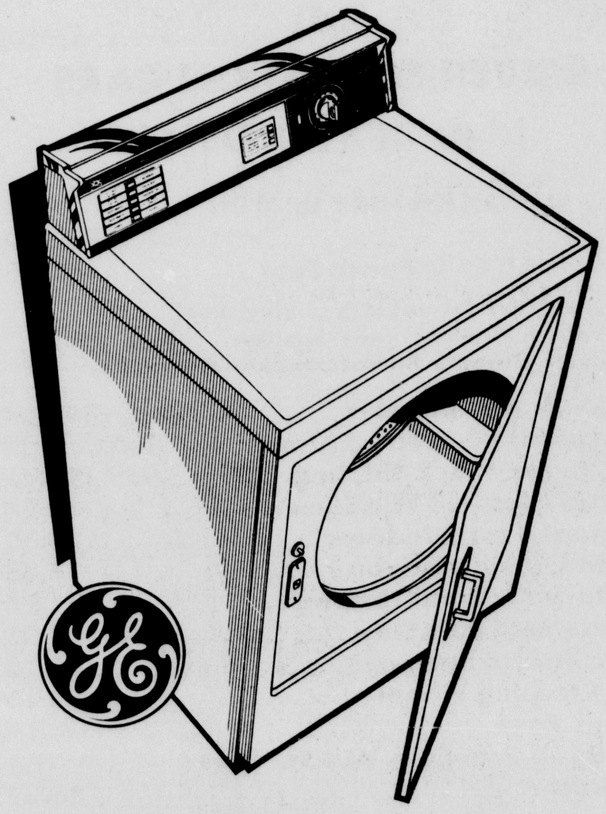

A number of cases have been based on the premarital consent by one spouse to have the children raised in the religion of the other spouse. In this situation, even if the consent turns out to be fraudulent, courts have generally refused to find enough grounds for an annulment.

Reason: with the couple having dwelt together for years as husband and wife, and with children already in existence, it is very late indeed to declare that the marriage had been invalid from the start.

Arms control agency falls from favor

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government agency established under President Kennedy to conduct U.S. arms-control policy has fallen from Nixon administration grace, a victim of Pentagon strength and the presidential concentration of power.

The surface results have been low morale in the arms Control and Disarmament Agency, fed by uncertainty and a sense of defeat coming in the wake of budget and manpower cuts.

But a more important effect may be the diminishing influence of the agency on current and future arms-control negotiations.

A major factor in establishment of ACDA 12 years ago was a belief that the Soviet Union with a well-established, permanent organization of experts, was out-negotiating the United States.

Since then the agency has been instrumental in negotiating some of the most important agreements of modern diplomacy: the Limited Test-Ban Treaty, the Nuclear Nonproliferation Treaty, the Washington-Moscow Hotline, and the first phase of SALT—the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks.

In addition, the agency has built up a core of research and technology that provides the United States not only with the knowledge to carry on negotiations, but with the ability to monitor underground nuclear tests and to keep track of the flow of arms from nation to nation.

And, while this is a disputed value, ACDA also is advertised by its supporters, particularly those in Congress, as a counterweight to Defense Department advocates of increased weapons development.

This was all done with a yearly budget that seldom exceeded $10 million and a manpower staff of no more than 200 persons.

But, in the last three months, the agency lost its director, its leadership at the SALT negotiations, 30 per cent of its budget, at least a dozen key employes, and nearly all its funds for outside research.

The list of woes continues: Three top officials have been told they will be dismissed; the influential General Advisory Committee has been allowed to go dormant, and the number of ACDA representatives on the SALT delegation has been cut.

The reasons differ, depending on who is talking. The administration has made no official statements, but sources indicate the cutback is part of President Nixon's over-all policy of taking direct control of all foreign affairs.

Since the agency was established by Congress and had near-independent status, some of its goals did not always fall into the administration line.

This is especially true concerning over-all strategy for use of nuclear weapons. ACDA officials generally have supported the concept of limiting nuclear power to the minimum number of weapons necessary to destroy enemy cities in a retaliatory attack.

Nixon and Henry A. Kissinger, White House national-security adviser, favor a more flexible approach that encompasses a wider range of alternatives.

In addition, Nixon is said to be anxious to avoid rankling such congressional critics as Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., who charged the ACDA-dominated American delegation gave too much away at the first-phase SALT talks.

There has been a continuing struggle with Defense ever since the arms-control agency was established, with ACDA attempting to offset the military's constant effort to build more and better weapons systems.

Both ACDA and Pentagon sources acknowledge that the military has won. Agency supporters assert the administration has given in to military pressure. Also, with its unlimited resources, the military was able to buy its way in Congress, these critics maintain.

The Pentagon sources answer that ACDA lost because it was unrealistic and tied to outmoded strategic thinking.

Ag Society gets state funds

The Fayette County Agricultural Society (Fair Board) received $14,576.12 as its share of $1,038,600.04 distributed from the Ohio Fairs fund, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

According to Ferguson, the total figure was distributed to the 87 county agricultural societies. Additionally, eight independent fairs shared in $59,228.36, while the Ohio Exposition Commission received $60,000.

Ohio Fairs Fund money is derived from a half per cent tax on the daily pari-mutuel betting "take" at each thoroughbred and harness racing track holding an Ohio Racing Commission license.

The money distributed to the agricultural societies is based on a formula in which general annual fair operations, horseracing, colt stakes racing and racetrack maintenance are involved. The money can be used only for the purposes allocated, as set forth in state law.

THE AUDITOR said each of the 87 county and eight independent agricultural societies received $2,500 for general fair operations, 75 societies received $3,000 each for conducting races during their fairs, and 68 societies received $9,076.12 each for conducting colt stakes racing at their fairs.

Receiving only $2,500 in this distribution were societies in Adams, Belmont, Brown, Cuyahoga, Erie, Gallia, Hamilton, Highland, Holmes, Lucas, Perry, Portage, Sandusky, Scioto, Summit and Vinton counties.

Receiving $5,000 each were societies in Butler, Ottawa, Pickaway and Preble counties.

Licking County, without a county operated fair, did not receive any money from the fairs fund.

The remaining counties each received $14,576.12.

The remaining counties each received $14,576.12.

The independent fairs, and amounts received, were located at Albany, Athens County, $2,500; Attica, Seneca County, $14,576.12; Barlow, Washington County, $2,500; Bellville, Richland County, $2,500; Hartford, Licking County, $14,576.12; Loudonville, Ashland County, $14,576.12; Plain City, Madison County, $5,500 and Richwood, Union County, $14,576.12.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last December, Clay T. Whitehead, a top White House official, made a controversial speech that his critics said was aimed at lessening the power of the television networks by striking at the 592 network-affiliated stations in the United States.

Whitehead, director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy, said the average affiliate devoted about 61 per cent of its schedule to network news and entertainment shows.

And, he said, many affiliates don't worry enough about the content of these shows. He said they just run them, pass on all complaints to the networks and "sit back and enjoy the fruits of a very profitable business."

He said a bill the White House was preparing would demand greater responsibility from local stations when those stations sought to renew their broadcast licenses.

His speech was criticized in the industry. But when the bill was introduced it earned the praise of broadcasters. Vincent T. Wasilewski, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, told the annual NAB convention here this week the bill was "a good one."

One question remains: Has Whitehead's speech had the effect of intimidating affiliates and altering their relationships with the networks?

"No," say three station executives who have represented the affiliates in meetings with top network officials this year.

"I think that they (local stations) are concerned, but I don't know that they feel intimidated," said Robert L. King, who stepped down Sunday as chairman of the governing board for ABC's 170 affiliates.

"Fundamentally, there is no basic change that I can detect or perceive at this moment," says Edwin W. Pfeiffer, chairman of the CBS affiliate advisory board that represents 204 CBS affiliate stations.

"The answer is no," says Robert W. Ferguson, chairman of the NBC-TV affiliate board of delegates and executive vice president of WTRF-TV in Wheeling, W.Va.

"I don't think the Whitehead speech did anything more than alert the licensees to the responsibilities that have been ingrained in us from the start," Ferguson said.

"It's obvious that no one ignored Mr. Whitehead's comments," said Pfeiffer, a top executive at WPRI-TV in Providence, R.I. "But I don't feel the fact he made them is being construed as threatening or divisive."

The three executives were polled while attending the NAB convention.

2 Daytonians under arrest

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two Dayton, Ohio men have been arrested at Greater Pittsburgh International Airport after surveillance equipment detected a .22-caliber revolver in the handbag of one of them as they were about to board an Allegheny Airlines flight, the FBI said.

The man the FBI said was carrying the gun Wednesday was identified as Henry C. Vanlue Jr., 25, currently under indictment on drug charges and who was freed on bond on an additional charge of previously carrying a concealed weapon.

Rayford Liddell, 25, was accused of aiding and abetting Vanlue, the FBI said.

Allegheny County police said bills believed to be amphetamines were found on Vanlue.

U.S. Magistrate Robert Mitchell set bond for both at $5,000. County police said Vanlue also would be charged with violation of state drug laws.

Stiffer meter enforcement urged

A letter signed by 10 downtown businessmen and calling for stiffer enforcement of parking meter regulations was turned over to City Council's Safety Committee during Council's regular meeting Wednesday night.

The businessmen listed four points concerning parking meters including the monitoring of meters on Monday and Friday evenings. Safety Committee Chairman Donald E. Wood said the city parking meter ordinance calls for paid parking between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. He said that a provision for paid parking on Monday and Friday evenings previously was repealed at the request of businessmen.

The letter stated that two-hour parking could be more effective, and charged that the meters on Market and Hinde streets were not being checked.

The businessmen also stated that an increase in the parking rates is not necessary. The signers contend that increased revenue could be obtained by proper monitoring of the meters.

WOOD SAID Council concurs with the businessmen concerning increasing the rates. He also said that enforcement could be stepped up but added that the businessmen would have to make a formal request to Council on the Monday and Friday night enforcement.

Council passed emergency ordinances authorizing City Manager Dan Wolford to enter a contract with Photogrammetric Services, Inc. for aerial mapping and topography services, and to purchase a rotary blower and related equipment. Both items pertain to the city's sewer system and wastewater treatment plant.

Resolutions were adopted thanking Donald B. Edwards for his services as a member of the City Recreation Board, and confirming the appointment of James Ward to the board.

COUNCIL placed on first reading two ordinances pertaining to the Storybrook Addition. Negative votes to both measures were entered by Councilman Joseph O'Brien and Council President Billie Wilson. The ordinances are to vacate the public right-of-way of Paul Avenue, and accept the plat of the resubdivision of 16 lots.

Wilson objected to the emergency clause in the ordinances, and O'Brien said he was voting against them because a representative of the developers was not present. O'Brien also said that he would continue to vote against the dedication or vacation of streets unless someone representing the person making the request was present.

Wolford reported that the Planning Commission had recommended that both requests be allowed.

Dumpy slowly recovers as dog lovers protest

SALEM, Ohio (AP)—Salem Police Chief Richard M. Whinnery says he has as much admiration as anybody for Dumpy, the courageous little stray dog who survived being gassed, shot and abandoned for dead in a landfill.

But Whinnery says he has trouble convincing the callers from across the country who phone the police department to chew him out for Dumpy's plight.

"I'm a dog lover," Whinnery said. "I wouldn't hurt an animal."

An Associated Press story last week detailed the 3-year-old beagle mix mongrel's fight to stay alive and his rescue by two Salem women from the dump about four miles north of Salem.

Since then, calls have flooded into the town, offering homes for Dumpy, expressing outrage that the deputy dog warden involved received only a five-day suspension and—according to Whinnery—taking him to task.

Calls have come from "as far off as Oregon," he said. The typical phone call begins: "You bastard, you s.o.b.," he said.

Actually, Whinnery and Salem were only involved in Dumpy's rescue. Both the deputy dog warden and the landfill involved are in Mahoning County to the north. Salem sits on the northern edge of Columbiana County.

In fact, one of the women who rescued Dumpy stresses that she hopes the publicity given Dumpy will spur Mahoning County to reform its dog pound.

"We'd heard reports of this kind of thing happening before at the dump," she said.

Mahoning County commissioners since have ordered the dog pound to switch to carbon dioxide gassing, because the commissioners said it would be more efficient and more humane than the exhaust bypass system used in the dog vans.

Dumpy had been thrown from such a van into the path of a bulldozer, but he managed to stagger from its path. The deputy shot him but then left him for dead.

The two women, Joyce Guiler and Jean Fluharty, heard the story that night and took flashlights to the dump in a pouring rain to find the dog still alive.

Since then, Dumpy has been recuperating slowly. The women say he's being treated for bullet wounds, for worms and that he's still partially paralyzed from the gassing.

"He could be better," Mrs. Guiler admitted. "But I think he'll be okay. He's a determined dog."

County gets relief funds

The Fayette County Welfare Department received $15,581.75 this week in general relief subsidies from the state, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson. The state distributed $8,445,917.17 to the 88 county welfare departments.

The general relief subsidy program is totally state financed and is for the purpose of helping defray the administrative and general relief costs of the individual counties. It is in addition to federal-state financed assistance programs, such as Aid for Dependent Children, Aged, Disabled and Blind.

Size of the March distribution ranged from $210.50 for Mercer County to $2,243,926.49 for Cuyahoga County. Montgomery County received $1,425,571.96.

Distribution of the general relief subsidy to other area counties was:

Clark, $68,178.24; Clinton, $12,853.55; Greene, $81,685.27; Highland, $18,033.34; Madison, $10,690.07; Pickaway, $10,151.70, and Ross, $42,658.85.

★★★

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you're tired hearing that "Big Red Machine" cliche, you'll be sick of it after this summer of National League baseball.

The Cincinnati Reds appear to have enough wheels and power to motor through the West, and then some.

How good are the Reds? Well, they're good enough to acquire an All-Star outfielder from the American League and think about keeping him on the shelf.

Richie Scheinblum, who hit .300 for the Kansas City Royals last season, is one of the new Redlegs—and according to Manager Sparky Anderson, won't have a regular job this year.

Of course, Cincinnati's new Rich kid could have a red-hot hand and beat out Cesar Geronimo in right field. But that may be the only tenuous position in a talent-laden lineup that conquered the National League last year.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, defending East champions, may be hurt emotionally by the tragic loss of Roberto Clemente but still have enough muscles to be classified as heavyweights in their division.

Teams challenging the apparent front-runners should be the Houston Astros in the West and Chicago Cubs in the East. If the Reds and Pirates play up to potential, though, it'll be all over by early September.

Cincinnati has a two-time Most Valuable Player in catcher Johnny Bench, a base stealer supreme in second baseman Joe Morgan, a fence-breaker in first baseman Tony Perez and several other diamond sparklers like left fielder Pete Rose and center fielder Bobby Tolan.

If anyone can match this team in potential, the Astros might. Trouble is, they have never played up to potential. Perhaps Leo Durocher, in his first full season as the Houston manager, can get the team to do so in 1973.

The Atlanta Braves improved themselves tremendously with off-season trades and could make a run at the Reds, although not as strong as the Astros.

A poor fourth in the West last season, 25 games off the pace, the Braves have acquired pitching and defense and filled plenty of holes.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have their perennial strength, a strong pitching staff. But a lack of power will probably shortcircuit their pennant drive and keep them behind the Reds, Astros and Braves.

San Francisco's Giants have a young club of potential with outfielder Bobby Bonds, shortstop Chris Speier, third baseman Dave Kingman, catcher Dave Rader and first baseman Willie McCovey. But their lack of pitching depth will hurt the Giants and probably doom them to a fifth-place finish.

Holding up the West, as usual, will be the San Diego Padres, who have slugger Nate Colbert and plenty of baseball babies.

There's some doubt about the Pittsburgh machine this year because of the absence of Roberto Clemente, considered by some to be the best all-around player in baseball in his time. The Pirates may miss the leadership of their veteran, killed in a plane crash on New Year's Eve, but still have enough brute strength to bully the East race for the fourth straight year.

The Chicago Cubs appear to be locked into second place this year—as they have been perennially. Despite the presence of 20-game winner Ferguson Jenkins and no-hit pitcher Milt Pappas, the Cubs' staff is not that deep and will probably be their downfall this year.

In New York, Tom Seaver and Jon Matlack are two solid starters on an otherwise questionable pitching staff. Rusty Staub is the leading hitter, but he doesn't hit too many home runs—and that is another Met problem. They failed to finish higher than third last year because of little long-ball punch and will no doubt fail to finish higher tha fourth this year for the dame reason.

Steve Carlton, the best pitcher in baseball last season, will have some help this year—and for that reason, the Philadelphia Phillies should move up a notch to fifth in the East. The Phillies made some savvy, offseason trades, bringing pitcher Jim Lonborg and infielder-outfielder Cesar Tovar to town.

Montreal's Expos, adored at home, will need all the love they can get this year. Despite the presence of some good young pitchers like Bill Stoneman, Mike Torrez and Mike Marshall, they'll have a hard enough time keeping up with the Phillies, much less the rest of the East.

Gary Nolan placed on disabled list

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Cincinnati Reds' pitcher Gary Nolan can be forgiven if he feels his aching arm is getting to be a pain in the neck.

Wednesday, the 24-year-old Reds' ace was placed on the disabled list for a minimum of 21 days.

A year ago, at the midway mark in the season, he seemed destined for his greatest year. A 13-2 record, a 1.81 earned run average and one of game's outstanding power teams supported the belief.

Today he's a dejected athlete. Once poised on the threshold of greatness, he's wondering when the arm will heal.

And that's not the only thing on his mind. His wife Carol is expecting their fourth child in a month — at a time when Nolan was counting on getting his seventh season with the Reds off to a fast start.

"Ive got to keep pitching to keep the groceries on the table and I've got to be able to look in the mirror in the morning and tell myself I've done all I could do," he said.

"I've always felt I've given my best," added Nolan, who finished with a 15-5 record after shoulder injuries sidelined him the last half of the 1972 season.

Nolan said the doctors believe, "Given proper treatment and a reasonable amount of time, it (his shoulder) should heal."

Nolan's disabled announcement wasn't the only bad news Wednesday for the Reds.

Tom Seaver of the New York Mets made it clear he was healthy again and ready to make life miserable for National League batters.

The Reds were the first to find out as Seaver, making his first varsity appearance in Grapefruit League play, allowed only two hits in a sixinning stint.

The Mets won 8-0, rudely treating Reds' pitcher Don Gullet, who took a 0.90 earned run average into the game.

The Reds face the Chicago White Sox today.

Defending kings nip Lions in SCOL debut

Defending South Central Ohio League champion Circleville pushed across a pair of runs in the top of the fifth inning to nudge a determined Washington C. H. team 3-2 Wednesday night in the league opener for both teams at the WSHS diamond.

It was the second consecutive setback for head coach Rodger Mickle's Washington C. H. team, which will tote a 1-3 all-games worksheet into a non-league bout with always-tough East Clinton tonight at the WSHS diamond.

Mark Johnson, a spunky righthander, turned in a sparkling pitching performance, despite being tagged with the loss. Johnson, a junior who also doubles as the Blue Lions' centerfielder, scattered only six hits in seven innings of mound duty.

MORE IMPORTANTLY, Johnson whiffed a total of 13 Circleville batters. He hurled only 175 pitches in the seven-inning stint and 75 of those were strikes.

Washington C. H., which received a fine performance from first-sacker Alan Coppock at the plate, jumped to a 1-0 lead in the first inning and Johnson protected the slender advantage until the fourth inning when the Pickaway Countians tied the score. In the fifth stanza, head coach Jim Lint's Tigers bunched two runs to grab a 3-1 advantage and Washington C. H. bounced back to score a lone tally in the sixth frame.

Coppock, a junior southpaw, cracked a double and a single to spark Washington C. H.'s four-hit offensive attack and now has six hits in 12 trips to the plate this season to pace the Blue Lion players. Junior infielder David Rittenhouse and leftfielder Duke Willis accounted for Washington C. H.'s only other hits.

Senior Greg Hoskins hurled five innings to pick up the win for Circleville. He was relieved by sophomore Phil Roll. The two Circleville pitchers combined to fan nine Blue Lion batters, while issuing only three passes..

Rock Davis, Circleville's stalwart third baseman, collected two hits in three trips to the plate and scored a run.

Knisley tops WCH award winners

Lion cage teams feted

Members of Washington C.H.'s basketball team were honored Wednesday night at the annual awards banquet held in the Washington Senior High School cafeteria.

Five special awards presented to four members of head coach Gary Shaffer's 10-9 Washington C.H. team, which finished second in the South Central Ohio League championship race, highlighted the program.

Kenny Knisley, a 6-foot-3 junior who fit nicely into Shaffer's scheme of things late in the season, topped the award winners as he captured the team's most improved player trophy and the leading field goal percentage shooter. Knisley connected on 55.4 per cent of his field goal attempts during the season.

Senior playmaker Chris Shaper was named the team's most outstanding defensive player and 6-foot-4 junior pivotman Jeff Wallace was Washington C.H.'s leading rebounder with a total of 129 bringdowns in 19 games.

Chuck Bath, a smooth-shooting 6-foot-1 senior forward, grabbed the team's top free throw percentage award. Bath, who tied with senior playmate Dick Witherspoon as the top point-maker and landed an All-SCOL second team berth, connected on 71.6 per cent of his free throw attempts, hitting 53 of 74.

The Blue Lion players unanimously agreed not to select a most outstanding player this season.

Shaffer, the fifth-year Lion taskmaster, said, "I was disappointed with our performance, but than again, I felt we played the way we were capable of playing."

Other varsity cagers feted were seniors Dick Witherspoon, Joe Downs, Albert Donahue, Jeff Downs, Mike Domenico and Doug Rudduck and juniors Tom Allen, Alan Coppock and Billy Shaw.

Also honored were manager Jeff Cash, trainers Don Smith and Doug Wheat and statisticians David Butterfield and John Huysman.

John Skinner, who led the Washington C.H. reserve team to a 9-8 all-games record and three-way tie in the SCOL race, honored members of the jayvee squad. They were Jeff Brown, Garth Cox, Cliff Dixon, Larry Dumford, Jeff Dunlap, Mark Essman, Larry Howell, Mark Johnson, Jerry Knisley, Frank Riley, Gary Scott, Mark Taylor, Kevin Terry, Jim Vess and Duke Willis.

Mrs. Nicola Eyre, cheerleader advisor at WSHS, presented awards to the varsity and reserve cheerleading squads. Varsity cheerleaders honored were Glenna Haithcock, Diana Kimmet, Cindy Mustine, Jacci Sagar, Annetta Smith and Jill Willis. Reserve cheerleaders recognized were Diana Brown, Karen Cook, Ima Darling, Teri Mount, Barb Oswald, Mary Ann Rudduck and Johnna Upthegrove.

A special feature of this year's program was the honoring of members of Coach Don Gibbs' 12-3 freshman basketball team. Players feted were Chuck Byrd, Ric Bondurant, Ed Dewees, Mark Fisher, Dewey Foster, Randy Gardner, Brian Haines, Randy Jamison, Mark Lamberson, Greg Marti, Tim O'Flynn, Kevin Pfeifer, Doug Phillips, Scott Sefton, Randy Sparkman and Bob Wilson. Others honored were managers Andy Merritt and Richard Haithcock, statistician and manager Doug McCune and Ron Palmer and the cheerleaders.

Athletic director Bob Bane welcomed the guests and assistant coach Vic Pontious delivered the invocation and benediction. A buffet style supper was served under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Knedler and Shaffer introduced special guests. A film showing the highlights of the Lion basketball season ended the program.

MT blanks Hillsboro, 3-0

Miami Trace, receiving a fine pitching performance from two hurlers and a tight defensive job, blanked Hillsboro 3-0 Wednesday night in the South Central Ohio League baseball opener for both teams at the MT diamond.

The slick-fielding Panthers, who were guilty of only one error in the opening game, turned in a total of 12 infield assists in registering their first victory of the campaign.

Sophomore righthander Tom Riley picked up the pitching victory as he hurled five innings of one-hit ball. Riley, who threw only 46 pitches in the five-inning mound stint, fanned one batter.

SENIOR DAVE Arnold relieved Riley and together the Panther hurlers did not yield a single base on balls. Arnold worked two innings, giving up only two hits while fanning four.

All-SCOL infielder Tony Grooms sparked a five-hit offensive attack for head coach Dave Pellior's Miami Trace team with a pair of singles.

In the first inning, Jeff Spears drew a walk, and Dan Jones sacrificed him to second. Riley's ground out moved the speedy centerfielder to third base and he scored a single by Grooms. A double by junior Randy Reiber scored a pair of runs for the Panthers in the fourth inning.

Miami Trace, which played a total of 15 boys in the contest, will travel to Wilmington for a SCOL contest Friday.

Dave Cowens named MVP

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Cowens, the Boston Celtics' mobile giant, outpolled Milwaukee superstar Kareem Abdul-Jabbar today and was named most valuable player in the National Basketball Association.

Abdul-Jabbar won the MVP award in both 1970-71 and 1971-72, but the 6-foot-9 Cowens stole the thunder of the Bucks' 7-foot-2 ace by leading the Celtics to a record victory total this season.

In a poll of NBA players, Cowens received 67 first place votes to 33 for Abdul-Jabbar. The Celtic speedster got 444 points to Jabbar's 339.

Cowens is averaging 21 points and 17 rebounds a game for a Celtic team which has already won more games than any in Boston's glorious NBA history.

Nate Archibald, the incredible 6-foot-1 performer of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, was a close third with 44 votes for first and a total of 319 points.

Los Angeles' 7-foot-1 Wilt Chamberlain, a four-time MVP, was a distant fourth with 12 first-place nominations and 123 total points.

Cowens' teammate at Boston, high-scoring John Havlicek, was fifth with five firsts and 88 points and Laker veteran Jerry West sixth with two votes for first and 70 points.

Cowens, a redhaired former Florida State University star, has brought unprecedented mobility into the center position in the NBA. His quickness and intensity has erased any size advantage the Kentuckian might have.

He is the first Celtic to become MVP since five-time honoree Bill Russell last won it in the 1964-65 season.

Taylor stays, starts out on recruiting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— With a salary raise in his pocket, Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor struck out today on what he termed "a vital year" for basketball recruiting for the Buckeyes.

The 48-year-old veteran of 15 Ohio State seasons chose Wednesday to remain in his same job, spurning an attractive Northwestern offer to succeed Brad Snyder.

An Ohio State source said Taylor turned down a multi-year Northwestern pact with a $5,000 yearly raise and numerous fringe benefits.

Taylor received an undisclosed raise over his $23,000 salary from Ohio State and will continue with one-year contracts, Athletic Director Ed Weaver said.

"It's a vital year for Ohio State recruiting," Taylor said after a press conference, "especially with the round robin of 18 games coming up for Big Ten schools in 1976."

The Buckeyes will lose their top two scorers from the team that posted a 14-10 mark last season. Graduation will take three-year regulars Allan Hornyak and Luke Witte.

Taylor said it's a fertile year for high school seniors in the state and said he would concentrate on Ohio talent again.

All Ann victorious at Lebanon Raceway

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—All Ann surprised the field with her third win in 14 starts Wednesday night in the $5,000 feature race at Lebanon Raceway.

The 8-1 shot jumped into an early lead and pulled away for a three-length victory. She paid $19.20, $7.60 and $4.

Steamin Jim was second and returned $4.20 and $3. Miracle Lee showed at $3.40.

Late entry Four Oaks Judge and Miss Duffy combined for a $43.40 daily double payoff.

Tom Seaver causes Mets dispute

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New Mets' pitching staff revolves around Tom Seaver and one of the issues in their spring training camp also revolves around Tom Seaver.

The issue: Should Seaver pitch as much as possible, despite the unhappy feelings of others?

"I'm going to pitch whenever the pitching coach and the manager put my name in the lineup," says Seaver.

Seaver pitched six innings of two-hit ball Wednesday as the Mets beat the Cincinnati Reds 8-0, but his brilliance didn't overshadow the issue recently brought to the surface by Jerry Koosman.

Koosman, the No. 4 starter on the staff, had complained about Seaver receiving preferential treatment.

Bob Scheffing, the Mets' general manager, stepped into the discussion rather forcefully Wednesday.

"Tom is going to pitch whenever he's ready," exclaimed Scheffing.

In the other exhibition games, the Oakland A's ripped the Chicago Cubs 13-3; the Chicago White Sox slugged the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0; the Boston Red Sox trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0; the Los Angeles Dodgers topped the Montreal Expos 5-3; the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the Atlanta Braves 2-1; the Kansas City Royals downed the Texas Rangers 8-2; the Milwaukee Brewers beat the San Diego Padres 9-4; the Houston Astros whipped the Detroit Tigers 4-2; the San Francisco Giants tripped the California Angels 3-2 in 11 innings and the Baltimore Orioles defeated the New York Yankees 4-3.

After Seaver pitched the first six innings, Phil Hennigan wrapped up the shutout with three scoreless frames. Cleon Jones walloped a three-run homer for the Mets.

Vida Blue made his first start since signing his 1973 baseball contract last Monday, but didn't stick around long enough to get the decision as Oakland walloped Chicago.

Wilbur Wood pitched seven scoreless innings, his longest stretch of the spring, as the Chicago White Sox whipped the Pirates. Rick Reichardt knocked in two runs for the winners.

Marty Pattin scattered five singles over seven innings and Boston capitalized on Bob Gibson's wildness to beat St. Louis.

Manny Mota and Lee Lacy collected three hits apiece and knocked in a total of three runs to lead the Dodgers over the Expos. Mota had three singles while Lacy collected a triple and two singles.

Bill Robinson, spoiling an intentional walk, swung at the fourth pitch and drove in the winning run with an eighth-inning single as Philadelphia nipped Atlanta.

Kansas City downed Texas as Ed Kirkpatrick and Amos Otis hit home runs; Don Money's three-run triple keyed a fiverun third inning for Milwaukee that carried the Brewers past San Diego; Doug Rader hit a homer to help Houston beat Detroit; Ken Berry dropped a fly ball with two out in the 11th inning, allowing the winning run to score as San Francisco defeated California and Mike Cuellar and Doyle Alexander combined to pitch Baltimore over the Yankees.

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Man has been making a mess of this planet we live on, a situation being documented by photographers around the world.

We pollute our waters with sewage, the earth with pesticides and the air with gaseous smoke and a poisonous fallout. Some day, some scientists gloomily predict, the earth will become unfit to live in . . . and it will be our own doing.

Photography plays a key role in educating people to prevent — or to delay — environmental disaster. Here in the United States, an Environmental Protection Agency has been established with a 10-year program to document the crisis photographically while finding solutions.

Project Documerica, as it's called, hires photographers around the country to record what is happening to our environment in six major areas: water, air, solid wastes, pesticides, noise and radiation. The photos are sorted and filed in Washington and are freely available for dissemination and study. Hopefully, when faced with specific images of peril, public reaction will find the solutions.

NOW ATTENTION is being forcused on another worldwide danger: the threat of extinction to more than 700 species of wild animals, and again photography's aid is being enlisted to cope with the problem.

An international conference, held recently in Washington, brought 300 participants from 100 nations to enact protective cooperative guidelines for endangered wildlife. To illustrate the crisis, a group of dramatic color photographs of endangered animals was presented to Secretary of Interior Rogers C. B. Morton, who opened the conference, for display during the three-week meeting.

At the conference's conclusion, many of the delegates visited New York City for a major photographic exhibit of "endangered Animals" at the Kodak Gallery. About 100 examples of animals facing extinction are displayed in life-size color photographs ranging from a two-by-three-inch Texas Blind Salamander to a nine-by-eight-foot Przewalski's Horse.

"The encroachment of civilization plus indiscriminate and illegal hunting have led to the serious plight facing these spécies," said Gerald B. Zornow, Kodak chairman of the board, in opening the exhibit. "It is our hope that by viewing these pictures and seeing how much of the animal kingdom is threatned, the public will become more informed about this critical problem and potential solutions."

THE SAN DIEGO Wild Animal Park is cited as an example of one of the solutions in the search for ways to preserve wild animal species. It provides enough acreage and protection to enable wild animals to live as they would in their own natural habitats.

The Zoological Society of San Diego gets credit for making it a successful venture and for its efforts to inform the public. It provided many of the pictures and also produced, jointly with Kodak, a movie about endangered wilflife which premiered at the gallery exhibition.

The film reports that to avert extinction, wild animal parks, zoological gardens, game reserves and national parks around the world have created the "islands of survival" to preserve and protect wild animals.

The U. S. Bureau of Wildlife, National Geographic Society and Bruce Coleman Inc., specialists in wild animal photography, also contributed pictures for the exhibition. In addition, there were seven separate movies which focused on Galapagos Island and African wildlife, and on the grizzly bear, polar bear, Mississippi alligator, brown pellican and the Hawaiian nene goose.

EACH EXHIBIT photograph has information about the species. We learn, for instance, that Przewalski's horse is the only existing species of true wild horse with only 50 to 80 remaining in the wild; it declined because civilization encroached on its grounds; there are 182 specimens in world zoos and they are descendants of six specimens imported into the U. S. in 1901, and that its breeding potential in captivity is good.

Then there is the California Condor with about 34 estimated remaining in the wild and only one in captivity; poachers and civilization caused its decline, and its breeding potential in captivity is considered poor.

Man's know-how and ingenuity is capable, with the use of photographs or blueprints, of rebuilding and restoring lost cities, buildings, bridges, machines or almost any object. But if and when a species of animal is lost through extinction, man is powerless to rebuild or restore that species. It is gone forever.

THAT IS the message as you look at the Siberian tiger, African cheetah, great Indian rhinoceros, Galapagos penguin, Nile crocodile, Spanish imperial eagle, Aleutian Canada goose, Florida sand hill crane and the American peregrine falcon. They and 700 others around the world are losing the numbers game.

Some photographic exhibitions are visually exciting or colorful or inspiring. Kodak's "Endangered Animals" is thought-provoking and grim. Hopefully the public can be made aware of the problem, as with our environmental crisis, and solutions can be found.

Ohio jail escapee shot in Milwaukee

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Milwaukee, Wis., police report that a man believed to be a Franklin County, Ohio, jail escapee was critically wounded in a shootout with a Milwaukee patrolman Wednesday night.

The wounded man was tentatively identified as Orville Leland Davis Jr., 30, of Milford, Ohio, who escaped from custody at Mt. Carmel Hospital here March 24. He had been taken to the hospital from the Franklin County Jail for treatment.

The Franklin County Sheriff's office said the identification was based on a description of the man and a sheriff's revolver found on him that was taken by Davis during his escape.

Milwaukee police said the man shot identified himself as Joseph Peters of Milwaukee.

The man was stopped by a Milwaukee Patrolman Gary Patulski after he allegedly tried unsuccessfully to abduct a motorist. Patulski, 33, received two gunshot wounds in the hands during the shootout and is in good condition in a Milwaukee hospital.

Davis is wanted in Ohio on several armed robbery charges and a charge of fleeing confinement.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Peanuts Dangerous for Kids

My 7-year-old daughter became terriby sick and it was found that she had a partial collapse of the lung. An emergency operation showed that she had inhaled a peanut into her lung. It was only after she got well that I was told by a neighbor that you had warned against this. I really believe that you should write about this again and spare others the terrible experience that we had.

Mrs. F. J., Ky.

Dear Mrs. J.:

I am indeed sorry that your child had aspirated or breathed a peanut into her lungs. You are fortunate that your doctors so readily made the diagnosis and extracted this foreign body. Too often, X-ray pictures of the lungs show a type of pneumonia whic overshadows the presence of the foreign body.

Many child, eating peanuts while laughing, running, and playing can inhale a nut. Unless they cough it up, the nut may lodge somewhere in the bronchial tubes.

Nuts are admittedly very nutritious. I do believe that they should be reserved, however, for children who are older and are sitting quietly while eating them.

What is the danger of sniffing cocaine? Is it any less dangerous than heroin? We were discussing this in my high school class and one of the boys said that sniffy cocaine is not an addiction.

T. Y., La.

Dear T.:

Is it any more dangerous to play Russian roulette with a .38 caliber gun than it is with a .22? Both can be deadly.

Similarly, cocaine and heroin are extremely dangerous drugs. Differences between them cannot be measured in percentages. The boy in your high school class who said that sniffing cocaine is not an addiction knows nothing about its dangers. Such "authorities" whose knowledge is based on total ignorance unwittingly expose themselves to the temptation of drugs.

Cocaine is a highly dangerous drug. In addition to the psychological changes which it can produce, it is also extremely destructive to the entire lining membrane of the nose.

I have seen patients whose septal wall that divides one side of the nose from the other is completely destroyed because of cocaine sniffing.

The greatest danger, of course, is the rapidity with which cocaine sniffers progress to the use of more destructive drugs. Useful, fruitful lives are sacrificed when one falls into the trap of trying any drug "for kicks." It is the ultimate hope that young people like you will learn the joys and rewards of living; joys that are infinitely more exciting and exhilarating than the drugs which leave catastrophe in their wake.

I perspire a great deal and get terrible redness and chafing under my arms and in my groin. What can be done about it?

Mr. V. M., Ga.

Dear Mr. M:

This chafing is known as intertrigo. Opposing skin surfaces become irritated, especially in warm weather and by moisture. Sometimes infection of the broken skin occurs. Special dusting powders and ointments are available. Some drugs too can control excessive perspiration.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Heart transplant pioneer Prof. Christian Barnard has become the first faculty member of the University of Cape Town to be named a full professor by ad hoc merit promotion Previously an honorary professor of surgical science, Prof. Barnard is now a full professor in the university's medical school.

Pyramid with doms

QUEBEC (AP) — A commercial center to be built here will be shaped like a pyramid with an illuminated dome. It will provide 180,000 square feet of office and store space. The $5 million project is expected to be completed later this year.

He's the greatest

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Describing a local boxer, the Pretoria News reported "the 30-year-old Pretorius, after a successful amateur career which included two South African titles, had 20 professional bouts of which he won 22."

Trucker unhurt in fiery crash

A Cincinnati truck driver escaped injury when his tractor-trailer rig, loaded with several hundred pounds of boneless beef, overturned and burned on northbound I-71, just north of the Greene County line, early Thursday.

Sheriff's deputies said Sabina firemen fought the stubborn blaze, fed by the ruptured fuel tanks on the cab, for more than an hour before it was finally extinguished.

Loss of the 1973 model tractor and load of beef is expected to amount to several thousand dollars.

According to sheriff's deputies, the driver of the truck, David P. Fryman, 28, apparently fell asleep at the wheel. Officers said the Fryman truck ran off the right side of the highway and sideswiped another disabled semi-rig parked off the roadway. The out-of-control truck continued on, ripping down 117 feet of guardrail before going over a steep embankment and overturning on its left side.

Officers said Fryman apparently managed to scramble from the cab before it burst into flames.

The other flatbed semi-rig, owned by Darwin L. Little, Millersburg, received extensive damage to the right side and undercarriage. It was not loaded at the time.

Fryman was cited for failure to drive upon the paved portion of the roadway. His rig was a total loss.

ONE DRIVER was cited and one person injured in two other traffic mishaps investigated Wednesday by city police.

Police said Ella M. Cline, 23, of 624 E. Paint St., was taken to Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries following a two-car crash in the intersection of Temple and Blackstone streets at 2:58 p.m.

She was released after treatment for head and back injuries.

Investigating officers said the Cline car was northbound on Blackstone and apparently ran the stop sign. The car pulled into the intersection and into the path of a westbound car driven by Dr. Hugh W. Payton, 50, of 416 Jupiter St. Mrs. Payton, a passenger in her husband's car was also taken to the emergency room for a checkup.

Both cars were extensively damaged. Mrs. Cline was cited for failure to yield right of way.

A car driven by Jerry A. Sears, 27, Rt. 5, and a pickup truck driven by Roy Killbarger Jr., 21, Rt. 2, Mount Sterling, were involved in a minor crash on the Hidy Foods lot. The mishap occurred at 9:06 p.m.

CPB funds being held

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has vowed to keep a tight rein on public-television money until New York and Washington productions cease to dominate national programming.

The position outlined to Congress Wednesday aroused fresh suggestions of political motives and directly contradicted public-broadcasting officials chosen by President Nixon.

The testimony by Clay T. Whitehead, director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy, also revived an argument Nixon won last year.

At issue is whether funds for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting should be appropriated for only one year or for a longer period.

In testimony before a Senate Communications subcommittee, CPB board chairman Thomas B. Curtis and president Henry Loomis argued for at least a two-year appropriation on grounds that planning, filming and editing TV programs often takes 18 months to two years.

The administration has conditioned its approval of long-term funding on legislation requiring the CPB to distribute a greater share of money to local stations.

Housewives spoiled?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation today lashed out at "spoiled housewives and consumers" for boycotting meat and demanding lower food prices.

"The very people who have had tremendous increases in wages over the last 20 years while farmers have had virtually no price increase are now trying to ruin the modest increase that has occured in the last few months," said federation President Leonard Schnell.

"If housewives think they will encourage farmers to produce more meat, milk and eggs by setting out to lower the farmer's income and at the same time demand more wages, they will be sadly surprised," Schnell said of the meat boycott.

The federation's 26 trustees also passed a resolution calling on the U.S. Department of Agriculture not to put grain acreage back into production, a move the Nixon administration says is designed to increase the food supply and lower prices.

"We are suggesting that our farmer think twice before planting the maximum of soybeans and corn," Schnell said, "with consumers threatening to boycott our products and world markets uncertain."

Water tank burns

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A lightning-caused fire caused an estimated $15,000 damage to the top of a sprinkler system water storage tank at the Early and Daniel Co. here today, fire officials said.

ITT hearing turns to firm's contact with government

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate probe of alleged efforts by International Telephone & Telegraph officials to influence the 1970 Chilean presidential election today focuses on ITT's contacts in high places in the federal government.

The Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee on multinational corporations Wednesday made public CIA testimony that Harold S. Geneen, ITT board chairman, offered a "substantial" fund in an effort to block the 1970 election of Chile's Marxist president, Salvador Allende. Allende won.

Summoned to testify today were Charles Meyer, former assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, and Viron Vaky, former Latin American adviser to Henry Kissinger. Geneen is scheduled to testify Monday.

Indian talks broken up by confusion

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — Two groups of leaders now claim they represent Indians occupying Wounded Knee, and federal officials must determine today which group should be involved in negotiations.

Negotiating sessions in Rapid City and near Wounded Knee failed to materialize Wednesday because Indian and federal negotiators could not agree on who was representing the group of militant Indians which has held this village since Feb. 27.

"We're in the process of trying to arrange a meeting in Pine Ridge," Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., said after a Rapid City session failed to bring progress toward resumption of peace talks.

"The meeting that was supposed to have come off Wednesday did not because the people that we had been told were representatives of people inside Wounded Knee were, in fact, not representing those people."

The scheduled meeting outside Wounded Knee was postponed, apparently because there was no agreement on who should be present.

A meeting did take place in the village late Wednesday between occupying Indians and six attorneys who were permitted to enter Wounded Knee under a federal court order.
